Letters of Appeal Will Go to Residents—Young Accepts Honorary Position

Owen D. Young of Van Hornesville, retired statesman and industrialist and advisor to presidents, has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the Heart Fund Appeal for New York state outside of New York city, it has been announced by Dr. Maurice A. Donovan, Schenectady, chairman of the New York Heart Assembly.

This is the first time Young, who organized the Radio Corporation of America and was formerly board chairman of General Electric Co., has been active in some years.

The Heart Fund appeal opened Feb. 1 and has a goal of $600,000 to be used in support of research, education and community service to combat heart disease.

Will Send Appeal Letters

Abram F. Molyneaux, general chairman of Ulster county, said today that letters of appeal will be mailed from the Heart Chapter office, 74 John street, during the first part of February. Heart containers will appear in various places throughout Kingston and in every township of the county.

They will be placed by various organizations in the city and by the following township chairmen in the county: Mrs. Harry Cole, Denning; Mrs. Ernest Ryan, Esopus; Floyd McKinstry, Gardiner; Mrs. Claude Haynes, Hardenburgh; Mrs. William McNamee, Hurley; Miss Cecelia Goldpaugh, Kingston; Mrs. Harriet Alexander, Lloyd; Vernon Barnhardt, Marbletown; Joseph J. Rossano, Marlborough; Mrs. Victor Landau, New Paltz; Mrs. Floyd Merrihew, Olive; Mrs. Edmund Wager, Plattekill; Mrs. Donald Schoonmaker, Rochester; Miss Norma Conklin, Rosendale; Mrs. Albert Giannotti, Saugerties; Mrs. George Bedell, Shandaken; Mrs. George Geyer, Shawangunk; Percy Bush, Ulster; Mrs. Harry Bessler, Wawarsing; Mrs. Birge Simmons, Woodstock.

Idle in Ulster Area Total 2,241, Report

A report from Albany today showed that of 321,500 in New York state out of work, 2,241 are in Ulster county.

The county's total last month was 718 above the 1,523 reported in January, 1953.

An Associated Press report from Albany said the state unemployment report showed that jobs are spread a little thinner this year than last, but there's plenty of high-level optimism."

The latest figures from the State Labor Department's Division of Employment show 321,500 New Yorkers were out of work at the end of last month, about 30 per cent more than the 218,000 jobless a year ago. Unemployment in the state reached its peak during the week ending Jan. 8, when 330,000 were without work.

Backs Up Statistics

An Associated Press survey of counties and big-city areas back up the department's statistics. More persons were out of jobs last month than at any time since the post World War 2 slump in 1949. Virtually nowhere in New York state is the current employment rate ahead of January, 1953. Some communities report a 100 per cent rise in the number of jobless.

But the unemployment rate has not approached that of the business recession after World War 2 when 589,000 New Yorkers were thrown out of work.

And most state employment directors and industrial concerns say it will not. State officials point to the slight upswing in employment from early January, 1954, to

Would Register Speeds of Buses

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP) — Gov. Dewey proposed today that permanent speed-recording devices be required on buses, "where such installation is in the public interest."

He said a permanent record would tend to cut down excessive speed and thereby reduce the number of highway accidents involving buses. Dewey, in a special message to the Legislature, recommended a law that would authorize the Public Service Commission to require installation of the speed recorders.

The governor said that "one of the familiar nightmares of ordinary motoring is the huge, long-distance bus driven at excessive speed without regard for the safety, rights or convenience of the other users of the highway."

Woman Stabbed In Middletown

Mother of 2 Boys Owned and Operated Tavern; Cash Stolen

Middletown, Feb. 5 (AP)—A 42-year-old widow was beaten and stabbed to death yesterday in a tavern she operated here. The bar is less than 500 feet from police headquarters.

Police said the victim, Mrs. Mary Terwilliger, mother of two sons, had been dead for several hours when her body was found in the locked bar about 6 p. m.

A booth had been upset and there were other signs of a struggle. Bloodstains led from the bar to a back room.

No Weapon Found

Authorities said the woman's skull was fractured and she had been stabbed 30 times. No weapon was found. The cash box was empty but a woman's purse containing about $100 was untouched —apparently overlooked.

Mrs. Terwilliger's late husband, a policeman, was killed several years ago in an auto accident.

The woman's assailant apparently escaped by breaking through a kitchen ventilator and onto a fire escape, eight feet above the sidewalk.

Mrs. Terwilliger's half-brother, Arthur Loopo, called police when he found the tavern locked and nobody answered his knocks on the door.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The position of the Treasury Feb. 3: Cash balance $4,542,560,244.69; budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $31,406,560,084.35; budget expenditures fiscal year $40,556,944,679.41; budget deficit $9,150,384,595.06; total debt (x) $274,837,713,844.87; gold assets $21,955,956,770.80. (x) Includes $560,558,909.01 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Adult Driving Class Is to Be Organized

A new driver training class for adults will be formed Monday, February 8, at 9:30 a. m. in Room V-108 of the new Vocational Building.

The class will meet on Mondays, from 3:30 to 5:30 for related instruction and then in groups of four on one other day of the week for behind-the-wheel instruction.

The first meeting for this class will be held Monday, February 8. There will be no 5:30-7:30 class during the winter months.

Inquiry Codes Presented To Legislative Committee

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—Codes for the conduct of legislative and executive inquiries were recommended by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's special Legislative Committee on Ethics in Government yesterday.

The codes, in general, would protect witnesses, giving them the right to counsel, permit accusers to be cross-examined and insure opportunity for reply before a derogatory statement is made public.

The New York State Bar Assn. offered an eight-point code it drew up two years ago. A city bar spokesman said his group's plan was virtually the same.

The American Jewish Congress added enforcement provision to the state bar's code. It suggested that the Rules Committee of the Legislature be empowered to investigate complaints of abuses by legislative probers and recommend penalties to the Legislature. The courts would get jurisdiction over violations by the executive agencies under this plan.

The American Civil Liberties Union supported the AJC plan.

Its spokesman, Herbert M. Levy, applauded the U. S. Senate Internal Security subcommittee for following fair procedures.

Municipal Judge Robert Morris, of New York, who formerly was

Soviets Try Rhine Push, Dulles Says

Secretary Feels Molotov Has Reasons to Be Afraid of Free Vote in Zone

Berlin, Feb. 5 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, denouncing the Russian plan for German unification, told the Berlin conference today Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov is trying to extend the Kremlin's power to the Rhine.

Dulles said Molotov had rejected a western plan for unification of Germany through free elections because he is afraid that the 18 million Germans in the Communist zone "would overwhelmingly reject" its present Red regime.

"Mr. Molotov has good reason to be afraid," the American minister said.

Dulles led off the western attack on the Molotov plan, which he said follows the "tragic pattern" by which the Soviet Union has spread Communist control over eastern Europe since the war.

Came 2 Weeks Ago

Dulles said Britain's Anthony Eden, France's Georges Bidault and he had come to Berlin two weeks ago hoping that solutions would be found to the problem of German unity in a conference which at the outset carried the promise of easing world tension.

But, he said, the Molotov program which the Russian minister put before the conference yesterday shows that "he has no intention of seriously seeking German unity with freedom."

"I would say to Mr. Molotov," Dulles declared, "that it is late, but not too late to redeem the promise of Berlin."

The cornerstone of the Russian program, Dulles said, is the Communist government of East Germany which he declared was put in office and kept there by Soviet power. It would have been "forcibly ejected" by the workers of East Germany last June, Dulles asserted, had it not been for "elements of 22 Soviet Divisions, including tanks and armored cars."

Refers to Rebellion

He referred to the workers' rebellion in which two million East Germans defied their government and the Russian occupation itself to show their resentment of Red rule.

The western delegations claimed Molotov had pierced his own bubble by insisting that Germany could be united only as a defenseless, neutralized nation in which Communists would hold high posts —ready for a final Red takeover later. But they wanted to make sure all this was spelled out for the public to understand clearly.

Conviction Upheld

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Appellate Division of State Supreme Court has unanimously upheld the bribery conviction of a Hudson gambler, but has left the way open for a reduction of the prison sentence. The court said yesterday that the 5-to-10-year sentence imposed a year ago on Benjamin Goldstein, 56-year-old taxi operator, "may be excessive." It gave attorneys until Feb. 10 to submit briefs on this point.

Award Is Challenged

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) today challenged the award of some defense production contracts overseas "at a time when we need to take up the employment slack in this country."

Insurance Group Hits Compulsion

Cure Held Much Worse Than Ailment About Auto Liability Plan of Governor

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP)—Compulsory automobile insurance—a proposal that Gov. Dewey expects will be adopted this year—was attacked today by insurance men as "a cure much worse than the ailment."

The administration plan was assailed by underwriters' groups at the first of two public hearings by the joint legislative committee on unsatisfied judgments.

Insurance spokesmen advanced their own plans, which they said would meet the problem of the uninsured driver.

The committee chairman, Republican Sen. William S. Hults Jr. of Nassau county, told the hearing that the "present safety responsibility law is inadequate to solve the problem."

Sponsor of Measure

He is the sponsor of the administration measure, which would compel all car-owners in the state to carry liability coverage.

A. C. Deisseroth of Syracuse, head of the legislative committee of the New York State Assn. of Insurance Agents Inc., described compulsory insurance as "a pig in a poke" and declared:

"Our state administration is attempting to sell a bill of goods with half truths and untruths."

He contended that mandatory coverage would not save lives or prevent any accidents. Yet, he said, the administration is "putting emphasis on a bounty for all this maiming and killing rather than on prevention of this tremendous toll of accidents."

Deisseroth maintained that compulsory insurance would be costly, inconvenient, inefficient, and "would lead to political ratemaking."

Complaint Cited

Referring to Massachusetts' compulsory insurance law, he argued that a similar statute here would make the public "claim-conscious," as insurance men in the neighboring state complain.

Bostonians, Deisseroth said, "have twice as many claims as any other city in America. They tend to sue each other with carefree abandon and charge every possible ill to some supposed traffic bump."

He urged adoption of a voluntary insurance plan, set up under a non-profit corporation. A large segment of the insurance industry is supporting the plan.

Spokesmen for the Insurance Brokers Assn. of the State of New York, Inc., declared that "when the state requires by law that a financial obligation be assumed in this respect, the state must eventually enter the automobile liability insurance business. This should never be permitted to come about."

Civil Service Exam

An examination for appointment to the position of student trainee, GS-3 and 4, has been announced by the Civil Service Commission. Students who receive appointments as a result of this examination will participate in special training programs requiring alternate periods of attendance at college and work in a federal agency. Salaries range from $2,950 to $3,175 per year. Information may be obtained at the Kingston Post Office. Applications must be received by Feb. 25, 1954.

Conforti Is Sentenced

Poughkeepsie, Feb. 5 (AP)—Michael Conforti, 39, a plasterer, was sentenced today to 15 to 30 years in Sing Sing prison in the fatal shooting last month of his wife, Josephine, mother of five children. Conforti was convicted last week in County Court of first degree manslaughter. During his trial, Conforti declared his wife had been unfaithful and that she was shot during a struggle over a gun. The state contended Conforti had grabbed the gun and shot her.

Lefties Less Confident

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—National Chairman Leonard W. Hall told fellow Republicans today "the left wing in America regards a depression as its one-way ticket to power," but that it talks less confidently now. The toning down Hall said was noticeable in Democratic and left wing predictions of Republican defeat in the 1954 congressional elections has been caused, he continued, by the legislative program President Eisenhower sent Congress.

Hoover Announces Force

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover has announced formation of a "task force" of leading businessmen to study federal government operations directly or indirectly providing the nation with such necessities as food, clothing and shelter. Hoover, chairman of the commission on organization of the executive branch of the government, yesterday announced the makeup of the study group—consisting of 13 leaders in food, marketing, and transportation industries.

State Plan Voted; One Is Negative

4th Ward Spokesman Against Traffic Spur; Carroll Asks 209 and Viaduct Study

The Ulster county board of supervisors Thursday evening joined with many organizations and the Kingston Common Council in approval of the Kingston City Arterial Route which has been proposed by the state to relieve the traffic situation in Kingston when the new Thruway is completed and when the new bridge across the Hudson just north of Kingston is completed.

Adoption of a resolution approving the general plan met with only one opposing vote, that of Supervisor Joseph J. Turck of the Fourth ward. He gave no reason.

Prior to approval of the resolution several supervisors spoke, among them Supervisor James J. Carroll of the Tenth ward who suggested that the chairman of the board, Robert F. Phinney, direct the clerk of the board to write a letter to the State Department of Public Works suggesting that there be included in the plan Hurley avenue and that section of Route 209 in the Washington avenue area affected by the viaduct and that the Washington avenue viaduct leading to the Onteora Trail and the Thruway be eliminated. Carroll said he was not opposed to the Arterial route plan in general but believed the attention of the state should be drawn now to the situation at the viaduct.

"I want to go along with the general plan," said Carroll.

Suggestion in Order

Jesse McHugh, majority leader, said that the plan proposed was a "flexible one" and the matter of final plans would develop later and additions to the plan then could be suggested. He said there was no harm, however in suggesting additions now as Carroll suggested.

Supervisor Martin of the 12th ward also said the general plan was acceptable but that later details could be discussed.

Changes View in Vote

Supervisor James P. Fiore of the fifth ward said he was against the proposition, it was being pushed too fast. He suggested action be delayed until the Thruway was completed and the bridge traffic known, then he believed traffic would be so diverted that the Arterial Route plan would not be needed. However, he voted for the approval on roll call.

Supervisor Gaffney also spoke in favor of the Carroll suggestion.

Letters were read from various organizations which have approved

Salary Schedule Asks $273,000 More

Education Board Releases Figures on Proposal of Teachers

The new salary schedule proposed by Kingston teachers would cost the city approximately $273,000 more in 1954-55 than in 1953-54, according to figures released by the board of education last night.

The board made no recommendation but released a copy of the report for publication. This will be published in Saturday's Freeman.

Pension Is Included

If the proposed schedule were adopted as set forth the total cost to the city would be $1,318,563.35 against $1,045,462.60 this school year, an increase of $273,100.75, the report stated. These figures include teacher retirement pension paid by the city.

A total of $58,951 of the $273,100.75 would be in "natural increment" and $214,149 in requested increase, according to figures submitted to the board by the finance committee headed by Robert B. O'Reilly.

The figure of $58,951.75 would increase the school tax rate by $1.79 per thousand and the figure of $214,149 would increase it by $6.52, a total increase of $8.31, according to the report.

Clarence S. Rowland, president of the board, said he felt the report should be published in its entirety and solicited public opinion to assist the board in reaching a decision.

Would Approach $40 Rate

The present school tax rate amounts to $22.52 per thousand. An increase of $8.31 would bring the total to $30.83. It was pointed out by the board that it would be possible under the proposed schedule to "hit a $40 tax rate." This increased rate would be approached as teachers rose into higher pay grades, it was explained.

The new schedule consists of 20 steps, four more than the present schedule.

The new schedule also provides for an additional $300 for each teacher with an MA degree. Under the present schedule a teacher receives only $200 for the MA degree.

According to the proposed schedule teacher would receive a $200 increment for each additional 15 hours credit above the MA degree or its equivalent (30 credits) up to a total of 60 credits.

The teachers also proposed that veterans who have not been given credit for years of military service as teaching years should be placed on the proper step on the new schedule by advancing them one step for every year of military service or major fraction thereof (six months or more) for which they have not received credit.

School Trustees Feel Salary Schedule Should Not Be Modified at Present Time

The question of teacher promotions on a merit basis was referred to city corporation counsel last night by the Kingston Board of Education.

The board took action following receipt of a letter from the teacher's advisory committee on promotional increments denying that the board could change the system of teacher promotion from an automatic to a merit basis.

Two Steps at Issue

The promotions at issue are those from Step 12 to 13 and Step 15 to 16. All the rest are automatic by state law.

A total of 120 teachers are now on Step 12. None are on Step 15.

It was the consensus of the board that no action could be taken at this time which would modify the salary schedule now in effect. It was the feeling of the board that the present schedule must be considered automatic but it took sharp exception to teacher implication that its hands were tied indefinitely in the matter.

In its communication to the board the teacher's advisory committee charged that failure to establish standards of promotion by

Youth Confesses Part in Robbery

Brown Says Zanke Admits He Was Participant in Paltz Theft

What might prove to be the first real "break" in the investigation of three safe cracking jobs reported in this county last November came to light today with the claim by authorities that a youth now in custody in Orange county has allegedly admitted a part in one of the Ulster county thefts.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown of the sheriff's department reported this morning that Kurt F. Zanke, 19, of Newburgh, who faces charges of burglary in Orange county and at Concord, N. H. has admitted his part in the alleged theft of about $1,000 in cash from a safe at the Huguenot Motor Sales Company office in New Paltz on Nov. 1.

Brown said that Zanke, during questioning, had implicated another person, whom Brown did not identify.

To Be Questioned

With Zanke now in custody in Orange county, it is expected that Kingston police department detectives, will question him further regarding the reported theft of

Teachers Request Board Name Permanent Principal in Order To Establish KHS Authority

The presidents of Kingston's two teacher associations have requested the Board of Education to name a permanent principal for Kingston High School this year "in order to give a sense of security and direction to the members of the teaching staff."

The request was contained in a letter to the Board, signed by Alexander Banyo as president of the Kingston Teachers' Association, and Richard H. Mason, president of the Kingston Teachers' Federation. It was submitted to the board but not read at last night's open session of the Board of Education.

The letter, it is believed, was discussed during one of the executive—or closed—sessions of the board, which preceded and followed the regular meeting.

Mason told The Freeman, emphatically, this morning, that the letter was intended merely as a suggested guide to be applied to any applicant for the principalship. He and Banyo, as signers of the letter, stated that a report broadcast this morning was "incorrect" in its implication that the teachers were opposed to Acting Principal Theron L. Culver.

They said in a statement this morning that it was the desire of the two teacher organizations merely to get a permanent principal, "whether it be Mr. Culver or anyone else."

The letter submitted to the Board of Education listed eight points "to give the Board members some idea of what the teachers expect to find in a can-

Bricker Amendment to Wait Week at Least, Is Ruling

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Senate Republican leader Knowland of California said today there will be no key test votes on the Bricker amendment dealing with treaty powers until Feb. 16 or later.

The hotly controversial issue is being put aside to simmer all next week while the Senate turns to other matters with lower emotional content.

Knowland told newsmen he thought the delay would be healthy in giving the country a chance to be heard from further.

Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) author of the original proposal fought determinedly by President Eisenhower, appealed to his followers to make known their backing for a modified plan he unveiled yesterday.

This revised proposal makes big concessions but still is far more sweeping than anything the administration has indicated it would accept.

Knowland had been trying to dispose of the Bricker proposal this week. It has been before the Senate for two weeks of debate while repeated efforts were made — without success — to compromise.

Knowland said in advance of today's session it might be possible to adopt two minor amend-

Adult Driving Class Is to Be Organized

A new driver training class for adults will be formed Monday, February 8, at 9:30 a. m. in Room V-108 of the new Vocational Building.

The class will meet on Mondays, from 3:30 to 5:30 for related instruction and then in groups of four on one other day of the week for behind-the-wheel instruction.

The first meeting for this class will be held Monday, February 8. There will be no 5:30-7:30 class during the winter months.

Insurance Group Hits Compulsion

Cure Held Much Worse Than Ailment About Auto Liability Plan of Governor

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP)—Compulsory automobile insurance—a proposal that Gov. Dewey expects will be adopted this year—was attacked today by insurance men as "a cure much worse than the ailment."

The administration plan was assailed by underwriters' groups at the first of two public hearings by the joint legislative committee on unsatisfied judgments.

Insurance spokesmen advanced their own plans, which they said would meet the problem of the uninsured driver.

The committee chairman, Republican Sen. William S. Hults Jr. of Nassau county, told the hearing that the "present safety responsibility law is inadequate to solve the problem."

Sponsor of Measure

He is the sponsor of the administration measure, which would compel all car-owners in the state to carry liability coverage.

A. C. Deisseroth of Syracuse, head of the legislative committee of the New York State Assn. of Insurance Agents Inc., described compulsory insurance as "a pig in a poke" and declared:

"Our state administration is attempting to sell a bill of goods with half truths and untruths."

He contended that mandatory coverage would not save lives or prevent any accidents. Yet, he said, the administration is "putting emphasis on a bounty for all this maiming and killing rather than on prevention of this tremendous toll of accidents."

Deisseroth maintained that compulsory insurance would be costly, inconvenient, inefficient, and "would lead to political ratemaking."

Complaint Cited

Referring to Massachusetts' compulsory insurance law, he argued that a similar statute here would make the public "claim-conscious," as insurance men in the neighboring state complain.

Bostonians, Deisseroth said, "have twice as many claims as any other city in America. They tend to sue each other with carefree abandon and charge every possible ill to some supposed traffic bump."

He urged adoption of a voluntary insurance plan, set up under a non-profit corporation. A large segment of the insurance industry is supporting the plan.

Spokesmen for the Insurance Brokers Assn. of the State of New York, Inc., declared that "when the state requires by law that a financial obligation be assumed in this respect, the state must eventually enter the automobile liability insurance business. This should never be permitted to come about."

Civil Service Exam

An examination for appointment to the position of student trainee, GS-3 and 4, has been announced by the Civil Service Commission. Students who receive appointments as a result of this examination will participate in special training programs requiring alternate periods of attendance at college and work in a federal agency. Salaries range from $2,950 to $3,175 per year. Information may be obtained at the Kingston Post Office. Applications must be received by Feb. 25, 1954.

Conforti Is Sentenced

Poughkeepsie, Feb. 5 (AP)—Michael Conforti, 39, a plasterer, was sentenced today to 15 to 30 years in Sing Sing prison in the fatal shooting last month of his wife, Josephine, mother of five children. Conforti was convicted last week in County Court of first degree manslaughter. During his trial, Conforti declared his wife had been unfaithful and that she was shot during a struggle over a gun. The state contended Conforti had grabbed the gun and shot her.

Lefties Less Confident

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—National Chairman Leonard W. Hall told fellow Republicans today "the left wing in America regards a depression as its one-way ticket to power," but that it talks less confidently now. The toning down Hall said was noticeable in Democratic and left wing predictions of Republican defeat in the 1954 congressional elections has been caused, he continued, by the legislative program President Eisenhower sent Congress.

Hoover Announces Force

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover has announced formation of a "task force" of leading businessmen to study federal government operations directly or indirectly providing the nation with such necessities as food, clothing and shelter. Hoover, chairman of the commission on organization of the executive branch of the government, yesterday announced the makeup of the study group—consisting of 13 leaders in food, marketing, and transportation industries.

Inquiry Codes Presented To Legislative Committee

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—Codes for the conduct of legislative and executive inquiries were recommended by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's special Legislative Committee on Ethics in Government yesterday.

The codes, in general, would protect witnesses, giving them the right to counsel, permit accusers to be cross-examined and insure opportunity for reply before a derogatory statement is made public.

The New York State Bar Assn. offered an eight-point code it drew up two years ago. A city bar spokesman said his group's plan was virtually the same.

The American Jewish Congress added enforcement provision to the state bar's code. It suggested that the Rules Committee of the Legislature be empowered to investigate complaints of abuses by legislative probers and recommend penalties to the Legislature. The courts would get jurisdiction over violations by the executive agencies under this plan.

The American Civil Liberties Union supported the AJC plan.

4th Ward Spokesman Against Traffic Spur; Carroll Asks 209 and Viaduct Study

The Ulster county board of supervisors Thursday evening joined with many organizations and the Kingston Common Council in approval of the Kingston City Arterial Route which has been proposed by the state to relieve the traffic situation in Kingston when the new Thruway is completed and when the new bridge across the Hudson just north of Kingston is completed.

Adoption of a resolution approving the general plan met with only one opposing vote, that of Supervisor Joseph J. Turck of the Fourth ward. He gave no reason.

Prior to approval of the resolution several supervisors spoke, among them Supervisor James J. Carroll of the Tenth ward who suggested that the chairman of the board, Robert F. Phinney, direct the clerk of the board to write a letter to the State Department of Public Works suggesting that there be included in the plan Hurley avenue and that section of Route 209 in the Washington avenue area affected by the viaduct and that the Washington avenue viaduct leading to the Onteora Trail and the Thruway be eliminated. Carroll said he was not opposed to the Arterial route plan in general but believed the attention of the state should be drawn now to the situation at the viaduct.

"I want to go along with the general plan," said Carroll.

Suggestion in Order

Jesse McHugh, majority leader, said that the plan proposed was a "flexible one" and the matter of final plans would develop later and additions to the plan then could be suggested. He said there was no harm, however in suggesting additions now as Carroll suggested.

Supervisor Martin of the 12th ward also said the general plan was acceptable but that later details could be discussed.

Changes View in Vote

Supervisor James P. Fiore of the fifth ward said he was against the proposition, it was being pushed too fast. He suggested action be delayed until the Thruway was completed and the bridge traffic known, then he believed traffic would be so diverted that the Arterial Route plan would not be needed. However, he voted for the approval on roll call.

Supervisor Gaffney also spoke in favor of the Carroll suggestion.

Letters were read from various organizations which have approved

Salary Schedule Asks $273,000 More

Education Board Releases Figures on Proposal of Teachers

The new salary schedule proposed by Kingston teachers would cost the city approximately $273,000 more in 1954-55 than in 1953-54, according to figures released by the board of education last night.

The board made no recommendation but released a copy of the report for publication. This will be published in Saturday's Freeman.

Pension Is Included

If the proposed schedule were adopted as set forth the total cost to the city would be $1,318,563.35 against $1,045,462.60 this school year, an increase of $273,100.75, the report stated. These figures include teacher retirement pension paid by the city.

A total of $58,951 of the $273,100.75 would be in "natural increment" and $214,149 in requested increase, according to figures submitted to the board by the finance committee headed by Robert B. O'Reilly.

The figure of $58,951.75 would increase the school tax rate by $1.79 per thousand and the figure of $214,149 would increase it by $6,52, a total increase of $8.31, according to the report.

Clarence S. Rowland, president of the board, said he felt the report should be published in its entirety and solicited public opinion to assist the board in reaching a decision.

Would Approach $40 Rate

The present school tax rate amounts to $22.52 per thousand. An increase of $8.31 would bring the total to $30.83. It was pointed out by the board that it would be possible under the proposed schedule to "hit a $40 tax rate." This increased rate would be approached as teachers rose into higher pay grades, it was explained.

The new schedule consists of 20 steps, four more than the present schedule.

An additional $300 for each teacher with an MA degree. Under the present schedule a teacher receives only $200 for the MA degree.

According to the proposed schedule teacher would receive a $200 increment for each additional 15 hours credit above the MA degree or its equivalent (30 credits) up to a total of 60 credits.

The teachers also proposed that veterans who have not been given credit for years of military service as teaching years should be placed on the proper step on the new schedule by advancing them one step for every year of military service or major fraction thereof (six months or more) for which they have not received credit.

School Trustees Feel Salary Schedule Should Not Be Modified at Present Time

The question of teacher promotions on a merit basis was referred to city corporation counsel last night by the Kingston Board of Education.

The board took action following receipt of a letter from the teacher's advisory committee on promotional increments denying that the board could change the system of teacher promotion from an automatic to a merit basis.

Two Steps at Issue

The promotions at issue are those from Step 12 to 13 and Step 15 to 16. All the rest are automatic by state law.

A total of 120 teachers are now on Step 12. None are on Step 15.

It was the consensus of the board that no action could be taken at this time which would modify the salary schedule now in effect. It was the feeling of the board that the present schedule must be considered automatic but it took sharp exception to teacher implication that its hands were tied indefinitely in the matter.

In its communication to the board the teacher's advisory committee charged that failure to establish standards of promotion by

Brown Says Zanke Admits He Was Participant in Paltz Theft

What might prove to be the first real "break" in the investigation of three safe cracking jobs reported in this county last November came to light today with the claim by authorities that a youth now in custody in Orange county has allegedly admitted a part in one of the Ulster county thefts.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown of the sheriff's department reported this morning that Kurt F. Zanke, 19, of Newburgh, who faces charges of burglary in Orange county and at Concord, N. H. has admitted his part in the alleged theft of about $1,000 in cash from a safe at the Huguenot Motor Sales Company office in New Paltz on Nov. 1.

Brown said that Zanke, during questioning, had implicated another person, whom Brown did not identify.

To Be Questioned

With Zanke now in custody in Orange county, it is expected that Kingston police department detectives, will question him further regarding the reported theft of

Teachers Request Board Name Permanent Principal in Order To Establish KHS Authority

The presidents of Kingston's two teacher associations have requested the Board of Education to name a permanent principal for Kingston High School this year "in order to give a sense of security and direction to the members of the teaching staff."

The request was contained in a letter to the Board, signed by Alexander Banyo as president of the Kingston Teachers' Association, and Richard H. Mason, president of the Kingston Teachers' Federation. It was submitted to the board but not read at last night's open session of the Board of Education.

The letter, it is believed, was discussed during one of the executive—or closed—sessions of the board, which preceded and followed the regular meeting.

Mason told The Freeman, emphatically, this morning, that the letter was intended merely as a suggested guide to be applied to any applicant for the principalship. He and Banyo, as signers of the letter, stated that a report broadcast this morning was "incorrect" in its implication that the teachers were opposed to Acting Principal Theron L. Culver.

They said in a statement this morning that it was the desire of the two teacher organizations merely to get a permanent principal, "whether it be Mr. Culver or anyone else."

The letter submitted to the Board of Education listed eight points "to give the Board members some idea of what the teachers expect to find in a can-

Bricker Amendment to Wait Week at Least, Is Ruling

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Senate Republican leader Knowland of California said today there will be no key test votes on the Bricker amendment dealing with treaty powers until Feb. 16 or later.

The hotly controversial issue is being put aside to simmer all next week while the Senate turns to other matters with lower emotional content.

Knowland told newsmen he thought the delay would be healthy in giving the country a chance to be heard from further.

Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) author of the original proposal fought determinedly by President Eisenhower, appealed to his followers to make known their backing for a modified plan he unveiled yesterday.

This revised proposal makes big concessions but still is far more sweeping than anything the administration has indicated it would accept.

Knowland had been trying to dispose of the Bricker proposal this week. It has been before the Senate for two weeks of debate while repeated efforts were made — without success — to compromise.

Knowland said in advance of today's session it might be possible to adopt two minor amend-

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Carl C. Maisenhelder who passed away February 5, 1951 at Albany, New York.

It was a Saturday then
Three long years ago
When you closed your eyes in everlasting sleep.
Knew you not, when you left me, that my heart were doomed to forever weep?
For time cannot and never will heal the wound your parting from me left.
So each day I lift my heart to God in Silent Prayer and bow my head in reverence to your memory.

EMILY.

Faith in our God and Loyalty to our flag will continue to preserve our freedom.

Ailing Pontiff at Recent Appearance

Pope Pius XII, shown at a Vatican audience two weeks ago just prior to his latest illness, was still confined Feb. 3 as a sense of heightened worry appeared evident in Vatican circles. The lack of fresh and specific news on the Pontiff's health caused considerable speculation on his condition, previously described as nervous indigestion which brought on hiccoughing spells. Pope Pius XII will be 78 on March 2. (AP Wirephoto).

Eyes Are Control

East Point, Ga. (AP)—When a 2-year-old was lifted into a barber's chair for his first haircut he immediately started screaming lustily while the other customers looked uncomfortable. Barber John Orr leaned over, whispered in the boy's ear and the howls stopped abruptly and stayed stopped. An amazed reporter who saw the feat asked Orr what sort of threat or entreaty he used. None said Orr, explaining: "All I do is whisper, 'close your eyes so I won't get hair in them." No child can cry with his eyes closed."

Attends School by Phone

Prescott, Ariz. (AP)—A private telephone line puts Laura Jo Bush right in her ninth-grade classroom, even though she's abed at home with asthma. Her principal, Willard Fetterhoff, says the line enables Laura Jo to recite for her teachers. She can hear other class discussion and the next day's assignments. She gets good grades, he said, and isn't lonely.

Engineer Killed In B. & O. Wreck

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 5 (AP)—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad's St. Louis-New York flyer, the National Limited, sideswiped a freight train five miles south of Wilmington today, derailing 10 of the 13 passenger cars.

A B&O spokesman in Baltimore said the engineer of the shifter freight train, W. A. Jackson, of Philadelphia, was killed and six train crewmen were hurt, but no passengers were injured.

The railroad men hurt were listed as three workers in a baggage car, a brakeman, a mechanic and a cook.

Wilmington general hospital said it had received six accident cases from the wreck, all railroad personnel, none was seriously injured.

The national limited was due in Wilmington approximately 10 minutes after the collision, about 9:45 a. m.

All Cars Upright

All the cars of the passenger train remained upright. A fire that followed the crash in the diesel engine of the National Limited was extinguished quickly.

Passengers from the wrecked train were transferred to the Capitol Limited which reached the scene a little more than an hour later and were brought into Wilmington.

The wreckage blocked both main line tracks at the point near Elsmere, Del., not far from a big General Motors Corp. assembly plant.

The Capitol Limited and other trains were routed around the scene on side tracks. The B&O said there would be no serious traffic delays.

January Permits Total $26,135

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy issued 14 permits for building alterations and repairs here in January at an estimated total cost of $26,135.

This was $79,932 under the total for December, 1953, when the chief issued 23 permits at a total estimated cost of $106,067.

Of the permits issued last month one was for a dwelling at $9,900, another for a shed at $200, three were for alterations, additions and repairs on residential buildings at $7,500 and four for the same purposes on non-residential structures at $5,035.

One permit was issued for a fire escape at $700 and four for oil tanks and burners at $2,800.

Late Bulletin

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The House Postoffice Committee today approved a 245-million dollar boost in postal rates. It calls for an increase of one cent for ailmail letters and a 30 per cent rise in mailing costs on newspapers and magazines, along with a one-cent rise on non-local first class letters.

Nine Convicts Are Loose in Alabama

Atmore, Ala., Feb. 5 (AP)—Nine desperate convicts escaped through a tunnel under Atmore Prison last night and are still free despite an all-night search by a posse with shoot-to-kill instructions.

Heavily-armed lawmen, led by bloodhounds, concentrated on an area five miles south of the prison and were reported close behind the fleeing criminals.

The tunnel under the prison is used for electrical equipment running between the prison and a powerhouse outside the fence. An employe found the tunnel door in the powerhouse open and notified guards.

All the desperadoes are long-termers who had been placed in a special security cell block. It is not known if any are armed.

L. A. Strubble, deputy Alabama prison commissioner, said the dogs picked up the trail soon after the daring break about 8:30 (CST) last night. But the convicts kept a jump ahead of their pursuers all night and the manhunt continued in high gear after dawn.

They jimmied a door leading from the security block into the tunnel, and got by two other doors before emerging in the prison powerhouse 25 feet beyond the fence.

Competition Predicted

Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—A terrific race" among competitive service stations for the motorists' dollar is forecast by the sales promotion manager of Continental Oil Co. J. J. ## Physician Reports Pope Is Weakening

Vatican City, Feb. 5 (AP)—Pope Pius' difficulty in taking food has continued to weaken him, said the first official bulletin issued on his condition today by his private physician.

The bulletin, issued by Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, said it is hoped "as soon as possible to repeat particular X-ray examinations to determine the condition both of the (Pope's) gastric area as well as of other organs in that area."

The bulletin said that "since Jan. 25, the Holy Father has showed, together with a light fever, symptoms of gastritis, preceded by insistent hiccups."

"Objective clinical examinations," it added, "excluded any other peritoneal (abdominal lining) reaction whatsoever and laboratory examinations resulted normal (excluding the possibility of an abnormal amount of nitrogen in the blood or of cardiac lesions.)"

The bulletin said the 77-year-old Pope has continued to weaken.

"The general state, weakened by excessive, prolonged labor, both mental and physical, has suffered a further weakening because of the fatiguing gastric disturbance and the difficulty of feeding."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 5 (AP) — The stock market started higher with a rush today and then simmered down quietly.

Trading at the start was so heavy that the ticker fell behind a couple of minutes in reporting actual floor transactions. The congestion soon cleared.

With the big rush of overnight orders out of the way, the market turned quiet and began to back down from its best. Minus signs gradually appeared in key sections of the list.

Gains and losses spread out over a range of around a point either way with the plus signs holding a slight edge.

Key divisions such as the rails, oils, and steels were higher. The motors displayed considerable backwardness, and there was a lot of hesitancy in the chemicals.

Youth Confesses

about $1,800 in cash from the Martin-Moran garage safe on East Chester street, Kingston, on Nov. 22.

State police of the Ellenville station are also expected to question Zanke on the reported theft of about $1,000 from Van Gorder's garage on Route 209 near Ellenville on Nov. 8.

Zanke was arrested at Concord, N. H., on December 20, where he was accused of breaking into two safes at a Concord garage. He was captured at gun point after Patrolman Charles Burke spotted the young man in the garage, while Burke was making his early Sunday rounds. According to the report from Concord on that date, Zanke at first refused to leave the garage, but when police prepared to hurl tear gas bombs into the building, he gave himself up.

Held in $2,000 Bail

In court, Zanke was ordered held in $2,000 bail for the April term of Superior Court.

He was brought back to Newburgh on Tuesday of this week by state police of Middletown, where a burglary charge was placed against him, and his case there was referred to the Orange county grand jury.

Ulster County Investigator Brown also announced today that through the cooperation of state police of Troop K, New Windsor, and Newburgh police, he had recovered considerable part of too's reported stolen June 28 last year from the Ashokan Garage, of which Herman Wendt is the proprietor.

Says City Drowned

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner says that the city's voice in its own affairs is drowned out by the rest of the state. Wagner spoke last night at a $50-a-plate victory dinner of the New York County (Tammany Hall) Organization. Besides attacking the state administration of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for, he said, permitting upstate communities to "dictate" to the city, Wagner accused the national GOP of "broken" promises.

Idle in Ulster Area

late in the month. Businessmen point to predictions by some economists that 1954 will be the "second best business year ever"—1953 was the best.

No Further Decline

John McConnell, professor of industrial and labor relations at Cornell University, said he anticipated "no further decline" in the number of unemployed in the state.

"It is not the actual number of unemployed which is alarming," he declared, "It is the trend in employment opportunity which causes concern.

The professor advised that "strong efforts" to maintain business and worker confidence in the government will prevent large-scale unemployment. "Fear alone can bring on a business collapse," he warned.

The state employment division has said that New York is experiencing a "business letdown" but, it adds, not a serious one. "The facts seem to indicate a year of consolidation ahead. Signs are that it will be a good year," it says.

Auto Kills Dog

Mrs. David Whispell, of 86 Bruyn avenue, reported to The Freeman today that the family's white Semenede dog was struck and killed last night by a car the driver of which failed to stop. A neighborhood youngster, who saw the mishap, she said, reported that it happened at about 6:50 p. m., on O'Neil street near Bruyn avenue. The dog, she said, had been the pet of several children in the family.

Asks Global Policy

Chicago, Feb. 5 (AP)—President Bayar of Turkey today proposed the 14-nation NATO alliance follow a "global policy" and draw into its orbit "other peace loving countries of the world." His suggestion to "enlarge" the postwar North Atlantic Treaty Organization was made in a major address as he toured the country as an official guest of the U. S. government.

Bricker Amendment to Wait

ments to the Bricker proposal at this afternoon's session. But he added there will be no important political tests until week after next.

The week's delay is forced by the plans of many GOP senators to leave Washington for Lincoln Day speeches next week.

Meanwhile, Sen. George (D-Ga.) said in an interview that, whatever the final fate of the Bricker amendment, the debate on it will bring much closer scrutiny of treaties than ever before.

Presidents undoubtedly will be more careful about treaties they submit to the Senate as a result of the row stirred up by the Ohioan's proposed amendment, George said.

And, he went on, "an unfortunate by-product" probably will be that it will be more difficult to get pacts ratified by the Senate, once called "the graveyard of treaties."

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), a strong foe of the Bricker amendment, said in a speech last night he was convinced that out of "the heat and yes, the bitterness (of the dispute) will come a stronger America."

One important result already, he said, is "the bold, courageous and brilliant re-assertion of leadership" on the part of President Eisenhower. The President has stated his opposition at a number of news conferences and wrote Knowland that he was unalterably against it in the original form.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Carl C. Maisenhelder who entered Eternal life, February 5, 1951.

Jesus said, "I am the Resurrection, and the Life:
He that believeth in Me,
Though he were dead, yet shall he live, and Whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die."
John 11:25-26.

EMILY

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Carl C. Maisenhelder who passed away February 5, 1951 at Albany, New York.

It was a Saturday then
Three long years ago
When you closed your eyes in everlasting sleep.
Knew you not, when you left me, that my heart were doomed to forever weep?
For time cannot and never will heal the wound your parting from me left.
So each day I lift my heart to God in Silent Prayer and bow my head in reverence to your memory.

EMILY.

Faith in our God and Loyalty to our flag will continue to preserve our freedom.

Ailing Pontiff at Recent Appearance

Pope Pius XII, shown at a Vatican audience two weeks ago just prior to his latest illness, was still confined Feb. 3 as a sense of heightened worry appeared evident in Vatican circles. The lack of fresh and specific news on the Pontiff's health caused considerable speculation on his condition, previously described as nervous indigestion which brought on hiccoughing spells. Pope Pius XII will be 78 on March 2. (AP Wirephoto).

Eyes Are Control

East Point, Ga. (AP)—When a 2-year-old was lifted into a barber's chair for his first haircut he immediately started screaming lustily while the other customers looked uncomfortable. Barber John Orr leaned over, whispered in the boy's ear and the howls stopped abruptly and stayed stopped. An amazed reporter who saw the feat asked Orr what sort of threat or entreaty he used. None said Orr, explaining: "All I do is whisper, 'close your eyes so I won't get hair in them." No child can cry with his eyes closed."

Attends School by Phone

Prescott, Ariz. (AP)—A private telephone line puts Laura Jo Bush right in her ninth-grade classroom, even though she's abed at home with asthma. Her principal, Willard Fetterhoff, says the line enables Laura Jo to recite for her teachers. She can hear other class discussion and the next day's assignments. She gets good grades, he said, and isn't lonely.

Engineer Killed In B. & O. Wreck

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 5 (AP)—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad's St. Louis-New York flyer, the National Limited, sideswiped a freight train five miles south of Wilmington today, derailing 10 of the 13 passenger cars.

A B&O spokesman in Baltimore said the engineer of the shifter freight train, W. A. Jackson, of Philadelphia, was killed and six train crewmen were hurt, but no passengers were injured.

The railroad men hurt were listed as three workers in a baggage car, a brakeman, a mechanic and a cook.

Wilmington general hospital said it had received six accident cases from the wreck, all railroad personnel, none was seriously injured.

The national limited was due in Wilmington approximately 10 minutes after the collision, about 9:45 a. m.

All Cars Upright

All the cars of the passenger train remained upright. A fire that followed the crash in the diesel engine of the National Limited was extinguished quickly.

Passengers from the wrecked train were transferred to the Capitol Limited which reached the scene a little more than an hour later and were brought into Wilmington.

The wreckage blocked both main line tracks at the point near Elsmere, Del., not far from a big General Motors Corp. assembly plant.

The Capitol Limited and other trains were routed around the scene on side tracks. The B&O said there would be no serious traffic delays.

January Permits Total $26,135

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy issued 14 permits for building alterations and repairs here in January at an estimated total cost of $26,135.

This was $79,932 under the total for December, 1953, when the chief issued 23 permits at a total estimated cost of $106,067.

Of the permits issued last month one was for a dwelling at $9,900, another for a shed at $200, three were for alterations, additions and repairs on residential buildings at $7,500 and four for the same purposes on non-residential structures at $5,035.

One permit was issued for a fire escape at $700 and four for oil tanks and burners at $2,800.

Although a neutral nation during World War 1, Norway suffered the second largest loss of merchant vessels, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Late Bulletin

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The House Postoffice Committee today approved a 245-million dollar boost in postal rates. It calls for an increase of one cent for airmail letters and a 30 per cent rise in mailing costs on newspapers and magazines, along with a one-cent rise on non-local first class letters.

Nine Convicts Are Loose in Alabama

Atmore, Ala., Feb. 5 (AP)—Nine desperate convicts escaped through a tunnel under Atmore Prison last night and are still free despite an all-night search by a posse with shoot-to-kill instructions.

Heavily-armed lawmen, led by bloodhounds, concentrated on an area five miles south of the prison and were reported close behind the fleeing criminals.

The tunnel under the prison is used for electrical equipment running between the prison and a powerhouse outside the fence. An employe found the tunnel door in the powerhouse open and notified guards.

All the desperadoes are longtermers who had been placed in a special security cell block. It is not known if any are armed.

L. A. Strubble, deputy Alabama prison commissioner, said the dogs picked up the trail soon after the daring break about 8:30 (CST) last night. But the convicts kept a jump ahead of their pursuers all night and the manhunt continued in high gear after dawn.

They jimmied a door leading from the security block into the tunnel, and got by two other doors before emerging in the prison powerhouse 25 feet beyond the fence.

Competition Predicted

Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—A terrific race" among competitive service stations for the motorists' dollar is forecast by the sales promotion manager of Continental Oil Co. J. J. Nesmith told the Arkansas Oil Dealers Association that no war or panic can so completely destroy a business as can a new and better product in the hands of a competitor. He said many new and better products are in the offing.

Pulling Rank

Groton, Conn. (AP)—A navy ceremony was held at the submarine base here to promote Ens. Anne B. Muller to lieutenant, junior grade. The first words she spoke after receiving the new bars were: "Now whom did you say you outranked?" She addressed the man who had pinned the bars to her shoulder, Lt. (j.g.) Leonard A. Muller, her husband.

Yuri Alexandrovich Rastovorov, a Russian diplomat-spy who reportedly sought political asylum in Tokyo, was said, Feb. 3, to be revealing secrets of a Red spy ring to U. S. intelligence agents on Okinawa. (AP Wirephoto).

Physician Reports Pope Is Weakening

Vatican City, Feb. 5 (AP)—Pope Pius' difficulty in taking food has continued to weaken him, said the first official bulletin issued on his condition today by his private physician.

The bulletin, issued by Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, said it is hoped "as soon as possible to repeat particular X-ray examinations to determine the condition both of the (Pope's) gastric area as well as of other organs in that area."

The bulletin said that "since Jan. 25, the Holy Father has showed, together with a light fever, symptoms of gastritis, preceded by insistent hiccups."

"Objective clinical examinations," it added, "excluded any other peritoneal (abdominal lining) reaction whatsoever and laboratory examinations resulted normal (excluding the possibility of an abnormal amount of nitrogen in the blood or of cardiac lesions.)"

The bulletin said the 77-year-old Pope has continued to weaken.

"The general state, weakened by excessive, prolonged labor, both mental and physical, has suffered a further weakening because of the fatiguing gastric disturbance and the difficulty of feeding."

Trustee Named

Mother With Her 25th Baby

Mrs. Heliodore Cyr of Ledges, New Brunswick, smiles as she cuddles her new-born daughter, her 25th baby in 26 years, in a Fort Kent, Maine, hospital. Mrs. Cyr, 42, was married when she was 17, and said she would like more babies. Her farmer-husband is 47. With eighteen living children, the new arrival balanced the family at nine sons and nine daughters. (AP Wirephoto).

'Oh, How We Waited for This Day'

This is the Michael Hvasta family together in their New York home (Feb. 4) after receiving the news they had waited five years to hear—that their son and brother, John, an American prisoner in Communist Czechoslovakia was free again. Left to right are Mr. Hvasta; Stephen, 23, brother of the freed youth, and his mother. John, a Navy veteran, went to his homeland to study under the GI Bill of Rights and was arrested on espionage charges and sentenced to 10 years in prison. (AP Wirephoto).

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 5 (AP) — The stock market started higher with a rush today and then simmered down quietly.

Trading at the start was so heavy that the ticker fell behind a couple of minutes in reporting actual floor transactions. The congestion soon cleared.

With the big rush of overnight orders out of the way, the market turned quiet and began to back down from its best. Minus signs gradually appeared in key sections of the list.

Gains and losses spread out over a range of around a point either way with the plus signs holding a slight edge.

Key divisions such as the rails, oils, and steels were higher. The motors displayed considerable backwardness, and there was a lot of hesitancy in the chemicals.

Youth Confesses

about $1,800 in cash from the Martin-Moran garage safe on East Chester street, Kingston, on Nov. 22.

State police of the Ellenville station are also expected to question Zanke on the reported theft of about $1,000 from Van Gorder's garage on Route 209 near Ellenville on Nov. 8.

Zanke was arrested at Concord, N. H., on December 20, where he was accused of breaking into two safes at a Concord garage. He was captured at gun point after Patrolman Charles Burke spotted the young man in the garage, while Burke was making his early Sunday rounds. According to the report from Concord on that date, Zanke at first refused to leave the garage, but when police prepared to hurl tear gas bombs into the building, he gave himself up.

Held in $2,000 Bail

In court, Zanke was ordered held in $2,000 bail for the April term of Superior Court.

He was brought back to Newburgh on Tuesday of this week by state police of Middletown, where a burglary charge was placed against him, and his case there was referred to the Orange county grand jury.

Ulster County Investigator Brown also announced today that through the cooperation of state police of Troop K, New Windsor, and Newburgh police, he had recovered considerable part of tool's reported stolen June 28 last year from the Ashokan Garage, of which Herman Wendt is the proprietor.

Says City Drowned

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner says that the city's voice in its own affairs is drowned out by the rest of the state. Wagner spoke last night at a $50-a-plate victory dinner of the New York County (Tammany Hall) Organization. Besides attacking the state administration of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for, he said, permitting upstate communities to "dictate" to the city, Wagner accused the national GOP of "broken" promises.

late in the month. Businessmen point to predictions by some economists that 1954 will be the "second best business year ever"—1953 was the best.

No Further Decline

John McConnell, professor of industrial and labor relations at Cornell University, said he anticipated "no further decline" in the number of unemployed in the state.

"It is not the actual number of unemployed which is alarming," he declared. "If is the trend in employment opportunity which causes concern.

The professor advised that "strong efforts" to maintain business and worker confidence in the government will prevent large-scale unemployment. "Fear alone can bring on a business collapse," he warned.

The state employment division has said that New York is experiencing a "business letdown" but, it adds, not a serious one. "The facts seem to indicate a year of consolidation ahead. Signs are that it will be a good year," it says.

Auto Kills Dog

Mrs. David Whispell, of 86 Bruyn avenue, reported to The Freeman today that the family's white Semenede dog was struck and killed last night by a car the driver of which failed to stop. A neighborhood youngster, who saw the mishap, she said, reported that it happened at about 6:50 p. m., on O'Neil street near Bruyn avenue. The dog, she said, had been the pet of several children in the family.

Asks Global Policy

Chicago, Feb. 5 (AP)—President Bayar of Turkey today proposed the 14-nation NATO alliance follow a "global policy" and draw into its orbit "other peace loving countries of the world." His suggestion to "enlarge" the postwar North Atlantic Treaty Organization was made in a major address as he toured the country as an official guest of the U. S. government.

Bricker Amendment to Wait

ments to the Bricker proposal at this afternoon's session. But he added there will be no important political tests until week after next.

The week's delay is forced by the plans of many GOP senators to leave Washington for Lincoln Day speeches next week.

Meanwhile, Sen. George (D-Ga.) said in an interview that, whatever the final fate of the Bricker amendment, the debate on it will bring much closer scrutiny of treaties than ever before.

Presidents undoubtedly will be more careful about treaties they submit to the Senate as a result of the row stirred up by the Ohioan's proposed amendment, George said.

And, he went on, "an unfortunate by-product" probably will be that it will be more difficult to get pacts ratified by the Senate, once called "the graveyard of treaties."

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), a strong foe of the Bricker amendment, said in a speech last night he was convinced that out of "the heat and yes, the bitterness (of the dispute) will come a stronger America."

One important result already, he said, is "the bold, courageous and brilliant re-assertion of leadership" on the part of President Eisenhower. The President has stated his opposition at a number of news conferences and wrote Knowland that he was unalterably against it in the original form.

KOREA'S AIR LESSONS

3. WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

(In this third and final exclusive interview, the commanding air general in Korea tells what might happen if fighting breaks out again—U. S. planes ranging beyond the Yalu.)

By ROBERT EUNSON

Tokyo, Feb. 5 (AP)—If the Korean armistice is scrapped and fighting breaks out again, American bombers may range far north of the Yalu river and hammer Chinese factories in Manchuria—possibly with atom bombs.

Gen. O. P. Weyland, Far East Air Forces commander, won't say they will. He did say in an interview, however: "It is my understanding that the Yalu river might no longer be the boundary, if the war is resumed in Korea, and we might strike the enemy wherever we could hurt him the most and with whatever would do the most damage."

China proper could also come into its share of bombing, it would be assumed.

Would Be Reinforced

"The Far East Air Forces would be reinforced," Weyland said. "The Strategic Air Command is prepared to operate anywhere in the world and could extend its range to this theatre."

SAC is the outfit which packs the big wallop. Bombers of this command specialize in atom warfare.

There are at least five planes in the U. S. Air Force which can carry the atom bomb and bases in Weyland's command can accommodate all of them. The five types are B29, F84, B47, B50 and B36.

B29s, B50s and F84s already are based in the Far East.

B36s were in the Far East last summer when the United States showed its global war strength and sent 22 of these giants to Japan. At that time, only the fact that three were here was made public.

Many Simulated Missions

The 22 made the trip from the mainland nonstop, landed all over the Far East and conducted many simulated missions with FEAF planes.

"We could get the B47 jet bombers here, too, in 12 hours if we needed them," Weyland said.

Whether there is a stockpile of atom bombs in some cave in the Far East for those atom carriers already here is a matter of conjecture, but 12 hours would be pretty swift retaliation if the Russians attacked Japan.

"In case of attack from the Soviets, FEAF is in a flanking position to strike advancing Communist air forces," said Weyland. "Notice our positions on the map and you will see that we are just off shore from all Communist territory in the Far East—China, North Korea, Manchuria and Russian Siberia.

Could Strike Positions

"We could strike to the north, east, or southwest from our positions in Japan, Okinawa, Korea and the Philippines."

The air force is keeping up a secondary chain of bases just in case they are needed. U. S. air power, troops and sea power fought hard for them in World War 2. Although there are few planes on them now, the fields are in good shape and long enough to land anything that will fly.

"We would have to fight hard to get back the initiative," Weyland says, "but it can be done if hostilities are renewed.

"We had air supremacy so thoroughly during the war in Korea that some people got the wrong idea. Do you know our front lines never had a real air attack and the area back of our lines looked like Los Angeles or New York from the air at night? I've never seen so many lights," he laughed. "Imagine riding around like that, with all lights burning at night, in Europe during the last war.

"The Reds had about 200 planes in North Korea within striking range of our lines, but after the first five days of the war hardly used them outside of MIG alley."

Weyland said that in the early days of the Korean war terms were two opinions as to how the air force could be best employed.

"General MacArthur's staff was made up of a group of fine men, but predominantly ground officers who thought predominantly in terms of ground warfare," Weyland said.

Would Use Air Force

"They wanted to use the air force in close support of the infantry all the time. I had quite a time explaining to some why we should operate behind lines to bomb strategic targets and interdict (or hammer at) the flow of supplies.

"I pointed out that if we did only close support bombing and strafing it was like trying to dam a stream at the foot of a waterfall.

"I wanted to get back and establish a line of interdiction, cut bridges and hit the railroad marshalling yards, so that much of the flow to the front would be stopped and destroyed before it got there."

Weyland said there was considerable difference of opinion as to the use of the air force until Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway set up his headquarters as a joint staff operation. Ridgway succeeded MacArthur in April, 1951.

"Ridgway had an air officer always at his headquarters who could advise him," Weyland said.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, Ridgway's successor, and Gen. John E. Hull, current Far East commander, maintained the same joint staffs with strong air force and navy representation at their headquarters.

"Actually the concept of strategic bombing was established in World War 2," Weyland says. "The Eighth and Fifteenth Air Forces in Europe were given the mission of knocking out Germany's heavy industry.

"Once that was gone, there was nothing left for the Germans to fight with."

Weyland is an authority on tactical air warfare. As commander of the 19th Tactical Air Command in Europe, he was a teammate of Gen. George S. Patton. Weyland's fighter bombers raked the roads ahead of Patton's Third Army tanks. He says:

"Tactical air war was started actually in North Africa, but we added a great deal to its development after we got going in Europe. Once we had air superiority, we cleaned the transport off the highways and railroads.

Are Similar in Nature

"Actually tactical and strategic air warfare are much the same. The main difference is in the range of the bombers employed.

"Strategy based on land attack usually envisions capture. Strategy based on air attack envisions pummeling the enemy until he wants peace, just like Japan in World War 2.

"As time goes on, men learn to put more and more power into smaller packages. A B29 with a crew of 10 in World War 2 had the quick striking power of a whole regiment. Now we can hang one bomb on a jet fighter and destroy a whole harbor.

"The war of the future would be like that. I'm hoping we never have to fight it. I'm not afraid of Russia but I'm afraid of war!"

County Meters Net $750

A total of $750.10 was collected in the parking meters in county-owned lots in the city of Kingston during the month of January, the county treasurer's office reported. The money is collected by the sheriff's department, which has charge of the two metered lots, and turned over to the county treasurer. One of the lots is located to the rear of the court house, with an entrance on John street and exit on Crown street, and the other is located on Main street.

Tillson Church Has Fellowship Plans

Plans for Fellowship Night at Tillson Friend's Church have been completed for Thursday evening, Feb. 11, according to an announcement from the governing body, which met this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gibbons on Main street in the village.

A covered dish supper will be held at 6:30 p. m. Those attending will bring one item of food for the main dish and the church will provide all of the other items on the menu. The meal will be served cafeteria style. A good time is anticipated.

Following the meal group-singing will be enjoyed and two movies shown. The program will be completed by 9 so that parents may bring their children and still reach home at an early hour.

A free-will offering will be received to promote future programs.

A new filmstrip and slide projector for the Sunday school has been obtained to assist in the presentation of visual-aids and a duplicator has been obtained to facilitate the printing of church bulletins and news letters. A gas range has been connected at the church kitchen to help the ladies with meals.

February 21 was designated as Good Neighbor Sunday and on that day the members of Friend's Church will attend the morning worship service of the Tillson Reformed Church.

A series of studies relating to the Bible have been discussed by Richard Talleur during the past five Sundays. Next Sunday's study is Bible Prophecies.

Preliminary plans for Lenten and Easter observation were outlined.

Plans were also discussed to send delegates to the New York state yearly meeting of friends at Silver Bay in July, and to assist young people of the church to attend the annual convention of the New York State Christian Endeavor Union in Middletown over the Memorial Day weekend.

Those in attendance at the meeting included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark, Mrs. Dorothy Van Keuren, Mrs. Russell Douglas, Richard Talleur, Mrs. Frances Stokes, clerk of the meeting and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gibbons.

Krumville

Krumville, Feb. 5 — Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brown spent last weekend visiting relatives in Kingston.

Mrs. Cornelia Kalleberg of Brooklyn is spending some time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Christensen.

Mrs. Burton Connaughton and Mrs. Floyd Brown were Kingston visitors on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Doyle and daughter Lynn of Kerhonkson and Mr. and Mrs. C. Jones of Ellenville were recent callers at the home of Mrs. Jones' parents Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eckert.

Jervis Burgher has returned from a visit with his son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Allen Krom of Olive Bridge.

IBM Water Line Discussed

Plans for extension of city water service to the site of the proposed IBM plant in the town of Ulster were discussed in the office of Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent yesterday afternoon. Attending, left to right, seated: Mayor Frederick H. Stang, Clifford Gold, of C. L. Bogert Associates, consulting engineers; Cloonan, George F. Schlobach, IBM plant engineer; Douglas R. Smith, also IBM plant engineer; J. W. Moffett, assistant chief engineer of Giffels & Vallett, who will be project engineer for the Kingston plant; William Pruden, chief mechanical engineer for Giffels & Vallett; Charles Manganero, engineer of C. L. Bogert Associates, and Joseph A. Rorick, IBM department engineer. Standing are, John J. Schwenk, commissioner, and Benjamin Schecter, president of the local water board. (Freeman photo)

Tillson

Tillson, Feb. 3—Members of the Tillson Teen-Agers enjoyed an afternoon and part of an evening of toboggan rides at the Mohonk golf course Sunday, Jan. 31. Mr. and Mrs. Luther Oakley chaperoned the group who were transported to Mohonk by Bill Merdock and John Coddington. The boys and girls reported that a good time was had with plenty of thrills and spills. This is only one of many activities the local teen-age club have enjoyed recently. Meetings are held each Tuesday night at the home of the Oakleys.

Tillson, Feb. 4—On invitation to join the Tillson Teen-Age Club is extended to all teen-age boys and girls in the community. Under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Oakley, the club is participating in many interesting activities. The next meeting is planned to be held at the Tillson Fire Hall Tuesday night, February 9. All who wish to join the group are asked to attend.

A group of about 15 women attended a special meeting Tuesday night at the Tillson School to form a sewing class under the adult education program. Reginald Russell, grade supervisor of the first superisory district of Ulster county, attended and told the group various details about the formation of such a class. It was decided to start sewing classes Tuesday, Feb. 9 at the school auditorium from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

Enlistments Open In U. S. Air Force

The United States Air Force is accepting immediate enlistments it has been announced by Sfc. Clarence H. Carney of the army and air force recruiting station at the city hall.

There are openings for aerial gunners, jet mechanics, electronics, aerial photographers, cooks, truck drivers, guided missile repairman metal workers.

Sergeant Carney also said there will be an air force sergeant from Albany each Friday morning in the Poughkeepsie recruiting station for the purpose of testing men for joining in the air force.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson, Park, Mass., Feb. 4, 1954—Day by day, in buying power, your dollar is getting to be worth more. You have only to glance at the advertisements in your daily paper to confirm this cheering fact. Merchants all over the country are offering some of the best winter markdowns that I have seen in a long time.

Thanks to this country's tremendous productive capacity, which has been greatly increased in recent years, all kinds of consumer goods have been coming on the market in almost unprecedented volume. The late Korean war did little to dampen the flow. As a result, stores everywhere have bargains in good merchandise. Some of it has not been moving too well, at least not fast enough to suit the store owners. Perhaps prices have been out of line with the ideas of prospective consumers. In a number of cases, this undoubtedly has been true. But now the picture has changed.

Semi-annual stocktaking clearance sales are under way from one end of the land to the other. Sales floors and store counters this winter are loaded with bargains that many can hardly afford to ignore. Merchandisers are more than anxious to reduce stocks, and they well know that the best way to do it is to cut prices, even if profits are pared to the bone. In some instances, they are doing exactly that. Merchants like "turnover" much more than "holdover." It costs money to carry goods from one year to another, or from one season to another.

Fur Lover's Paradise

For those of the fair sex whose fancy turns to furs, now is the time to indulge it. Furs definitely are on the bargain counter. In some cases, they can be bought at half their former price, although I do not guarantee the quality. The fur market was hard hit by abnormally warm weather earlier in the season. Inventories have piled up and competition has become extremely severe. To point up the situation, I might mention that one prominent Boston concern not too long ago advertised the largest fur stock at one price—drastically reduced — ever assembled anywhere under one roof.

With spring just around the corner, clothing stores in many localities are cutting prices on men's wool suits. Some are being offered at very attractive levels. Winter overcoats and wool bathrobes also often are marked down sharply at this time of the year. If you are in need of any of these articles now, or will be next winter, don't delay in picking them up. Shop aggressively for the best buys. Also watch the store ads in your paper.

Household Goods and Appliances

A number of household goods and appliances are available now at bargain prices. The field is broad, but the goods are there and rightly priced if you shop around.

Just the other day, for instance, I saw a new combination food freezer-refrigerator offered at a saving of 20 per cent under a month ago. But buy these electrical appliances from reliable stores and be sure to get the standard guarantee. Now is the time to buy from a reliable dealer a used car at a low price. These cars will sell for more money in the spring and early summer.

This is the time of year also when many types of soft goods can be purchased economically. These include sheets, pillow cases, and towels. February traditionally is a month when household furniture is offered at special prices; this February should not be an exception. I also must mention Oriental rugs, prices of which have been cut sharply. I have seen some of these items recently advertised as selling at half former prices.

A Word to Merchants

Perhaps bring to your city the stock of some out-of-town firm that is liquidating. Be not afraid to cut your own prices for a short period. You will win customers by it in the end. Otherwise, don't today overstock in anything except in "parking space," which now is the best buy. I forecast you can purchase parking space for customers cheaper now when the ground is frozen, snow is falling, and business is poor. "Sell Merchandise—Buy Parking Space" should be the 1954 motto.

Bills in Legislature

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP)—Sen. Thomas C. Desmond again is proposing a one-house legislature—a suggestion that got nowhere three years ago.

The plan advanced yesterday by the Newburgh Republican called for merging the Senate and Assembly after the expiration of terms of senators elected next fall.

Members would be elected on a population basis, ranging from one legislator for counties with less than 100,000 to 10 for counties with 800,000 or more. The two-year term would be retained.

Proponents of a unicameral legislature maintain it makes government simpler and more efficient. A similar Desmond bill was pigeonholed in 1951.

Other measures would:

Lengthen the terms of town supervisors from two to four years.

Permit town boards to submit for voters' approval any zoning regulation or ordinance (Assemblyman Wilson C. Van Duzer-R. Middletown).

Require that an indictment could not be returned in criminal actions without the agreement of at least 12 grand jurors who have heard all the evidence submitted (Assemblyman Vincent L. Pitaro-R, Queens).

Directs Charities Appeal in Ulster

The Rev. James V. Keating, left, of St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, who will supervise the 35th annual fund appeal of New York Catholic Charities in the 20 parishes of Ulster county, pictured with Right Rev. Monsignor James J. Lynch, director of Catholic Charities who is in overall charge of the appeal which has a goal of $2,515,000. The house-to-house canvass of Catholic families throughout the 388 parishes of the New York Archdiocese is scheduled for March 28 to April 7. Father Keating, appointed by His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman, will act as liaison between the headquarters staff of Catholic Charities and the active parish directors who will be appointed in the near future to organize their individual parishes.

Do you know our front lines never had a real air attack and the area back of our lines looked like Los Angeles or New York from the air at night? I've never seen so many lights," he laughed. "Imagine riding around like that, with all lights burning at night, in Europe during the last war.

"The Reds had about 200 planes in North Korea within striking range of our lines, but after the first five days of the war hardly used them outside of MIG alley."

Weyland said that in the early days of the Korean war terms were two opinions as to how the air force could be best employed.

"General MacArthur's staff was made up of a group of fine men, but predominantly ground officers who thought predominantly in terms of ground warfare," Weyland said.

Would Use Air Force

"They wanted to use the air force in close support of the infantry all the time. I had quite a time explaining to some why we should operate behind lines to bomb strategic targets and interdict (or hammer at) the flow of supplies.

"I pointed out that if we did only close support bombing and strafing it was like trying to dam a stream at the foot of a waterfall.

"I wanted to get back and establish a line of interdiction, cut bridges and hit the railroad marshalling yards, so that much of the flow to the front would be stopped and destroyed before it got there."

Weyland said there was considerable difference of opinion as to the use of the air force until Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway set up his headquarters as a joint staff operation. Ridgway succeeded MacArthur in April, 1951.

"Ridgway had an air officer always at his headquarters who could advise him," Weyland said.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, Ridgway's successor, and Gen. John E. Hull, current Far East commander, maintained the same joint staffs with strong air force and navy representation at their headquarters.

"Actually the concept of strategic bombing was established in World War 2," Weyland says. "The Eighth and Fifteenth Air Forces in Europe were given the mission of knocking out Germany's heavy industry.

"Once that was gone, there was nothing left for the Germans to fight with."

Weyland is an authority on tactical air warfare. As commander of the 19th Tactical Air Command in Europe, he was a teammate of Gen. George S. Patton. Weyland's fighter bombers raked the roads ahead of Patton's Third Army tanks. He says:

"Tactical air war was started actually in North Africa, but we added a great deal to its development after we got going in Europe. Once we had air superiority, we cleaned the transport off the highways and railroads.

Are Similar in Nature

"Actually tactical and strategic air warfare are much the same. The main difference is in the range of the bombers employed.

"Strategy based on land attack usually envisions capture. Strategy based on air attack envisions pummeling the enemy until he wants peace, just like Japan in World War 2.

"As time goes on, men learn to put more and more power into smaller packages. A B29 with a crew of 10 in World War 2 had the quick striking power of a whole regiment. Now we can hang one bomb on a jet fighter and destroy a whole harbor.

"The war of the future would be like that. I'm hoping we never have to fight it. I'm not afraid of Russia but I'm afraid of war!"

County Meters Net $750

A total of $750.10 was collected in the parking meters in county-owned lots in the city of Kingston during the month of January, the county treasurer's office reported. The money is collected by the sheriff's department, which has charge of the two metered lots, and turned over to the county treasurer. One of the lots is located to the rear of the court house, with an entrance on John street and exit on Crown street, and the other is located on Main street.

Tillson Church Has Fellowship Plans

Plans for Fellowship Night at Tillson Friend's Church have been completed for Thursday evening, Feb. 11, according to an announcement from the governing body, which met this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gibbons on Main street in the village.

A covered dish supper will be held at 6:30 p. m. Those attending will bring one item of food for the main dish and the church will provide all of the other items on the menu. The meal will be served cafeteria style. A good time is anticipated.

Following the meal group-singing will be enjoyed and two movies shown. The program will be completed by 9 so that parents may bring their children and still reach home at an early hour.

A free-will offering will be received to promote future programs.

A new filmstrip and slide projector for the Sunday school has been obtained to assist in the presentation of visual-aids and a duplicator has been obtained to facilitate the printing of church bulletins and news letters. A gas range has been connected at the church kitchen to help the ladies with meals.

February 21 was designated as Good Neighbor Sunday and on that day the members of Friend's Church will attend the morning worship service of the Tillson Reformed Church.

A series of studies relating to the Bible have been discussed by Richard Talleur during the past five Sundays. Next Sunday's study is Bible Prophecies.

Preliminary plans for Lenten and Easter observation were outlined.

Plans were also discussed to send delegates to the New York state yearly meeting of friends at Silver Bay in July, and to assist young people of the church to attend the annual convention of the New York State Christian Endeavor Union in Middletown over the Memorial Day weekend.

Those in attendance at the meeting included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark, Mrs. Dorothy Van Keuren, Mrs. Russell Douglas, Richard Talleur, Mrs. Frances Stokes, clerk of the meeting and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gibbons.

Krumville

Krumville, Feb. 5 — Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brown spent last weekend visiting relatives in Kingston.

Mrs. Cornelia Kalleberg of Brooklyn is spending some time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Christensen.

Mrs. Burton Connaughton and Mrs. Floyd Brown were Kingston visitors on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Doyle and daughter Lynn of Kerhonkson and Mr. and Mrs. C. Jones of Ellenville were recent callers at the home of Mrs. Jones' parents Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eckert.

Jervis Burgher has returned from a visit with his son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Allen Krom of Olive Bridge.

Bills in Legislature

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP)—Sen. Thomas C. Desmond again is proposing a one-house legislature—a suggestion that got nowhere three years ago.

The plan advanced yesterday by the Newburgh Republican called for merging the Senate and Assembly after the expiration of terms of senators elected next fall.

Members would be elected on a population basis, ranging from one legislator for counties with less than 100,000 to 10 for counties with 800,000 or more. The two-year term would be retained.

Proponents of a unicameral legislature maintain it makes government simpler and more efficient. A similar Desmond bill was pigeonholed in 1951.

Other measures would:

Lengthen the terms of town supervisors from two to four years.

Permit town boards to submit for voters' approval any zoning regulation or ordinance (Assemblyman Wilson C. Van Duzer-R. Middletown).

Require that an indictment could not be returned in criminal actions without the agreement of at least 12 grand jurors who have heard all the evidence submitted (Assemblyman Vincent L. Pitaro-R, Queens).

Directs Charities Appeal in Ulster

The Rev. James V. Keating, left, of St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, who will supervise the 35th annual fund appeal of New York Catholic Charities in the 20 parishes of Ulster county, pictured with Right Rev. Monsignor James J. Lynch, director of Catholic Charities who is in overall charge of the appeal which has a goal of $2,515,000. The house-to-house canvass of Catholic families throughout the 388 parishes of the New York Archdiocese is scheduled for March 28 to April 7. Father Keating, appointed by His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman, will act as liaison between the headquarters staff of Catholic Charities and the active parish directors who will be appointed in the near future to organize their individual parishes.

IBM Water Line Discussed

Plans for extension of city water service to the site of the proposed IBM plant in the town of Ulster were discussed in the office of Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent yesterday afternoon. Attending, left to right, seated: Mayor Frederick H. Stang, Clifford Gold, of C. L. Bogert Associates, consulting engineers; Cloonan, George F. Schlobach, IBM plant engineer; Douglas R. Smith, also IBM plant engineer; J. W. Moffett, assistant chief engineer of Giffels & Vallett, who will be project engineer for the Kingston plant; William Pruden, chief mechanical engineer for Giffels & Vallett; Charles Manganero, engineer of C. L. Bogert Associates, and Joseph A. Rorick, IBM department engineer. Standing are, John J. Schwenk, commissioner, and Benjamin Schecter, president of the local water board. (Freeman photo)

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson, Park, Mass., Feb. 4, 1954—Day by day, in buying power, your dollar is getting to be worth more. You have only to glance at the advertisements in your daily paper to confirm this cheering fact. Merchants all over the country are offering some of the best winter markdowns that I have seen in a long time.

Thanks to this country's tremendous productive capacity, which has been greatly increased in recent years, all kinds of consumer goods have been coming on the market in almost unprecedented volume. The late Korean war did little to dampen the flow. As a result, stores everywhere have bargains in good merchandise. Some of it has not been moving too well, at least not fast enough to suit the store owners. Perhaps prices have been out of line with the ideas of prospective consumers. In a number of cases, this undoubtedly has been true. But now the picture has changed.

Semi-annual stocktaking clearance sales are under way from one end of the land to the other. Sales floors and store counters this winter are loaded with bargains that many can hardly afford to ignore. Merchandisers are more than anxious to reduce stocks, and they well know that the best way to do it is to cut prices, even if profits are pared to the bone. In some instances, they are doing exactly that. Merchants like "turnover" much more than "holdover." It costs money to carry goods from one year to another, or from one season to another.

Fur Lover's Paradise

For those of the fair sex whose fancy turns to furs, now is the time to indulge it. Furs definitely are on the bargain counter. In some cases, they can be bought at half their former price, although I do not guarantee the quality. The fur market was hard hit by abnormally warm weather earlier in the season. Inventories have piled up and competition has become extremely severe. To point up the situation, I might mention that one prominent Boston concern not too long ago advertised the largest fur stock at one price—drastically reduced — ever assembled anywhere under one roof.

With spring just around the corner, clothing stores in many localities are cutting prices on men's wool suits. Some are being offered at very attractive levels. Winter overcoats and wool bathrobes also often are marked down sharply at this time of the year. If you are in need of any of these articles now, or will be next winter, don't delay in picking them up. Shop aggressively for the best buys. Also watch the store ads in your paper.

Household Goods and Appliances

A number of household goods and appliances are available now at bargain prices. The field is broad, but the goods are there and rightly priced if you shop around.

Just the other day, for instance, I saw a new combination food freezer-refrigerator offered at a saving of 20 per cent under a month ago. But buy these electrical appliances from reliable stores and be sure to get the standard guarantee. Now is the time to buy from a reliable dealer a used car at a low price. These cars will sell for more money in the spring and early summer.

This is the time of year also when many types of soft goods can be purchased economically. These include sheets, pillow cases, and towels. February traditionally is a month when household furniture is offered at special prices; this February should not be an exception. I also must mention Oriental rugs, prices of which have been cut sharply. I have seen some of these items recently advertised as selling at half former prices.

A Word to Merchants

Perhaps bring to your city the stock of some out-of-town firm that is liquidating. Be not afraid to cut your own prices for a short period. You will win customers by it in the end. Otherwise, don't today overstock in anything except in "parking space," which now is the best buy. I forecast you can purchase parking space for customers cheaper now when the ground is frozen, snow is falling, and business is poor. "Sell Merchandise—Buy Parking Space" should be the 1954 motto.

Tillson

Tillson, Feb. 3—Members of the Tillson Teen-Agers enjoyed an afternoon and part of an evening of toboggan rides at the Mohonk golf course Sunday, Jan. 31. Mr. and Mrs. Luther Oakley chaperoned the group who were transported to Mohonk by Bill Merdock and John Coddington. The boys and girls reported that a good time was had with plenty of thrills and spills. This is only one of many activities the local teen-age club have enjoyed recently. Meetings are held each Tuesday night at the home of the Oakleys.

Tillson, Feb. 4—On invitation to join the Tillson Teen-Age Club is extended to all teen-age boys and girls in the community. Under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Oakley, the club is participating in many interesting activities. The next meeting is planned to be held at the Tillson Fire Hall Tuesday night, February 9. All who wish to join the group are asked to attend.

A group of about 15 women attended a special meeting Tuesday night at the Tillson School to form a sewing class under the adult education program. Reginald Russell, grade supervisor of the first superisory district of Ulster county, attended and told the group various details about the formation of such a class. It was decided to start sewing classes Tuesday, Feb. 9 at the school auditorium from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

Enlistments Open In U. S. Air Force

The United States Air Force is accepting immediate enlistments it has been announced by Sfc. Clarence H. Carney of the army and air force recruiting station at the city hall.

There are openings for aerial gunners, jet mechanics, electronics, aerial photographers, cooks, truck drivers, guided missile repairman metal workers.

Sergeant Carney also said there will be an air force sergeant from Albany each Friday morning in the Poughkeepsie recruiting station for the purpose of testing men for joining in the air force.

EISENHOWER'S PROGRAM

All during 1953, his first year in office, President Eisenhower was shot at for "not doing anything," for not having a program. Many people seemed to regard it as highly unreasonable that he should want time to study his problems and learn his job.

Mr. Eisenhower, who was reminded every hour on the hour that he was not a professional politician, stoutly resisted the professionals who urged him to yield to the clamor for action—however off-the-cuff it might be.

Now he has presented a program, and it is extensive.

He has offered a budget that calls for reduced expenditures, and made numerous suggestions designed to provide individual and business tax relief.

He has revised the nation's defense plans to shift emphasis from ground armies to an air force relying principally on the retaliatory power of A-bombs and H-bombs.

In the field of human relations and welfare, he has shaped positive proposals for revision of the Taft-Hartley labor law, for extension and improvement of social security, for better health protection and more adequate housing.

And he has put together a farm program aimed at assuring the farmer continued protection while permitting the government to escape from the costly, wasteful practice of buying up surpluses and storing them in warehouses.

No one may any longer say that the President does not have a program. Having it and getting it approved are, of course, two different things. Many parts of Mr. Eisenhower's offerings face stiff opposition, much of it from within his own party.

But whether the nation's lawmakers agree with the President's plans or not, they must acknowledge they are concrete. He has given them something to defend or attack, as they wish. He has prepared something for which he himself can fight. And he has stated plainly that he does intend to fight for it.

Evidently the President sincerely believes a large share of his program can get through Congress. It obviously was drafted with that in mind, not to make just a paper record of "good things asked for."

Some of the President's critics say he has not asked for enough in some fields. But Mr. Eisenhower has tried to measure not what would be nice to have, but what it would be possible to get.

His predecessor, former President Truman, often asked for a good deal more than he could get, and he knew it. He thought a paper program was shrewd politics.

It's much too early to tell, but it might just turn out that the combination of courage and practicality, which led Mr. Eisenhower first to resist early pressures and then to frame a program that could be largely palatable to Congress, will show him to be a more astute politician than the professionals.

FAMINE IN CHINA

An independent Chinese newspaper in Hong Kong reports that several hundred people were killed recently in an attempted raid on a government grain depot in the province of Kwantung. Other reports tell of drastic food rationing and of peasant riots against the authorities.

The Communists came to power in China through force. They won some adherents with promises of food and a better life. Instead of trying to deliver on that promise they plunged the country into the Korean war and great supplies of food were drained to support the troops in the field. In addition they exported food to Russia.

The lot of the Chinese people is unhappy. Millions of them have been born and grown to manhood without knowing what it means to live in a time of peace. They have lived all their lives with poverty, disease and war. Now a harsh and oppressive regime has been added to their list of woes.

The food riots indicate that these people are no longer docile and are approaching the point of desperation where their hunger and suffering may drive them to move serious uprisings. It may be that this internal unrest will make the Red leaders hesitate before embarking on future aggressive expeditions.

LAWYERS AND THE PRESS

For quite a bit, judges and lawyers have been quarreling over the right of the people to know what is going on about them, particularly as regards criminals. Louis Waldman is chairman of a Committee of the New York State Bar Association which has issued a recommendation to gag the press on pre-trial reporting that could be interpreted to mean that the press should be silent until a case has reached the United States Supreme Court, four or five years away. What a wonderful thing that would have been for the Rosenbergs!

Waldman cited an example in a speech he delivered presenting his report which completely shows the weakness of his thinking. Here it is:

"Within the last month a young woman student at a college close by New York City was viciously and brutally attacked. Two young men, one 16 and the other 21, were apprehended that very night by the police and placed under arrest for this atrocious crime. The police, in announcing the arrest of these youths, then proceeded to report that they had made a full confession admitting the assault and the press naturally carried this alleged confession as a prominent part of the story."

Waldman does not deny the rape, the confession, the guilt or anything about the case. He only says that Americans get emotional when their daughters or their neighbors' daughters get raped by hoodlums. He objects to the publication of such news because the rapist thereupon faces an irate public. Does he wish the fathers of the community to form a reception committee for the rapists and present the beasts with bouquets of roses?

Now along comes another lawyer, Edwin M. Otterbourg, President of the New York County Lawyers' Association, who has this to say:

"But the one great industry, the important fourth estate, has not yet adopted any enforceable code of ethics. To the contrary, each newspaper thinks it can be its own judge and jury to what it is right and wrong to do with respect to the reporting of litigations.

"It seems that in some fields, rights which have been given by law are being so abused that the time may come when the people who make the laws abridge these rights."

No newspaper instructs a reporter to commit a murder so that more newspapers will be sold. The murder is committed by the murderer, the rape by the rapist, the mugging by the mugger, the treachery by the traitor.

When the deed is done, there are four parties at interest, if we use a murder as an example:

1. The murdered person;
2. Those who are deprived of the life, the company, and sometimes the support of the murdered person;
3. The community which is entitled to peace and order and which pays heavily in taxes to see to it that murders do not take place;
4. The murderer, usually a person without whom the community can well exist.

While it is true that the murderer is entitled to a fair trial, it is also true that the murdered person is entitled to a fair trial, and it is also true that the community is justified in demanding that the malefactor be punished. The assumption that because a man has kidnaped a child, murdered the little boy, taken ransom money from his parents, broken their hearts and probably their lives, robbed a nation of parents of their peace of mind—the assumption that after a moron has done that, all human emotions should be repressed in his interest is arrant nonsense.

True, newspaper reporting makes it tough on lawyers whose interest is to get their clients off, to have a sentence reduced from first-degree murder to manslaughter, to have him imprisoned instead of executed, to get him a parole or a reprieve or a pardon. But that is not the public interest.

It must be admitted that some newspapers emphasize the sensational rather than the important, that in some the news is slanted by overemphasis or even distortion. But in the United States, there is such a variety of newspapers, radio and television reporting and news weeklies that the reader can select for himself that which he believes to be true. No one forces him to accept any one medium. No one deprives him of a different presentation. A free press is one which can be different and diverse in freedom.

PROTECTING THE WORKER

From time to time we read about certain workers (men and women) who suffer from the effects of chemicals with which they work. In some cases their very lives are at stake but fortunately this is not the case with the majority of workers. However, there are some cases in which the very surroundings, not chemicals, affect the workers' health and physicians and government research workers are trying to keep the worker in as good physical condition as possible.

In the United States Armed Forces Medical Journal, Dr. John H. Foulger states, "that whatever method is used to obtain information on the condition of workers exposed to chemicals, it should lead to frequent observation of each worker by the plant physician who will be able to see when the workers are failing in health. By frequent contact with the men, and particularly contact on the job, he will gain their confidence. This will have two results. Not only will the morale of the individual worker be raised but he will tend to come to the physician and tell him of factors in both his industrial life and in his home life which may be of the utmost importance in controlling the health in the plant."

There was a time, not so far back, when infections were the commonest cause of illness in the industrial plant, but treatment of infection has advanced so far in recent years that diseases caused by stress of living are assuming greater importance than diseases caused by bacteria or poisoning.

These diseases, called stress diseases are due to our attempt to live with our environment or surroundings, often with an environment which we ourselves set up or manufacture. In these days, when the work week has been shortened, the worker spends less time at the plant and more amid home or other surroundings. That part of the worker's week spent out of the plant is at least as important in conditioning the worker's total health and his ability to resist hazards from chemicals as in that part of the week spent in the plant. Any procedure that will help the physician to gather information about the total life of the worker is essential to a satisfactory program of conservation of health. In industry we are studying the whole man.

While the physician, generally speaking, is best equipped to look after the health and happiness of the worker, a good sensible social worker, male or female, can be of great help in learning of the home life of a worker and the worker's family which may have an important bearing on the workers' actual work at the plant and on his general health and happiness.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
Nea Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Now that the Berlin meeting of the Big Four Foreign Ministers is under way after months of note swapping and negotiations, there is considerable concern over how the conference can be brought to an end.

That may sound like a contradiction, but it isn't. How to end any diplomatic meeting where the participants aren't in complete agreement, or when they haven't settled anything, is always a problem. Nobody wants to take the responsibility for ending a peace conference.

It is recalled that at one of the wartime conferences, when America, Britain, China and Russia constituted the Big Four, the foreign ministers sat around for two days, doing nothing, because no one would take responsibility for a motion to adjourn. Finally the Americans and British ganged up on the Chinese and told their delegation they would have to end it on the day when it was China's turn to hold the rotating chairmanship. That was the last time the Chinese were ever invited to attend a Big Four Foreign Ministers meeting. France took China's place at the end of the war and has been there ever since.

There was another unhappy ending to the Foreign Ministers' meeting in London in 1947. Gen. George Marshall was U. S. Secretary of State then, and after three weeks of meeting without accomplishment, he took the responsibility for ending the thing abruptly.

Marshall Blasted Russians

Next day, when the American delegation was preparing to leave its hotel for the London airport to fly back to America, Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov called up to say that he had just heard from Moscow. The Kremlin didn't like the communique. Stalin wanted the conference reconvened to change it. Molotov begged. Secretary Marshall refused to have any part of it.

Marshall blasted the Russians for refusing to come to terms on an Austrian peace treaty, German boundaries and reparations. Molotov was heard to say, "This is awful." It has been awful ever since.

While the current Berlin meeting may be intended to straighten out some of these same problems that have been kicking around for seven years, its first round has been scheduled hopefully for only three weeks.

Because of the conference rule to have consecutive translations—instead of simultaneous translations through earphones—a three-week meeting of the foreign ministers is about equal to a one-week meeting. When Molotov makes a statement, for example, it has to be translated into both English and French before anyone can answer. The British are said to like it this way, because double translation gives them more time to think up answers.

All four of the foreign ministers at Berlin are old-timers at this business. U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles attended four of the postwar Council of Foreign Ministers' meetings as an adviser to his predecessors. Anthony Eden was Churchill's Foreign Office head all through the war and since the Conservatives' return to political power. Georges Bidault of France was foreign minister during the resistance days and in several postwar cabinets.

Center of Interest in 1947

As a matter of fact, Foreign Minister Bidault was the center of interest at the 1947 CFM meeting in Moscow. The French were doing a big job of wooing the Russians then. Bidault had his arm around Molotov's shoulders all the time at the start of this session.

At the first dinner which Molotov gave for his guests, Bidault was given the position of honor opposite his host, U. S. Secretary of State Marshall was at Molotov's right and Britain's Ernest Bevin at his left. Molotov and Bidault toasted each other often.

Everything went lovely for France until the question of the Saar came up. France insisted that she have political and economic control over this important industrial basin. But Molotov resisted France here, hoping perhaps to get Russian reparations out of it.

Somehow, Molotov managed to insult Bidault, and infuriated, the Frenchman almost broke up the conference. He was persuaded to stick it out only by Marshall and Bevin.

Personalities and trivialities of this kind play an important part in these conferences, to a degree not generally known. Today, Bidault is considered a much more mature statesman, and less of a politician than he was seven years ago. But in one sense, the Berlin conference is a repetition of that 1947 Moscow affair—with a reverse twist. This time the Russians are trying to woo France away from America and Britain. But again Bidault is key man at the conference. The way he votes may decide the outcome.

Republican Party Might Suffer in Election if Decision Lags on Bricker Amendment

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 5—Avoidance of a decision now on the basic issues growing out of the debate over the Bricker amendment to the constitution would be detrimental to the Republican party at the polls next November. Perhaps that's the reason Senator Knowland, Republican leader, has been striving so hard to get a compromise, and perhaps it's the reason why various Democrats in the Senate are so eager to see the issue buried by sending the measure back to committee for further study.

Like many deep-seated issues, the widespread impact of which does not always appear on the surface, the Bricker amendment is far more than a controversy over legal technicalities. Hence, the impatience of those who say it's too important to be acted on now and needs further study simply plays into the hands of those forces which want to pile up troubles for the Republican party this year.

The fundamental problem involved in the Bricker amendment is far better understood generally than it is by some of the lawyers here who are arguing against its phraseology. It is no accident that the Bricker amendment has come up for consideration at this time, and furthermore it wasn't proposed suddenly. It has been debated before such organizations as the American Bar Association for the last several years, and approval was specifically given the Bricker amendment by the association after considerable study.

The controversy is reminiscent of how the debate started on the famous Article X in the League of Nations covenant when it was proposed by President Wilson back in 1919. At first, it seemed a highly technical affair when opponents argued that the proposed treaty would require the United States to go to war to protect the independence and territorial integrity of every member nation. But by the time the small minority which started the fight got through, they had converted the public and had won the election of 1920, thus rejecting the League of Nations covenant altogether. Had there been a spirit of compromise in time, the United States might have entered the league, the whole history of the '20's might have been different and World War 2 might have been averted—as Winston Churchill himself has so often declared in reviewing that fateful period in world history.

The public furor backing the demand for the Bricker amendment has arisen from the abuse of executive power by both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman in making far-reaching commitments in foreign policy without consulting the Senate. It is not persuasive to say that President Eisenhower will be different. What one president has done in abusing power can be done by a future president. Incidentally, that's why the latest amendment to the Constitution prohibiting a third term was adopted—because Mr. Roosevelt used governmental power and funds to get himself elected to a fourth term. It was no answer to say no other president would try the same tactics.

The proponents of the Bricker amendment have indicated a willingness to compromise so as to meet possible misinterpretations. It is to the credit of men like Senators George and McCarran, Democrats, and Senators Knowland and Ferguson, Republicans, and others that conscientious efforts have been made by them to try to rewrite the amendment so as to make it satisfactory to two-thirds of the Senate.

If the Senate takes another week or two to debate and then act on the issue, it will not be time wasted. And if the Senate drops the issue because a two-thirds vote is not attainable for any compromise, the controversy will grow in intensity and bring about a split in both the Republican and the Democratic parties, but with more serious consequences to members of the Republican Party, especially in the House of Representatives, whose members will be called upon to express themselves as candidates in primary and final campaigns this year.

Judging by the amount of organization work already done throughout the country and the liklihood that many influential bodies will take up the fight if nothing is done about it, the Bricker amendment controversy will play a leading part in the coming campaign. The public attitude will not always be identifiable as a position for or against the Bricker amendment but may appear as a demand that Congressional candidates stand up and be counted on the issue of permitting the executive alone to make commitments which could lead the nation into more wars. The executive agreements offer an even more vulnerable base for attack than the treaties, and there is plenty of ammunition for the campaign in the record of important executive agreements that have been made in disregard of the wishes of Congress and without being submitted to the Senate for approval or rejection.

If the American people are told that, by making a treaty with a foreign government with the approval of a two-thirds majority in the Senate—such a majority as the late President Roosevelt had in his own party early in his administration — a President can amend the constitution and take away the people's rights, there will be a greater clamor next year for the Bricker amendments of various kinds than there is today. The obvious lesson is to write a compromise now and dispose of the issue.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Feb. 4—Documentary proof now available in the published records of the Jenner Committee of the Senate shows Drew Pearson's Communist "legman," the late Andrew Older, was a brother of a woman who repeatedly refused to answer under oath whether she was a Communist and, ultimately, was awarded $27,000 by a tribunal of the United Nations because she was fired for refusing to answer.

Andrew Older was exposed as a secret Communist employed by Pearson in the guise of newspaper "reporter." He was identified as a Communist in July, 1951 by Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward, a Washington housewife who joined the party at the behest of the FBI to obtain information.

Pearson also employed one David Katz, alias Karr, who had worked on the Daily Worker in New York. Madeline Karr, his wife, for some time enjoyed the run of the White House during the Truman administration in the role of special correspondent of an obscure New York weekly published in the Greek language. The paper presently came under anti-Communist management and she was not retained. Gen. Harry Vaughan caused her credentials to be taken up. The new editor of the paper said it had no legitimate need of a special correspondent in the White House.

Mrs. Karr once applied for confidential work with the intelligence section of the assistant chief of staff in Washington.

Older's sister is Mrs. Julia Older Bazer. She spent about three years in Moscow editing a Russian paper. Both she and Andrew were born in Hartford, Conn., the daughter and son of a naturalized immigrant from Kaunas, Lithuania. Abner S. Ullman, for a time the United States attorney for the District of New Haven, Conn., was named as their cousin.

At the time of the expose of Older's Communist membership, the Washington Post, Pearson's principal propaganda outlet in the capital, failed to mention the fact that he had been one of Pearson's operatives. The city editor of the Post, a man who admitted that he formerly had been a member of the Young Communist League, gave a technical explanation of this omission. Mrs. Markward also named Older's wife, Isabel, as a party member.

The purpose of the Jenner committee in examining Mrs. Bazer was not to investigate her brother nor Pearson's staff but to ascertain how the United Nations could grant large cash indemnities to a group of American citizens "concerning whom," as Jenner put it, "there is evidence of Communist membership." Jenner also said Mrs. Bazer and two American men who had been employed by the United Nations, who also got large cash indemnities under similar conditions from the same UN tribunal, were at that time, September 1953, all working for one firm in New York. This was Herschaft Products, Inc.

Although the fact was well known that Pearson employed Karr and Older and thus gave them the same free access to important information that other reporters enjoy, there was no previous background knowledge about Older to conflict with Pearson's self-serving explanation that he regarded Older as merely "an unfortunate youngster," the implication was that Older was harmless.

It may be recalled, in this connection, that A. A. Berle, one of the New Deal playboys in the State Department under Roosevelt, but a member of the anti-Soviet clique, testified that secret information known as "Magic" was leaking into Pearson's column. He also expressed suspicion against one of Pearson's "legmen" but did not say whether this was Karr or someone else. Older was not working for Pearson at the time Berle dealt with.

Under examination by Robert Morris, then counsel to the Jenner Committee, now a municipal judge in New York, Mrs. Bazer said her first husband was Dr. Nathan Helfgott, whom she married in 1947. But she refused on constitutional grounds to say whether he was "the doctor for the Soviet embassy" in Washington, whether he was a member of the Communist Party or whether she asked for or got a job with the embassy. Helfgott died and the widow married Irving Bazer in 1950. She refused on the same ground to answer whether Bazer had been active in the party at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. (which is near Hyde Park), whether he ever

EISENHOWER'S PROGRAM

All during 1953, his first year in office, President Eisenhower was shot at for "not doing anything," for not having a program. Many people seemed to regard it as highly unreasonable that he should want time to study his problems and learn his job.

Mr. Eisenhower, who was reminded every hour on the hour that he was not a professional politician, stoutly resisted the professionals who urged him to yield to the clamor for action—however off-the-cuff it might be.

Now he has presented a program, and it is extensive.

He has offered a budget that calls for reduced expenditures, and made numerous suggestions designed to provide individual and business tax relief.

He has revised the nation's defense plans to shift emphasis from ground armies to an air force relying principally on the retaliatory power of A-bombs and H-bombs.

In the field of human relations and welfare, he has shaped positive proposals for revision of the Taft-Hartley labor law, for extension and improvement of social security, for better health protection and more adequate housing.

And he has put together a farm program aimed at assuring the farmer continued protection while permitting the government to escape from the costly, wasteful practice of buying up surpluses and storing them in warehouses.

No one may any longer say that the President does not have a program. Having it and getting it approved are, of course, two different things. Many parts of Mr. Eisenhower's offerings face stiff opposition, much of it from within his own party.

But whether the nation's lawmakers agree with the President's plans or not, they must acknowledge they are concrete. He has given them something to defend or attack, as they wish. He has prepared something for which he himself can fight. And he has stated plainly that he does intend to fight for it.

Evidently the President sincerely believes a large share of his program can get through Congress. It obviously was drafted with that in mind, not to make just a paper record of "good things asked for."

Some of the President's critics say he has not asked for enough in some fields. But Mr. Eisenhower has tried to measure not what would be nice to have, but what it would be possible to get.

His predecessor, former President Truman, often asked for a good deal more than he could get, and he knew it. He thought a paper program was shrewd politics.

It's much too early to tell, but it might just turn out that the combination of courage and practicality, which led Mr. Eisenhower first to resist early pressures and then to frame a program that could be largely palatable to Congress, will show him to be a more astute politician than the professionals.

FAMINE IN CHINA

An independent Chinese newspaper in Hong Kong reports that several hundred people were killed recently in an attempted raid on a government grain depot in the province of Kwantung. Other reports tell of drastic food rationing and of peasant riots against the authorities.

The Communists came to power in China through force. They won some adherents with promises of food and a better life. Instead of trying to deliver on that promise they plunged the country into the Korean war and great supplies of food were drained to support the troops in the field. In addition they exported food to Russia.

The lot of the Chinese people is unhappy. Millions of them have been born and grown to manhood without knowing what it means to live in a time of peace. They have lived all their lives with poverty, disease and war. Now a harsh and oppressive regime has been added to their list of woes.

The food riots indicate that these people are no longer docile and are approaching the point of desperation where their hunger and suffering may drive them to move serious uprisings. It may be that this internal unrest will make the Red leaders hesitate before embarking on future aggressive expeditions.

LAWYERS AND THE PRESS

For quite a bit, judges and lawyers have been quarreling over the right of the people to know what is going on about them, particularly as regards criminals. Louis Waldman is chairman of a Committee of the New York State Bar Association which has issued a recommendation to gag the press on pre-trial reporting that could be interpreted to mean that the press should be silent until a case has reached the United States Supreme Court, four or five years away. What a wonderful thing that would have been for the Rosenbergs!

Waldman cited an example in a speech he delivered presenting his report which completely shows the weakness of his thinking. Here it is:

"Within the last month a young woman student at a college close by New York City was viciously and brutally attacked. Two young men, one 16 and the other 21, were apprehended that very night by the police and placed under arrest for this atrocious crime. The police, in announcing the arrest of these youths, then proceeded to report that they had made a full confession admitting the assault and the press naturally carried this alleged confession as a prominent part of the story."

Waldman does not deny the rape, the confession, the guilt or anything about the case. He only says that Americans get emotional when their daughters or their neighbors' daughters get raped by hoodlums. He objects to the publication of such news because the rapist thereupon faces an irate public. Does he wish the fathers of the community to form a reception committee for the rapists and present the beasts with bouquets of roses?

Now along comes another lawyer, Edwin M. Otterbourg, President of the New York County Lawyers' Association, who has this to say:

"But the one great industry, the important fourth estate, has not yet adopted any enforceable code of ethics. To the contrary, each newspaper thinks it can be its own judge and jury to what it is right and wrong to do with respect to the reporting of litigations.

"It seems that in some fields, rights which have been given by law are being so abused that the time may come when the people who make the laws abridge these rights."

No newspaper instructs a reporter to commit a murder so that more newspapers will be sold. The murder is committed by the murderer, the rape by the rapist, the mugging by the mugger, the treachery by the traitor.

When the deed is done, there are four parties at interest, if we use a murder as an example:

1. The murdered person;
2. Those who are deprived of the life, the company, and sometimes the support of the murdered person;
3. The community which is entitled to peace and order and which pays heavily in taxes to see to it that murders do not take place;
4. The murderer, usually a person without whom the community can well exist.

While it is true that the murderer is entitled to a fair trial, it is also true that the murdered person is entitled to a fair trial, and it is also true that the community is justified in demanding that the malefactor be punished. The assumption that because a man has kidnaped a child, murdered the little boy, taken ransom money from his parents, broken their hearts and probably their lives, robbed a nation of parents of their peace of mind—the assumption that after a moron has done that, all human emotions should be repressed in his interest is arrant nonsense.

True, newspaper reporting makes it tough on lawyers whose interest is to get their clients off, to have a sentence reduced from first-degree murder to manslaughter, to have him imprisoned instead of executed, to get him a parole or a reprieve or a pardon. But that is not the public interest.

It must be admitted that some newspapers emphasize the sensational rather than the important, that in some the news is slanted by overemphasis or even distortion. But in the United States, there is such a variety of newspapers, radio and television reporting and news weeklies that the reader can select for himself that which he believes to be true. No one forces him to accept any one medium. No one deprives him of a different presentation. A free press is one which can be different and diverse in freedom.

PROTECTING THE WORKER

From time to time we read about certain workers (men and women) who suffer from the effects of chemicals with which they work. In some cases their very lives are at stake but fortunately this is not the case with the majority of workers. However, there are some cases in which the very surroundings, not chemicals, affect the workers' health and physicians and government research workers are trying to keep the worker in as good physical condition as possible.

In the United States Armed Forces Medical Journal, Dr. John H. Foulger states, "that whatever method is used to obtain information on the condition of workers exposed to chemicals, it should lead to frequent observation of each worker by the plant physician who will be able to see when the workers are failing in health. By frequent contact with the men, and particularly contact on the job, he will gain their confidence. This will have two results. Not only will the morale of the individual worker be raised but he will tend to come to the physician and tell him of factors in both his industrial life and in his home life which may be of the utmost importance in controlling the health in the plant."

There was a time, not so far back, when infections were the commonest cause of illness in the industrial plant, but treatment of infection has advanced so far in recent years that diseases caused by stress of living are assuming greater importance than diseases caused by bacteria or poisoning.

These diseases, called stress diseases are due to our attempt to live with our environment or surroundings, often with an environment which we ourselves set up or manufacture. In these days, when the work week has been shortened, the worker spends less time at the plant and more amid home or other surroundings. That part of the worker's week spent out of the plant is at least as important in conditioning the worker's total health and his ability to resist hazards from chemicals as in that part of the week spent in the plant. Any procedure that will help the physician to gather information about the total life of the worker is essential to a satisfactory program of conservation of health. In industry we are studying the whole man.

While the physician, generally speaking, is best equipped to look after the health and happiness of the worker, a good sensible social worker, male or female, can be of great help in learning of the home life of a worker and the worker's family which may have an important bearing on the workers' actual work at the plant and on his general health and happiness.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
Nea Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Now that the Berlin meeting of the Big Four Foreign Ministers is under way after months of note swapping and negotiations, there is considerable concern over how the conference can be brought to an end.

That may sound like a contradiction, but it isn't. How to end any diplomatic meeting where the participants aren't in complete agreement, or when they haven't settled anything, is always a problem. Nobody wants to take the responsibility for ending a peace conference.

It is recalled that at one of the wartime conferences, when America, Britain, China and Russia constituted the Big Four, the foreign ministers sat around for two days, doing nothing, because no one would take responsibility for a motion to adjourn. Finally the Americans and British ganged up on the Chinese and told their delegation they would have to end it on the day when it was China's turn to hold the rotating chairmanship. That was the last time the Chinese were ever invited to attend a Big Four Foreign Ministers meeting. France took China's place at the end of the war and has been there ever since.

There was another unhappy ending to the Foreign Ministers' meeting in London in 1947. Gen. George Marshall was U. S. Secretary of State then, and after three weeks of meeting without accomplishment, he took the responsibility for ending the thing abruptly.

Marshall Blasted Russians

Next day, when the American delegation was preparing to leave its hotel for the London airport to fly back to America, Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov called up to say that he had just heard from Moscow. The Kremlin didn't like the communique. Stalin wanted the conference reconvened to change it. Molotov begged. Secretary Marshall refused to have any part of it.

Marshall blasted the Russians for refusing to come to terms on an Austrian peace treaty, German boundaries and reparations. Molotov was heard to say, "This is awful." It has been awful ever since.

While the current Berlin meeting may be intended to straighten out some of these same problems that have been kicking around for seven years, its first round has been scheduled hopefully for only three weeks.

Because of the conference rule to have consecutive translations—instead of simultaneous translations through earphones—a three-week meeting of the foreign ministers is about equal to a one-week meeting. When Molotov makes a statement, for example, it has to be translated into both English and French before anyone can answer. The British are said to like it this way, because double translation gives them more time to think up answers.

All four of the foreign ministers at Berlin are old-timers at this business. U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles attended four of the postwar Council of Foreign Ministers' meetings as an adviser to his predecessors. Anthony Eden was Churchill's Foreign Office head all through the war and since the Conservatives' return to political power. Georges Bidault of France was foreign minister during the resistance days and in several postwar cabinets.

Center of Interest in 1947

As a matter of fact, Foreign Minister Bidault was the center of interest at the 1947 CFM meeting in Moscow. The French were doing a big job of wooing the Russians then. Bidault had his arm around Molotov's shoulders all the time at the start of this session.

At the first dinner which Molotov gave for his guests, Bidault was given the position of honor opposite his host. U. S. Secretary of State Marshall was at Molotov's right and Britain's Ernest Bevin at his left. Molotov and Bidault toasted each other often.

Everything went lovely for France until the question of the Saar came up. France insisted that she have political and economic control over this important industrial basin. But Molotov resisted France here, hoping perhaps to get Russian reparations out of it.

Somehow, Molotov managed to insult Bidault, and infuriated, the Frenchman almost broke up the conference. He was persuaded to stick it out only by Marshall and Bevin.

Personalities and trivialities of this kind play an important part in these conferences, to a degree not generally known. Today, Bidault is considered a much more mature statesman, and less of a politician than he was seven years ago. But in one sense, the Berlin conference is a repetition of that 1947 Moscow affair—with a reverse twist. This time the Russians are trying to woo France away from America and Britain. But again Bidault is key man at the conference. The way he votes may decide the outcome.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Feb. 4—Documentary proof now available in the published records of the Jenner Committee of the Senate shows Drew Pearson's Communist "legman," the late Andrew Older, was a brother of a woman who repeatedly refused to answer under oath whether she was a Communist and, ultimately, was awarded $27,000 by a tribunal of the United Nations because she was fired for refusing to answer.

Andrew Older was exposed as a secret Communist employed by Pearson in the guise of newspaper "reporter." He was identified as a Communist in July, 1951 by Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward, a Washington housewife who joined the party at the behest of the FBI to obtain information.

Pearson also employed one David Katz, alias Karr, who had worked on the Daily Worker in New York. Madeline Karr, his wife, for some time enjoyed the run of the White House during the Truman administration in the role of special correspondent of an obscure New York weekly published in the Greek language. The paper presently came under anti-Communist management and she was not retained. Gen. Harry Vaughan caused her credentials to be taken up. The new editor of the paper said it had no legitimate need of a special correspondent in the White House.

Mrs. Karr once applied for confidential work with the intelligence section of the assistant chief of staff in Washington.

Older's sister is Mrs. Julia Older Bazer. She spent about three years in Moscow editing a Russian paper. Both she and Andrew were born in Hartford, Conn., the daughter and son of a naturalized immigrant from Kaunas, Lithuania. Abner S. Ullman, for a time the United States attorney for the District of New Haven, Conn., was named as their cousin.

At the time of the expose of Older's Communist membership, the Washington Post, Pearson's principal propaganda outlet in the capital, failed to mention the fact that he had been one of Pearson's operatives. The city editor of the Post, a man who admitted that he formerly had been a member of the Young Communist League, gave a technical explanation of this omission. Mrs. Markward also named Older's wife, Isabel, as a party member.

The purpose of the Jenner committee in examining Mrs. Bazer was not to investigate her brother nor Pearson's staff but to ascertain how the United Nations could grant large cash indemnities to a group of American citizens "concerning whom," as Jenner put it, "there is evidence of Communist membership." Jenner also said Mrs. Bazer and two American men who had been employed by the United Nations, who also got large cash indemnities under similar conditions from the same UN tribunal, were at that time, September 1953, all working for one firm in New York. This was Herschaft Products, Inc.

Although the fact was well known that Pearson employed Karr and Older and thus gave them the same free access to important information that other reporters enjoy, there was no previous background knowledge about Older to conflict with Pearson's self-serving explanation that he regarded Older as merely "an unfortunate youngster," the implication was that Older was harmless.

It may be recalled, in this connection, that A. A. Berle, one of the New Deal playboys in the State Department under Roosevelt, but a member of the anti-Soviet clique, testified that secret information known as "Magic" was leaking into Pearson's column. He also expressed suspicion against one of Pearson's "legmen" but did not say whether this was Karr or someone else. Older was not working for Pearson at the time Berle dealt with.

Under examination by Robert Morris, then counsel to the Jenner Committee, now a municipal judge in New York, Mrs. Bazer said her first husband was Dr. Nathan Helfgott, whom she married in 1947. But she refused on constitutional grounds to say whether he was "the doctor for the Soviet embassy" in Washington, whether he was a member of the Communist Party or whether she asked for or got a job with the embassy. Helfgott died and the widow married Irving Bazer in 1950. She refused on the same ground to answer whether Bazer had been active in the party at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. (which is near Hyde Park), whether he ever

Governor Expects President to Run And Win in 1956

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP)—Gov. Dewey expects President Eisenhower to run again and win in 1956.

Dewey also predicts victory for the Republican ticket in the state eelctions next fall, regardless of whether he heads it.

The Governor did his crystal-gazing at a news conference last evening.

Asked whether he thought Eisenhower would seek a second term, Dewey said, "I certainly expect and hope so," and "if he ran again I'm sure he'd win."

The national administration "is making a monumental record of achievement," the governor said. "I am certain it will win the confidence of the people of the state."

Dewey planned a big part in obtaining the Republican nomination for Eisenhower in 1952.

There has been repeated speculation on whether Eisenhower would seek re-election and whether Dewey might seek a fourth term as governor in order to be in position to try for the 1956 GOP presidential nomination in the event Eisenhower decided to retire. Dewey repeated that he would announce his own plans "in the spring." But whatever these might be, his party "surely" would retain control of the state in November's balloting he said.

Expects GOP Majority

The governor predicted that the Republicans would retain their 27-16 majority in the state's congressional delegation.

Turning to other matters, Dewey said that "not by one inch" would the state power authority become a Tennessee Valley authority type of undertaking. He said the authority, in tapping the St. Lawrence river's hydro-electric potential, would not go beyond producing power, which it will sell to private utilities.

The governor said no decision had been made on proposals advanced by Mayor Robert F. Wagner for additional state relief of New York city's financial distress.

Dewey said he expected the Moreland Act commission investigating harness racing to report in time for its recommendations to be considered by the Legislature before adjournment late in March.

Dewey declared he had a "good many ideas" about new laws to govern the sulky sport, including two he said were "absolute musts," namely:

1. Giving the harness racing "czar" the power to determine the identity and character of every stockholder in a pari-mutuel track before it was given a license.

Increase is 'Must'

2. An increase in the state's share of the 15 per cent "bite" on the betting handle at harness tracks and a corresponding decrease in the tracks' share. The amount of the proposed increase has not yet been decided.

Dewey said he still was for a fixed annual fee for New York state residents using the thruway. He didn't know how much the fee would be, but he said he wanted "the best and cheapest" methods of providing thruway service to motorists.

Asked whether he would support Rep. William Miller's candidacy for re-election, in view of his clash with the Lockport Republican on development of Niagara river power, Dewey said he would. He explained that "I have always supported members of my ticket and Republicans generally."

Dewey favors state development of Niagara. Miller advocates private development.

New Wing On Wayside Furniture Store

The Butler Furniture Company, located on Route 28A in West Hurley, has recently completed a new wing on its quarters which makes it the largest wayside furniture store in Ulster county, according to Heber Butler, owner. The original building, shown in the foreground, was erected by Mr. Butler and his wife, Doris, operating as partners, to house a small furniture business opened by the Butlers upon their moving to Ulster county. The rapid expansion of the business necessitated one addition, and continued increases made the present or second addition mandatory. The Butler family has been associated with furniture merchandising for years, with the present owner's father operating a furniture store in New England for many years.

Teachers Request

didate for the position of principal."

These points included such items as "the confidence and respect of the teaching staff as well as of the Board members," "a public and private moral code in evidence so as to command respect of the student body," "a working knowledge of Kingston High School," "an open mind," "a strong resolution to consider all departments as being equally important," and others.

In their comments this morning, Mason and Banyo joined in deploring a reaction on the part of the public that inclusion of these points—intended merely as guides had implied that the teachers organizations were opposed to the present high school administration.

"We don't want to strain the good relations that now exist between our members and the administrative staff," the signers said. "There was nothing in our letter to the Board to imply that relations were strained in any way."

They pointed out that it was their understanding that it has been the "express desire" of the Board that teachers have a part in the selection of a permanent principal.

Text of Letter

Following is the text of the letter addressed to members of the Board of Education and dated February 4:

"At a joint meeting of the KTA and KTF High School teachers held on February 2, 1954, a motion was carried 'that we send a statement to the Board reminding them of their offer in the Spring of 1953 expressing willingness on their part to have a teachers' committee work with them in the selection of a permanent principal for the high school.'

"The continuance of the temporary state of administration of Kingston High School is the subject of much discussion among the faculty members. It is felt that more than enough time has elapsed in which the Board of Education had opportunity to thoroughly screen all applicants for the position. It is also felt that a permanent appointment is necessary this year in order to give a sense of security and direction to the members of the teaching staff, who feel the urgent need for strong leadership in the meeting of such problems as student discipline, teacher morale, curriculum organization and revision, and administrative organization.

Would Resume Contact

"With the above thoughts in mind the two teacher organizations, KTA and KTF wish to resume contact with the Board of Education relative to the appointment of a permanent high school administrative staff. The teacher organizations feel at ease in expressing this wish because it was the express desire of the Board that the teachers have a part in the selection of the permanent principal.

"In order to give the Board members some idea of what the teachers expect to find in a candidate for the position of principal, the teachers' organizations submit, respectfully, the following guides:

"1. The confidence and respect of the teaching staff as well as the Board members.

"2. A public and private moral code in evidence so as to command respect of the student body.

"3. A sense of discipline, an awareness of the teen age departures from accepted norms of behavior and a method of handling them firmly and effectively.

"4. A working knowledge of Kingston High School, its organization, staffs, curriculum, problems.

"5. An open mind, a forward-looking view on curriculum development and the changing complexion of the high school picture.

"6. A willingness and determination to serve the student body and faculty as well as the public.

"7. An understanding of the problems and difficulties facing beginning teachers and new teachers on the staff—and a willingness to help these people.

"8. A strong resolution to consider all departments as being equally important — recognizing the morale factor involved in the evil of special treatment."

The letter was signed by Alexander Banyo, president, KTA, and Richard H. Mason, president, KTF.

Board Refers

merit by July 1, 1952, deadline for filing such standards, did not fulfill requirements of the state education law and that the advisory committee was, therefore, defunct.

Bruhn Outlines Case

Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, a member of the board, outlined briefly an appeal by the Syracuse Teachers Association from a decision of the board of education of that city. It was the opinion of the State Education Department hearing commissioner that the salary schedule of the Syracuse teachers was automatic, since the board had not filed standards for promotion on a merit basis prior to July 1, 1952, but that the board was not prohibited from proceeding to adopt standards and conditions for promotional increments at any time, provided classroom teachers, through an advisory committee, participate in such adoption.

Law Is Quoted

According to the State Education Law quoted by Bruhn in the Syracues case, the interest of the legislature in enacting Section 3102 was to provide classroom teachers with an opportunity to "participate in the formulation of standards and conditions for promotional increments."

This opportunity to so participate carries with it a duty to afford the problem serious study and thought and to make timely and definite recommendations to the board of education. Of course, if the advisory committee refuses to make a timely report of recommendations to the board of education, the board, after noting such a refusal upon its records, would then be authorized to proceed to adopt reasonable standards and conditions.

"Where standards and conditions are adopted subsequent to July 1, 1952, such standards and conditions may not become effective until a reasonable period of time has elapsed after adoption to allow teachers an opportunity to comply with the requirements of such standards and conditions. Of course, if the standards and conditions adopted do not require affirmative action by the teachers but, for example, are based upon experience, then it would be possible for the standards and conditions to become effective immediately."

the plan, suggesting the board of supervisors go along with the plan. Among them were the Kingston Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber of Commerce.

$669,045 in Claims

Claims amounting to a total of $669,045 have been filed against the county and actions commenced by six people who claim damages resulting from negligent maintenance of highways in the county.

County Attorney Arthur A. Davis, Jr., suggested the matter of insurance against this type of claim be investigated by the Insurance Committee and if that proves to be too costly then the county set aside in a special fund moneys to meet such claims so that in the event of a large claim there will be funds to care for the payment without creating a heavy burden on the taxpayers in any one year or make necessary the borrowing of money to meet a large claim.

Those filing claims were:

Roberta and Norman Myers $60,000.

Donald and Wilbur Quinn $100,000.

Ernest E. Schaffert $300,000.

Harvey L. Every $200,000.

Sidney S., and Sidney Z. Castle $1,545.

Arthur J. Perry $7,500.

County Attorney Davis said the claims were of a varied nature running from damage to vehicles which had skidded on ice bridges to claims for damages from striking holes in pavements.

Reports Filed

Reports from the Ulster County Publicity Committee, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency and the Board of Elections were received and filed.

The board renewed the present contract with IBM to extend the tax rolls and do other work under the same terms as last year.

A resolution was approved authorizing Chairman Phinney to sign a release when Frank R. Benjamin reimburses the county for damage to a car of Sheriff Schantz's office which was wrecked in an accident at Lucas avenue and Washington avenue on January 12. An offer to settle the claim for $1,056.34 has been made.

The chairman was authorized to sign a contract with Architect Harry Halverson who has prepared plans and specifications for remodeling the former City Home. Plans have already been prepared.

Jesse McHugh, Shawangunk supervisor, was re-appointed a member of the Ulster County Board of Health for 1954-55.

Supervisor Eckert of the town of Esopus offered a resolution in regard to the petition now pending before the Public Service Commission for installation of light signals to replace the present bell system at the West Shore railroad crossing at Port Ewen station and on the crossing a mile south of the Ulster Park crossing. The resolution called for approval of the plan by the board.

The board then adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

Organized excavations of Pompeii which was buried under volcanic ash in 79 A. D. were started in 1748.

Taxpayers Advised To Bring Records To Federal Office

Taxpayers visiting the local Internal Revenue Service office for help with their federal income tax returns, should bring along all necessary data and records with them, Riley J. Ratterree, District Director of Internal Revenue, said today.

Ratterree explained that internal revenue agents, when asked to help prepare a return, must have all data and records pertaining to the taxpayer's 1953 income, exemptions, and deductable expenses. It is important that tax withholding statements received from employers be brought.

Assistance will be given each taxpayer as time and personnel limitations permit, but taxpayers are asked to fill out as much of the return as they can and then bring full and accurate data and withholding statements with them for completion of the form by the agent.

Must Be Correct

"Our aim to help the taxpayer help himself," said Ratterree, "we cannot give a blanket invitation to all taxpayers to have their returns prepared by our personnel."

He advised taxpayers who seek some assistance at the Internal Revenue office to bring mathematically correct data. If some expenses are part business and part personal in nature, the taxpayer may deduct the business portion on Schdule C of Form 1040m but he may not deduct the personal portion of the expenses in Schedule C. Some personal expenses are, however, deductible on page 3 of the return, Mr. Ratterree explained.

Taxpayers whose income consists entirely of wages often do not have any allowance business deductions in which case they are limited to deductable personal expenses only.

Deductable Expenses

Listed as the principal kinds of personal expenses which may be deductable are:

Contributions to recognized religious and charitable organizations.

Medical expenses of the taxpayer and his dependents, which are deductable in full if the taxpayer is over 65, and otherwise are deductable to the extent that they exceed 5 per cent of his adjusted gross income, subject in all cases to maximum limitations.

State and local taxes and automobile license fees, but not federal taxes.

Interest paid on personal indebtedness.

Nonbusiness losses due to casualties such as accident, fire, storm and shipwreck, or due to theft.

Alimony payments made periodically and reported as taxable income by the person receiving them.

The tax official pointed out that instead of itemizing their personal deductions, taxpayers may accept a standard deduction which is usually equal to 10 per cent of one's income. Mr. Ratterree said that about 45 million of the 58 million taxpayers who filed last year found it to their advantage to accept the standard deduction.

"It not only reduces the tax liability of many taxpayers," he said, "but it makes filing a tax return much simpler."

New York Bidder Highest on Bonds

C. J. Devine, of New York with a premium of $727.20 and interest of 1.4 was the successful bidder at the city's sale of $222,000 in 1953 equipment and improvement bonds at the office of City Treasurer Oscar A. Goodsell, yesterday.

Other bidders were Guarantee Trust of New York, premium $308.58 and interest 1.4; State of New York National Bank, premium $291 and same interest; Rondout National Bank, premium $156, same interest; F. Dupont, New York, premium $111, same interest; Blair Rollins, New York premium $105, same interest and Kingston Trust Company, no premium and 2 per cent interest.

Inquiry Codes

counsel of the Internal Security group headed by Sen. William E. Jenner (R.-Ind.) cautioned against too rigid a rein on investigating bodies.

Committee experts are best qualified to judge fairness of procedures, he maintained, especially where crime and subversion are involved.

And Morris said, Communist witnesses or lawyers might disrupt inquiries if given the right to cross-examine.

One witness, Phillip W. Haberman, proposed that government hearings be as secret as grand jury proceedings to protect the rights of innocent persons. Haberman was on the staffs of the Seabury and Rapp-Coudert investigations.

As for ethics and integrity of government officers, publicity was proposed as the best means of preventing wrong-doing.

Former Dean James M. Landis of Harvard Law School agreed with Dean William G. Warren, of Columbia University's School of Law, that public disclosure is a "powerful instrument."

One of the things Landis would make public is a legislator's stock holdings in a state-regulated industry.

Warren held that a code for party politicians and office holders might be difficult and dangerous to draw up and could seem to condone something that might turn out to be wrong.

Warren suggested a permanent commission on ethics with wide investigative power. He said such a commission eventually would build up a code of ethics through its rulings.

Rep. Stuyvesant Wainwright (R-N.Y.) recommended appointing instead of electing State Supreme Court and Appeals Court justices. He also suggested that county political chairmen be paid by their parties and that they be kept from practicing law in cases involving state or local government.

Water Surveys Are To Start Monday In IBM Section

Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent, said today that surveys would get under way Monday in the area of the proposed extension of local water service to the location selected for the IBM plant in the town of Ulster as a result of action by the Kingston Board of Water Commissioners last night.

The board adopted a resolution authorizing Benjamin Schecter, its president, to petition the New York State Water Power and Control Commission for permission to extend the water line. The commission, it is expected, will conduct a hearing before giving a decision.

The board also authorized C. L. Bogert Associates, of New York, consulting engineers to the local water department, to prepare plans and specifications as soon as possible.

Part of $540,000 Plan

Extension of the water line requires the obtaining of easements from A. H. Chambers and Pratt Boice over whose land the 4,000-foot extension will be installed. The project is part of the department's $540,000 improvement program scheduled for this year.

Engineers from Giffels & Vallett, architectual engineers of Detroit, Mich., who will design and construct the IBM plant, others from the C. L. Bogert Associates and local officials discussed engineering details of the water line project at a meeting in Cloonan's office Wednesday.

City water service will be improved through replacement of an old, inadequate water line between the filter plant and the Jockey Hill road with new 18-inch pipe for about a mile, through the erection of a standpipe in the 12th ward and by other scheduled additions and changes.

The 94,000 accidental deaths in the United States in 1953 were about 2,000 fewer than those of 1952.

2. An increase in the state's share of the 15 per cent "bite" on the betting handle at harness tracks and a corresponding decrease in the tracks' share. The amount of the proposed increase has not yet been decided.

Dewey said he still was for a fixed annual fee for New York state residents using the thruway. He didn't know how much the fee would be, but he said he wanted "the best and cheapest" methods of providing thruway service to motorists.

Asked whether he would support Rep. William Miller's candidacy for re-election, in view of his clash with the Lockport Republican on development of Niagara river power, Dewey said he would. He explained that "I have always supported members of my ticket and Republicans generally."

Dewey favors state development of Niagara. Miller advocates private development.

Katrine Polio Fund Still Open for Money

The Mothers March on Polio conducted in Lake Katrine sector earlier in the week netted $184.85, according to a report from the committee, a spokesman for which said others may donate to swell the total.

Anyone in the area, especially around Ruby, where some houses were missed, may contribute by phoning Mrs. John McCardle, 158-R-1, or Mrs. Rudolph Soltz, 37-J-1.

New Wing On Wayside Furniture Store

The Butler Furniture Company, located on Route 28A in West Hurley, has recently completed a new wing on its quarters which makes it the largest wayside furniture store in Ulster county, according to Heber Butler, owner. The original building, shown in the foreground, was erected by Mr. Butler and his wife, Doris, operating as partners, to house a small furniture business opened by the Butlers upon their moving to Ulster county. The rapid expansion of the business necessitated one addition, and continued increases made the present or second addition mandatory. The Butler family has been associated with furniture merchandising for years, with the present owner's father operating a furniture store in New England for many years.

didate for the position of principal."

These points included such items as "the confidence and respect of the teaching staff as well as of the Board members," "a public and private moral code in evidence so as to command respect of the student body," "a working knowledge of Kingston High School," "an open mind," "a strong resolution to consider all departments as being equally important," and others.

In their comments this morning, Mason and Banyo joined in deploring a reaction on the part of the public that inclusion of these points—intended merely as guides had implied that the teachers organizations were opposed to the present high school administration.

"We don't want to strain the good relations that now exist between our members and the administrative staff," the signers said. "There was nothing in our letter to the Board to imply that relations were strained in any way."

They pointed out that it was their understanding that it has been the "express desire" of the Board that teachers have a part in the selection of a permanent principal.

Text of Letter

Following is the text of the letter addressed to members of the Board of Education and dated February 4:

"At a joint meeting of the KTA and KTF High School teachers held on February 2, 1954, a motion was carried 'that we send a statement to the Board reminding them of their offer in the Spring of 1953 expressing willingness on their part to have a teachers' committee work with them in the selection of a permanent principal for the high school.'

"The continuance of the temporary state of administration of Kingston High School is the subject of much discussion among the faculty members. It is felt that more than enough time has elapsed in which the Board of Education had opportunity to thoroughly screen all applicants for the position. It is also felt that a permanent appointment is necessary this year in order to give a sense of security and direction to the members of the teaching staff, who feel the urgent need for strong leadership in the meeting of such problems as student discipline, teacher morale, curriculum organization and revision, and administrative organization.

Would Resume Contact

"With the above thoughts in mind the two teacher organizations, KTA and KTF wish to resume contact with the Board of Education relative to the appointment of a permanent high school administrative staff. The teacher organizations feel at ease in expressing this wish because it was the express desire of the Board that the teachers have a part in the selection of the permanent principal.

"In order to give the Board members some idea of what the teachers expect to find in a candidate for the position of principal, the teachers' organizations submit, respectfully, the following guides:

"1. The confidence and respect of the teaching staff as well as the Board members.

"2. A public and private moral code in evidence so as to command respect of the student body.

"3. A sense of discipline, an awareness of the teen age departures from accepted norms of behavior and a method of handling them firmly and effectively.

"4. A working knowledge of Kingston High School, its organization, staffs, curriculum, problems.

"5. An open mind, a forward-looking view on curriculum development and the changing complexion of the high school picture.

"6. A willingness and determination to serve the student body and faculty as well as the public.

"7. An understanding of the problems and difficulties facing beginning teachers and new teachers on the staff—and a willingness to help these people.

"8. A strong resolution to consider all departments as being equally important — recognizing the morale factor involved in the evil of special treatment."

The letter was signed by Alexander Banyo, president, KTA, and Richard H. Mason, president, KTF.

Board Refers

merit by July 1, 1952, deadline for filing such standards, did not fulfill requirements of the state education law and that the advisory committee was, therefore, defunct.

Bruhn Outlines Case

Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, a member of the board, outlined briefly an appeal by the Syracuse Teachers Association from a decision of the board of education of that city. It was the opinion of the State Education Department hearing commissioner that the salary schedule of the Syracuse teachers was automatic, since the board had not filed standards for promotion on a merit basis prior to July 1, 1952, but that the board was not prohibited from proceeding to adopt standards and conditions for promotional increments at any time, provided classroom teachers, through an advisory committee, participate in such adoption.

Law Is Quoted

According to the State Education Law quoted by Bruhn in the Syracues case, the interest of the legislature in enacting Section 3102 was to provide classroom teachers with an opportunity to "participate in the formulation of standards and conditions for promotional increments."

This opportunity to so participate carries with it a duty to afford the problem serious study and thought and to make timely and definite recommendations to the board of education. Of course, if the advisory committee refuses to make a timely report of recommendations to the board of education, the board, after noting such a refusal upon its records, would then be authorized to proceed to adopt reasonable standards and conditions.

"Where standards and conditions are adopted subsequent to July 1, 1952, such standards and conditions may not become effective until a reasonable period of time has elapsed after adoption to allow teachers an opportunity to comply with the requirements of such standards and conditions. Of course, if the standards and conditions adopted do not require affirmative action by the teachers but, for example, are based upon experience, then it would be possible for the standards and conditions to become effective immediately."

Claims amounting to a total of $669,045 have been filed against the county and actions commenced by six people who claim damages resulting from negligent maintenance of highways in the county.

County Attorney Arthur A. Davis, Jr., suggested the matter of insurance against this type of claim be investigated by the Insurance Committee and if that proves to be too costly then the county set aside in a special fund moneys to meet such claims so that in the event of a large claim there will be funds to care for the payment without creating a heavy burden on the taxpayers in any one year or make necessary the borrowing of money to meet a large claim.

Those filing claims were:

Roberta and Norman Myers $60,000.

Donald and Wilbur Quinn $100,000.

Ernest E. Schaffert $300,000.

Harvey L. Every $200,000.

Sidney S., and Sidney Z. Castle $1,545.

Arthur J. Perry $7,500.

County Attorney Davis said the claims were of a varied nature running from damage to vehicles which had skidded on ice bridges to claims for damages from striking holes in pavements.

Reports Filed

Reports from the Ulster County Publicity Committee, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency and the Board of Elections were received and filed.

The board renewed the present contract with IBM to extend the tax rolls and do other work under the same terms as last year.

A resolution was approved authorizing Chairman Phinney to sign a release when Frank R. Benjamin reimburses the county for damage to a car of Sheriff Schantz's office which was wrecked in an accident at Lucas avenue and Washington avenue on January 12. An offer to settle the claim for $1,056.34 has been made.

The chairman was authorized to sign a contract with Architect Harry Halverson who has prepared plans and specifications for remodeling the former City Home. Plans have already been prepared.

Jesse McHugh, Shawangunk supervisor, was re-appointed a member of the Ulster County Board of Health for 1954-55.

Supervisor Eckert of the town of Esopus offered a resolution in regard to the petition now pending before the Public Service Commission for installation of light signals to replace the present bell system at the West Shore railroad crossing at Port Ewen station and on the crossing a mile south of the Ulster Park crossing. The resolution called for approval of the plan by the board.

The board then adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

Taxpayers Advised To Bring Records To Federal Office

Taxpayers visiting the local Internal Revenue Service office for help with their federal income tax returns, should bring along all necessary data and records with them, Riley J. Ratterree, District Director of Internal Revenue, said today.

Ratterree explained that internal revenue agents, when asked to help prepare a return, must have all data and records pertaining to the taxpayer's 1953 income, exemptions, and deductable expenses. It is important that tax withholding statements received from employers be brought.

Assistance will be given each taxpayer as time and personnel limitations permit, but taxpayers are asked to fill out as much of the return as they can and then bring full and accurate data and withholding statements with them for completion of the form by the agent.

Must Be Correct

"Our aim to help the taxpayer help himself," said Ratterree, "we cannot give a blanket invitation to all taxpayers to have their returns prepared by our personnel."

He advised taxpayers who seek some assistance at the Internal Revenue office to bring mathematically correct data. If some expenses are part business and part personal in nature, the taxpayer may deduct the business portion on Schdule C of Form 1040m but he may not deduct the personal portion of the expenses in Schedule C. Some personal expenses are, however, deductible on page 3 of the return, Mr. Ratterree explained.

Taxpayers whose income consists entirely of wages often do not have any allowance business deductions in which case they are limited to deductable personal expenses only.

Deductable Expenses

Listed as the principal kinds of personal expenses which may be deductable are:

Contributions to recognized religious and charitable organizations.

Medical expenses of the taxpayer and his dependents, which are deductable in full if the taxpayer is over 65, and otherwise are deductable to the extent that they exceed 5 per cent of his adjusted gross income, subject in all cases to maximum limitations.

State and local taxes and automobile license fees, but not federal taxes.

Interest paid on personal indebtedness.

Nonbusiness losses due to casulaties such as accident, fire, storm and shipwreck, or due to theft.

Alimony payments made periodically and reported as taxable income by the person receiving them.

The tax official pointed out that instead of itemizing their personal deductions, taxpayers may accept a standard deduction which is usually equal to 10 per cent of one's income. Mr. Ratterree said that about 45 million of the 58 million taxpayers who filed last year found it to their advantage to accept the standard deduction.

"It not only reduces the tax liability of many taxpayers," he said, "but it makes filing a tax return much simpler."

New York Bidder Highest on Bonds

C. J. Devine, of New York with a premium of $727.20 and interest of 1.4 was the successful bidder at the city's sale of $222,000 in 1953 equipment and improvement bonds at the office of City Treasurer Oscar A. Goodsell, yesterday.

Other bidders were Guarantee Trust of New York, premium $308.58 and interest 1.4; State of New York National Bank, premium $291 and same interest; Rondout National Bank, premium $156, same interest; F. Dupont, New York, premium $111, same interest; Blair Rollins, New York premium $105, same interest and Kingston Trust Company, no premium and 2 per cent interest.

Inquiry Codes

counsel of the Internal Security group headed by Sen. William E. Jenner (R.-Ind.) cautioned against too rigid a rein on investigating bodies.

Committee experts are best qualified to judge fairness of procedures, he maintained, especially where crime and subversion are involved.

And Morris said, Communist witnesses or lawyers might disrupt inquiries if given the right to cross-examine.

One witness, Phillip W. Haberman, proposed that government hearings be as secret as grand jury proceedings to protect the rights of innocent persons. Haberman was on the staffs of the Seabury and Rapp-Coudert investigations.

As for ethics and integrity of government officers, publicity was proposed as the best means of preventing wrong-doing.

Former Dean James M. Landis of Harvard Law School agreed with Dean William G. Warren, of Columbia University's School of Law, that public disclosure is a "powerful instrument."

One of the things Landis would make public is a legislator's stock holdings in a state-regulated industry.

Warren held that a code for party politicians and office holders might be difficult and dangerous to draw up and could seem to condone something that might turn out to be wrong.

Warren suggested a permanent commission on ethics with wide investigative power. He said such a commission eventually would build up a code of ethics through its rulings.

Rep. Stuyvesant Wainwright (R-N.Y.) recommended appointing instead of electing State Supreme Court and Appeals Court justices. He also suggested that county political chairmen be paid by their parties and that they be kept from practicing law in cases involving state or local government.

Water Surveys Are To Start Monday In IBM Section

Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent, said today that surveys would get under way Monday in the area of the proposed extension of local water service to the location selected for the IBM plant in the town of Ulster as a result of action by the Kingston Board of Water Commissioners last night.

The board adopted a resolution authorizing Benjamin Schecter, its president, to petition the New York State Water Power and Control Commission for permission to extend the water line. The commission, it is expected, will conduct a hearing before giving a decision.

The board also authorized C. L. Bogert Associates, of New York, consulting engineers to the local water department, to prepare plans and specifications as soon as possible.

Part of $540,000 Plan

Extension of the water line requires the obtaining of easements from A. H. Chambers and Pratt Boice over whose land the 4,000-foot extension will be installed. The project is part of the department's $540,000 improvement program scheduled for this year.

Engineers from Giffels & Vallett, architectual engineers of Detroit, Mich., who will design and construct the IBM plant, others from the C. L. Bogert Associates and local officials discussed engineering details of the water line project at a meeting in Cloonan's office Wednesday.

City water service will be improved through replacement of an old, inadequate water line between the filter plant and the Jockey Hill road with new 18-inch pipe for about a mile, through the erection of a standpipe in the 12th ward and by other scheduled additions and changes.

The 94,000 accidental deaths in the United States in 1953 were about 2,000 fewer than those of 1952.

Roesch Gets Head Post at Electrol

Edgar B. Roesch, formerly of New York and now residing at Stone Ridge, was promoted this week to plant manager of Electrol Inc., 85 Grand street, it was learned today.

A spokesman for Electrol said today that Roesch had been production control manager at the plant for eight months. The promotion became effective Monday.

Roesch has had many years in the type of work handled by Electrol, the spokesman said. He came here from Virginia last year.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

Now that numberless predicters have aired their predictions—as they always do at year-ends and year-starts—and the President has submitted his annual economic message to the Congress, as the law requires, what's going to happen?

You'd think from the above lengthy question that the Ruminator was about to predict. But that isn't what I had in mind in asking the question.

This column is concerned primarily with "contrary opinions" and with developments which might cause events to turn in unexpected directions.

Up until, say, the middle of January "opinions" had been pretty solidly packed in one corner. And from that corner you heard an almost unanimous opinion expressed that 1954 would witness a mild recession, or readjustment, in business which would be measured in a falling off of only five to seven per cent. How in the world so many different analysts and economists hit upon similar figures is indeed strange. But I suppose a five per cent dip in business indexes is small, whereas if a ten per cent drop occurred it would be a noticeable recession.

In any event, the opinions were in close agreement.

At the same time that economists and professional forecasters were doing their crystal gazing, businessmen were becoming more and more cheerful and optimistic.

Then along about the middle of January you began to sense some shifting of the generalized composite opinion. At first, when they occur, these shifts cannot be pinpointed. Changes in opinions sort of drift about, as a row boat will swing around slowly because of some eddy in the current. As the days passed it became noticeable that there was more and more optimism in statements you ran across in news-bulletins and newspapers. Perhaps the rising stock market had a good deal to do with it. When prices go up in Wall Street they have a lot of influence upon general business sentiment. "Everybody" feels better when the market is rising—particularly at a time when there has just been a great deal of slump talk (as has been the case recently).

While this shift in opinions and sentiment seemed to be in evidence along comes the date for President Eisenhower to deliver the economic report which is required under an Act of 1946. This Act put the Council of Economic Advisers into effect. These three wise men and their assistants supply the President with his data and suggest the tenor of his messages and recommendations.

I dwell upon these messages at length because they are influential. After all, here is an economic report straight from headquarters (straight from the horse's mouth, as they say about race-track tips).

And—last week's annual report was generally most encouraging. The President evidently expects an early end to the little business dip which put in an appearance last year. Moreover, if it doesn't wind up promptly the government will throw its weight around and make business step along. We have "a formidable arsenal of weapons" to throw into the breach, said the President, if they are required to off-set a depression.

The question then arises from our contrary-opinion analysis whether the economic report—coming on the heels of both a rising stock market and a rising degree of optimism whether all together the influences will bring about a condition where we contrarians, to be "opposite", will have to turn pessimistic.

The contrary view up to, we'll say, the end of January, has been double-edged, as you may read here before: Instead of the mild set-back generally predicted, we might expect either (1) a resurgence of the boom, or (2) a slump of far greater proportions than the five-per-cent figure so often quoted. It has been the Ruminator's guess that a resurgence of the boom seemed not improbable and an alternative to watch for.

It will take a little time to see if the influences mentioned will bring about buying-and-spending activities that will quickly dispel thoughts of the recession. If optimism and "talk" grow too strongly we shall have to give thought to the discouraging side of the equation—but for the present let's see what effects will spring from the apparently shifting attitudes. It is too early to change sides.

February is a month that often gives some indications of forward trends. So let's be on the look-out for harbingers of things-to-come.

Scouts Are Urged To Attend Church In Uniform Sunday

The Rev. Harvey I. Todd of Woodstock, who is chairman of the Kingston Ministerial Committee on Boy Scouting, has announced that all Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers have been urged to celebrate Scout Sunday, Feb. 7 by attending their own church, in uniform and with their family. He announced that there would be no council-wide convocation service this year.

Emphasis during Scout Week, Feb. 7-13 will be on Scout families participation in activities together. Special emphasis has been placed on the work, time and effort the unit leaders—cubmasters, scoutmasters and explorer advisors—put into the scouting program. All institutions using the scout program have been urged to pay special recognition to their scout leaders during Scout Week.

Activities Listed

In each of the seven districts comprising the Rip Van Winkle Council there will be a special district activity for the units and the parents of the boys. A movie was enjoyed and refreshments served following the business meeting.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Henry Singer, president of the Downtown Businessmen's Association asked if I had information on the boundaries of Rondout and other information from way back. Here is some data from the Gazetteer and Business Directory of Ulster county for 1871-1872. "The Village of Rondout, situated on the Hudson, at the Rondout creek, was incorporated April 4, 1849. It was formerly known as The Strand and Kingston Landing, and for a time as Bolton, in honor of the president of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Co. The surface is very uneven and the streets laid out with little regard to regularity. It is a thriving business place and has a greater tonnage than any other place on the Hudson river above New York. More than 30 steamers are owned here, and many of which, as well as a large number of barges and sailing vessels, are engaged in the transportation of stone, coal, cement, brick, etc. Regular steamers ply between Rondout, New York and intermediate points. A steam ferry connects it with Rhinebeck on the Hudson River Raidroad and another ferry with Sleightsburgh. A horse railroad connects it with Kingston. It has 10 churches and two Jewish Synagogues, three banks, two newspaper offices, three public schools, several manufactories and about 10,000 inhabitants.

The description of Rondout back in 1871 took up about twice the space of the Village of Kingston. Also said the village of Rondout is the eastern terminus of the Rondout and Oswego Railroad. "The most important manufacturing plant is that of the Newark Lime and Cement Manufacturing Company with some 300 employed." It further said "Wiltwyck is a small village connecting Rondout and Kingston. Wilbur, on the Rondout Creek, about a mile above Rondout, is a great shipping point of blue stone, amounting to a million and a half dollars annually. S. & W. B. Fitch are among the large dealers in blue stone. It has 1,000 inhabitants.

The above appeared in The Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, Oct. 21, 1921 on the front page. The heading of the paper for that day was: "Daily Freeman 50 years old Tuesday." They looked into the Kingston Business directory of 1871 and found some of the following: "Valentine Burgevin, nursery, head of Pearl street. Howard Chipp, lawyer, Wall, father of the present Howard Chipp. Albert Cohen, Cohen and Corn, clothing, 47-44 North Front street, business now conducted by S. Cohen's Sons. Eagle Hotel, Main street, H. W. Winne, proprietor. B. J. Hornbeck, Walton & Hornbeck, William M. Walton and B. J. Hornbeck, cigar manufacturers, Crown street. H. W. Palen, carpenter, Wall street, near St. James street, now H. W. Palen's Sons, a corporation. Charles B. Safford, jewelry, etc., 26 Wall street, now Safford & Scudder. In that way they wanted to show how the various business enterprises were continued.

They also gave a list of Rondout names as taken from the 1891 directory and who were in business in 1921. There was J. B. Alliger, teller of the National Bank of Rondout. George Basten, physician, one door above Mansion House, Division street. Adolph Eichler, wines and liquors, Chester near Union. Ida Fisher, restaurant. C. Hiltebrant, shipwright, Compact Basin, now C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Co., Inc., William Hutton, lumber merchant, Columbus avenue, now The Hutton Co.

'54 Heart Drive Opens in Ulster

Red heart-shaped coin boxes numbering 500, are making their annual appearance in Ulster county this week in connection with the 1954 Heart Fund Campaign, sponsored by the Ulster County Heart Chapter, it was announced today by Abram F. Molyneaux, fund chairman.

The plastic receptacles are to be placed in the city's principal public places such as restaurants, stores, taverns, and service stations. They will remain in place through the month of February.

Molyneaux expressed hope that local management will cooperate fully with volunteers who are distributing the coin boxes, giving the plastic hearts a preferred position as near as possible to the cash register. He added:

"These receptables will serve as a constant reminder that we should open our hearts when we open our purses. They are designed not only to receive change but bills as well."

Chairmen in each township will distribute the hearts through their committees. Members of the following organizations will distribute the hearts in Kingston: Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, Catholic Daughters of America, B'nai B'rith Auxiliary and Kingston Chapter, OES. This is part of the cooperative action of many people who are working to "Help Your Heart Fund—Help Your Heart," Molyneaux said.

Old Man Hobbs says he could remember, if he tried, when taxes were just a minor nuisance and apple pie was five cents a slice, but it goes back more years than he wants to admit.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

Now that numberless predicters have aired their predictions—as they always do at year-ends and year-starts—and the President has submitted his annual economic message to the Congress, as the law requires, what's going to happen?

You'd think from the above lengthy question that the Ruminator was about to predict. But that isn't what I had in mind in asking the question.

This column is concerned primarily with "contrary opinions" and with developments which might cause events to turn in unexpected directions.

Up until, say, the middle of January "opinions" had been pretty solidly packed in one corner. And from that corner you heard an almost unanimous opinion expressed that 1954 would witness a mild recession, or readjustment, in business which would be measured in a falling off of only five to seven per cent. How in the world so many different analysts and economists hit upon similar figures is indeed strange. But I suppose a five per cent dip in business indexes is small, whereas if a ten per cent drop occurred it would be a noticeable recession.

In any event, the opinions were in close agreement.

At the same time that economists and professional forecasters were doing their crystal gazing, businessmen were becoming more and more cheerful and optimistic.

Then along about the middle of January you began to sense some shifting of the generalized composite opinion. At first, when they occur, these shifts cannot be pinpointed. Changes in opinions sort of drift about, as a row boat will swing around slowly because of some eddy in the current. As the days passed it became noticeable that there was more and more optimism in statements you ran across in news-bulletins and newspapers. Perhaps the rising stock market had a good deal to do with it. When prices go up in Wall Street they have a lot of influence upon general business sentiment. "Everybody" feels better when the market is rising—particularly at a time when there has just been a great deal of slump talk (as has been the case recently).

While this shift in opinions and sentiment seemed to be in evidence along comes the date for President Eisenhower to deliver the economic report which is required under an Act of 1946. This Act put the Council of Economic Advisers into effect. These three wise men and their assistants supply the President with his data and suggest the tenor of his messages and recommendations.

I dwell upon these messages at length because they are influential. After all, here is an economic report straight from headquarters (straight from the horse's mouth, as they say about race-track tips).

And—last week's annual report was generally most encouraging. The President evidently expects an early end to the little business dip which put in an appearance last year. Moreover, if it doesn't wind up promptly the government will throw its weight around and make business step along. We have "a formidable arsenal of weapons" to throw into the breach, said the President, if they are required to off-set a depression.

The question then arises from our contrary-opinion analysis whether the economic report—coming on the heels of both a rising stock market and a rising degree of optimism whether all together the influences will bring about a condition where we contrarians, to be "opposite", will have to turn pessimistic.

The contrary view up to, we'll say, the end of January, has been double-edged, as you may read here before: Instead of the mild set-back generally predicted, we might expect either (1) a resurgence of the boom, or (2) a slump of far greater proportions than the five-per-cent figure so often quoted. It has been the Ruminator's guess that a resurgence of the boom seemed not improbable and an alternative to watch for.

It will take a little time to see if the influences mentioned will bring about buying-and-spending activities that will quickly dispel thoughts of the recession. If optimism and "talk" grow too strongly we shall have to give thought to the discouraging side of the equation—but for the present let's see what effects will spring from the apparently shifting attitudes. It is too early to change sides.

February is a month that often gives some indications of forward trends. So let's be on the look-out for harbingers of things-to-come.

To Build Post Office

The kindergarten will soon be building a post office in its room in anticipation of St. Valentine's Day. Edna Wallevik, a kindergarten student, is doing well after her recent eye operation and is expected to rejoin her classmates within the month.

Ice cream made by the combined first grades last week proved to be a successful activity. During their outdoor noonhour, children collected ice and snow for the freezer and al who wished to turn the handle had a chance. After the ice cream had hardened, each child enjoyed an ice cream cone. Later in the afternoon each grade wrote a story about how ice cream was made.

Club Has Meeting

The Parents, Teachers and Friend's Club of the Marbletown Central School held its monthly meeting Jan. 27. It was noted that the finances of the club were in good condition and that membership had increased to 104 members. There was a lengthy discussion on expansion of the present school followed by an informative report given by Roy Webber, chairman of the school committee. The club voted to provide a school letter for those students showing marked ability and regularity in participation of athletics. A movie was enjoyed and refreshments served following the business meeting.

Scouts Are Urged To Attend Church In Uniform Sunday

The Rev. Harvey I. Todd of Woodstock, who is chairman of the Kingston Ministerial Committee on Boy Scouting, has announced that all Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers have been urged to celebrate Scout Sunday, Feb. 7 by attending their own church, in uniform and with their family. He announced that there would be no council-wide convocation service this year.

Emphasis during Scout Week, Feb. 7-13 will be on Scout families participation in activities together. Special emphasis has been placed on the work, time and effort the unit leaders—cubmasters, scoutmasters and explorer advisors—put into the scouting program. All institutions using the scout program have been urged to pay special recognition to their scout leaders during Scout Week.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Henry Singer, president of the Downtown Businessmen's Association asked if I had information on the boundaries of Rondout and other information from way back. Here is some data from the Gazetteer and Business Directory of Ulster county for 1871-1872. "The Village of Rondout, situated on the Hudson, at the Rondout creek, was incorporated April 4, 1849. It was formerly known as The Strand and Kingston Landing, and for a time as Bolton, in honor of the president of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Co. The surface is very uneven and the streets laid out with little regard to regularity. It is a thriving business place and has a greater tonnage than any other place on the Hudson river above New York. More than 30 steamers are owned here, and many of which, as well as a large number ot barges and sailing vessels, are engaged in the transportation of stone, coal, cement, brick, etc. Regular steamers ply between Rondout, New York and intermediate points. A steam ferry connects it with Rhinebeck on the Hudson River Raidroad and another ferry with Sleightsburgh. A horse railroad connects it with Kingston. It has 10 churches and two Jewish Synagogues, three banks, two newspaper offices, three public schools, several manufactories and about 10,000 inhabitants.

The description of Rondout back in 1871 took up about twice the space of the Village of Kingston. Also said the village of Rondout is the eastern terminus of the Rondout and Oswego Railroad. "The most important manufacturing plant is that of the Newark Lime and Cement Manufacturing Company with some 300 employed." It further said "Wiltwyck is a small village connecting Rondout and Kingston. Wilbur, on the Rondout Creek, about a mile above Rondout, is a great shipping point of blue stone, amounting to a million and a half dollars annually. S. & W. B. Fitch are among the large dealers in blue stone. It has 1,000 inhabitants.

The above appeared in The Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, Oct. 21, 1921 on the front page. The heading of the paper for that day was: "Daily Freeman 50 years old Tuesday." They looked into the Kingston Business directory of 1871 and found some of the following: "Valentine Burgevin, nursery, head of Pearl street. Howard Chipp, lawyer, Wall, father of the present Howard Chipp. Albert Cohen, Cohen and Corn, clothing, 47-44 North Front street, business now conducted by S. Cohen's Sons. Eagle Hotel, Main street, H. W. Winne, proprietor. B. J. Hornbeck, Walton & Hornbeck, William M. Walton and B. J. Hornbeck, cigar manufacturers, Crown street. H. W. Palen, carpenter, Wall street, near St. James street, now H. W. Palen's Sons, a corporation. Charles B. Safford, jewelry, etc., 26 Wall street, now Safford & Scudder. In that way they wanted to show how the various business enterprises were continued.

They also gave a list of Rondout names as taken from the 1891 directory and who were in business in 1921. There was J. B. Alliger, teller of the National Bank of Rondout. George Basten, physician, one door above Mansion House, Division street. Adolph Eichler, wines and liquors, Chester near Union. Ida Fisher, restaurant. C. Hiltebrant, shipwright, Compact Basin, now C. Hiltebrant Dry Dock Co., Inc., William Hutton, lumber merchant, Columbus avenue, now The Hutton Co.

Joins Law Firm

FRANCIS X. TUCKER

Attorney Francis X. Tucker has become associated with the law firm of Cook & Cook, 63 John street, in the general practice of law, it was announced today by former County Judge Andrew J. Cook. Attorney Tucker became associated with the law firm as of February 1.

Tucker attended Kingston schools and Rhode Island State College. During World War 2 he served in the European theatre as a first lieutenant of infantry. Upon his return from military service, he entered Albany Law School and was graduated in 1949.

While attending Albany Law School, he was a member of the Albany Law Review. He was admitted to the New York State Bar in the Appellate Division, Third Department, in January 1950.

He was associated with J. Richard Miller as an independent adjuster until July 1952. Since that time Mr. Tucker has been associated with attorney Harry H. Hill, Jr., in Dutchess county, where he was engaged in the general practice of law.

Attorney Tucker is married to the former Elizabeth Haggerty of Rosendale.

'54 Heart Drive Opens in Ulster

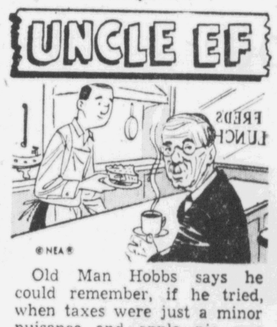
Red heart-shaped coin boxes numbering 500, are making their annual appearance in Ulster county this week in connection with the 1954 Heart Fund Campaign, sponsored by the Ulster County Heart Chapter, it was announced today by Abram F. Molyneaux, fund chairman.

The plastic receptacles are to be placed in the city's principal public places such as restaurants, stores, taverns, and service stations. They will remain in place through the month of February.

Molyneaux expressed hope that local management will cooperate fully with volunteers who are distributing the coin boxes, giving the plastic hearts a preferred position as near as possible to the cash register. He added:

"These receptables will serve as a constant reminder that we should open our hearts when we open our purses. They are designed not only to receive change but bills as well."

Chairmen in each township will distribute the hearts through their committees. Members of the following organizations will distribute the hearts in Kingston: Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, Catholic Daughters of America, B'nai B'rith Auxiliary and Kingston Chapter, OES. This is part of the cooperative action of many people who are working to "Help Your Heart Fund—Help Your Heart," Molyneaux said.



Old Man Hobbs says he could remember, if he tried, when taxes were just a minor nuisance and apple pie was five cents a slice, but it goes back more years than he wants to admit.

Missionaries Teach Youth of Turkey At Roberts College

Turkey-Istanbul and Ankara, was the topic given by Mrs. William McVey at the meeting Monday of Sorosis at the home of Mrs. Theron Culver.

Istanbul, like Rome, was built on hills, divided by a waterway, the famous Bosphorous, partly in Asia and partly in Europe, with two bridges connecting these parts. It was from these shores, explained the speaker, that Mehmed II, the Turkish conqueror of Istanbul, transported his warships overland into the Golden Horn, an inlet, and surprized the Byzantines who had blocked it. This conquest forced the early navigators of Portugal and Italy to search for a new way to the east, eventually leading to the discovery of America.

Istanbul became the capital of the Ottoman Empire in 1453, remaining so until 1923 when the newly formed Turkish republic declared Ankara the capital.

Roberts College, located on the European side of the Bosphorous, in Istanbul, has done much in training men of Turkey. Founded by Christopher Rhinelander Roberts in 1863, classes are taught by Christian missionary teachers. Instanbul Women's College, near Roberts College, has done much for the modern education among girls of the Near East.

Visitors find many places of interest in this city, among them the St. Sophia Mosque, and the Sultan Ahmet Mosque, and several museums showing the art work of Greeks, Romans and Byzantines.

Ankara, located in the interior, once called Angora, gave its name to the goat from which wool for mohair is obtained. At the capital are half the mohair mills in the world, and beautiful government buildings to be visited, said the speaker.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 15, at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham, 21 Janet street.

Dr. William Sheldon To Be P-TA Dinner MeetingGuestSpeaker

Dr. William D. Sheldon, director of the reading clinic at Syracuse University, will be the guest speaker at the mid-winter dinner meeting sponsored by the Parent Teacher Organization of the George Washington Elementary School on Wednesday evening, Feb. 17, at 6:30 p. m.

Through research, study and practical experience, Dr. Sheldon has won considerable prestige as a reading authority. He will present the topic, Reading in the Elementary School, in the school auditorium at 8 p. m. following the dinner. Due to the educational significance of the subject, invitations have been issued to the leading local educational organizations with an invitation to all interested persons to attend the meeting.

Dr. Sheldon has been reading clinician of the Rome School system, and instructor in the reading clinic at Syracuse University before his affiliation with the school of education as assistant professor of education. In addition, Dr. Sheldon has conducted many worshops in reading, and has published articles on the techniques of teaching reading.

Hugh R. Elwyn, president of the George Washington School Parent Teacher Organization, announces that Alfred Bruckert has been appointed general chairman of the dinner. Mr. Bruckert's committee includes: Mrs. Arthur Oudemool, Mrs. Walter Donnaruma and Mrs. Abel Abernethy, reservations and tickets; Mrs. Harold Cross and Mrs. Donnaruma, tables and decorations; and Mrs. Donovan Buehring, publicity.

Ambrose J. Boyd, principal of George Washington School, said "Since dining room capacity is limited, everyone interested in attending the dinner preceding the lecture is urged to contact the office of the George Washington School or any member of the ticket committee immediately for an early reservation. The final date for dinner reservations is Wednesday, Feb. 10."

Hollanders in New World Were Realists, Says Mrs. Sterley

Mrs. John Sterley, introduced by Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, gave a paper on the topic, The Dutch and their Characteristics, at the meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, held yesterday afternoon at the Chapter House.

The speaker said that when the Dutch come to America they were the foremost commercial people in the world, with a conscience that never lost its hold on man. The religion of the Dutch was a religion of the soul and not of the senses, and consequently the Dutch people were slow to accept the religion and ways of other people. Realists, stubborn individualists, the Dutch settlers were people who insisted on the right to think for themselves.

Mrs. Sterley said that the Dutchmen of 300 years ago were a rough lot, who evaded the unjust revenue laws of the colony, and oppressed the savages. However, from the first to the last, the battles of the Dutchmen have always been defensive, and they become enemies only when somebody tried to get into his home through the window, concluded the speaker.

Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, music chairman, introduced Mrs. Florence Cubberly who gave two violin selections before Mrs. Sterley's talk, and two at the conclusion. Mrs. Pierce accompanied her on the piano.

Mrs. William Ochs, regent, presided at the business meeting which preceded the address by the speaker. Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, senior president of CAR, announced the St. Patrick's Day bazaar which will be held at the Chapter House the afternoon and evening of March 17, with card parties and a fashion show. Mrs. Ellsworth asked for donations of candy for this event.

Mrs. Ochs announced that Monday, Feb. 22, Wiltwyck Chapter will celebrate the birthday of George Washington by a program given by the CAR. The guest of honor will be the DAR good citizen, and guest privileges will be extended to the members.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Lancelot Phelps and Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, with Mrs. Walter T. Tremper pouring.

Surprise Shower Held For Mrs. Robert Herb

Saugerties, Feb. 5—Mrs. Robert Herb of Malden-on-Hudson was the guest of a surprise stork shower on Monday evening. The gathering was held at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. George E. DuBois of Russell street. Mrs. Robert Shultis and Miss Ruth DuBois, both sisters of the guest of honor served as hostesses.

The room was decorated for the occasion in pink and blue with streamers suspended from the ceiling to the large basket filled with gifts. Refreshments were served buffet style featuring a large cake.

Those who attended included the Mmes. Clifford Keyworth, William Farrell, Minnie Gardner, Leslie Shultis, Wilbur See, Arthur Sweeney, Steven Baran, George E. DuBois, Roy Gardner, Harry Whitney and E. R. Curtis; Miss Rene Keyworth and Miss Valerie Herb and Miss Jeanne DuBois.

Mrs. Clair Sheaffer Shows Film of Hawaii At Supper Meeting

A valentine theme was carried out at the spaghetti supper held by the Junior Committee, Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, Monday evening.

Members of the CAR who attended as guests were Jacqueline Burhans, Priscilla Carnright, Ada Cates, Virginia McCormack, Joan Ellsworth, Mary Ellsworth and Nancy Ellsworth.

Mrs. Clair Sheaffer showed a colored film on her recent trip to the Hawaiian Islands. Mrs. Sheaffer displayed souvenirs and photographs showing the various types of clothing and handcrafts, as well as the scenery of the islands.

The Juniors are requested to contribute material or a finished apron for the March bazaar, it was announced at the business meeting.

Dutch Settlers Left Heritage in Art To Hudson Valley

Mrs. John Matthews spoke on the topic, Cultural Influences of the Dutch; Art and Literature, at a meeting of the Atharhacton Club held at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Preceding the meeting, coffee and Dutch cakes were served, with Mrs. Harold King pouring. The cakes were made from recipes from Holland and included a Dutchbutter cake, cookies and Banket letter cake, used at Christmastime, from which letters are cut.

Mrs. Matthews began her paper by stating that the division of Europe into Catholic and Protestants camps in the latter half of the 17th century affected the art of even small countries like the Netherlands. The artists in Protestant Holland avoided controversial religious subjects, preferring subjects found in everyday home and business life, and in placid Dutch scenes. Notable painters were Rembrandt, and Henry William Mesdag.

Pieter and John Vanderlyn were noted Dutch painters who settled in the Hudson valley. It is said that Pieter was responsible for the origin of the Hudson River School of Painting. John became a protege of Aaron Burr, going later to Paris for study. Despite his many successful paintings, many of which now hang in the Senate House Museum here, John Vanderlyn died poverty stricken here in Kingston.

In literature, the Dutch people became the subjects rather than the writers, appearing in Washington Irving's, Knickerbocker History of New York. This work drew criticism from persons of Dutch descent, among them Walt Whitman. The original persons of the characters in Legend of Sleepy Hollow lived in the neighborhood of Kinderhook.

The Dutch contributions to music made lasting impressions, with nursery rhymes, of which Trip a Trop a Tronger was the favorite, and Santa Claus, Good Holy Man, a holiday song. The latter selection is still sung in various versions in Holland every December 5, the eve before the St. Nicholas festival.

Missionaries Teach Youth of Turkey At Roberts College

Turkey-Istanbul and Ankara, was the topic given by Mrs. William McVey at the meeting Monday of Sorosis at the home of Mrs. Theron Culver.

Istanbul, like Rome, was built on hills, divided by a waterway, the famous Bosphorous, partly in Asia and partly in Europe, with two bridges connecting these parts. It was from these shores, explained the speaker, that Mehmed II, the Turkish conqueror of Istanbul, transported his warships overland into the Golden Horn, an inlet, and surprized the Byzantines who had blocked it. This conquest forced the early navigators of Portugal and Italy to search for a new way to the east, eventually leading to the discovery of America.

Istanbul became the capital of the Ottoman Empire in 1453, remaining so until 1923 when the newly formed Turkish republic declared Ankara the capital.

Roberts College, located on the European side of the Bosphorous, in Istanbul, has done much in training men of Turkey. Founded by Christopher Rhinelander Roberts in 1863, classes are taught by Christian missionary teachers. Instanbul Women's College, near Roberts College, has done much for the modern education among girls of the Near East.

Visitors find many places of interest in this city, among them the St. Sophia Mosque, and the Sultan Ahmet Mosque, and several museums showing the art work of Greeks, Romans and Byzantines.

Ankara, located in the interior, once called Angora, gave its name to the goat from which wool for mohair is obtained. At the capital are half the mohair mills in the world, and beautiful government buildings to be visited, said the speaker.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 15, at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham, 21 Janet street.

Births

Dr. William Sheldon To Be P-TA Dinner MeetingGuestSpeaker

Dr. William D. Sheldon, director of the reading clinic at Syracuse University, will be the guest speaker at the mid-winter dinner meeting sponsored by the Parent Teacher Organization of the George Washington Elementary School on Wednesday evening, Feb. 17, at 6:30 p. m.

Through research, study and practical experience, Dr. Sheldon has won considerable prestige as a reading authority. He will present the topic, Reading in the Elementary School, in the school auditorium at 8 p. m. following the dinner. Due to the educational significance of the subject, invitations have been issued to the leading local educational organizations with an invitation to all interested persons to attend the meeting.

Dr. Sheldon has been reading clinician of the Rome School system, and instructor in the reading clinic at Syracuse University before his affiliation with the school of education as assistant professor of education. In addition, Dr. Sheldon has conducted many worshops in reading, and has published articles on the techniques of teaching reading.

Hugh R. Elwyn, president of the George Washington School Parent Teacher Organization, announces that Alfred Bruckert has been appointed general chairman of the dinner. Mr. Bruckert's committee includes: Mrs. Arthur Oudemool, Mrs. Walter Donnaruma and Mrs. Abel Abernethy, reservations and tickets; Mrs. Harold Cross and Mrs. Donnaruma, tables and decorations; and Mrs. Donovan Buehring, publicity.

Ambrose J. Boyd, principal of George Washington School, said "Since dining room capacity is limited, everyone interested in attending the dinner preceding the lecture is urged to contact the office of the George Washington School or any member of the ticket committee immediately for an early reservation. The final date for dinner reservations is Wednesday, Feb. 10."

Hollanders in New World Were Realists, Says Mrs. Sterley

Mrs. John Sterley, introduced by Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, gave a paper on the topic, The Dutch and their Characteristics, at the meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, held yesterday afternoon at the Chapter House.

The speaker said that when the Dutch come to America they were the foremost commercial people in the world, with a conscience that never lost its hold on man. The religion of the Dutch was a religion of the soul and not of the senses, and consequently the Dutch people were slow to accept the religion and ways of other people. Realists, stubborn individualists, the Dutch settlers were people who insisted on the right to think for themselves.

Mrs. Sterley said that the Dutchmen of 300 years ago were a rough lot, who evaded the unjust revenue laws of the colony, and oppressed the savages. However, from the first to the last, the battles of the Dutchmen have always been defensive, and they become enemies only when somebody tried to get into his home through the window, concluded the speaker.

Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, music chairman, introduced Mrs. Florence Cubberly who gave two violin selections before Mrs. Sterley's talk, and two at the conclusion. Mrs. Pierce accompanied her on the piano.

Mrs. William Ochs, regent, presided at the business meeting which preceded the address by the speaker. Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, senior president of CAR, announced the St. Patrick's Day bazaar which will be held at the Chapter House the afternoon and evening of March 17, with card parties and a fashion show. Mrs. Ellsworth asked for donations of candy for this event.

Mrs. Ochs announced that Monday, Feb. 22, Wiltwyck Chapter will celebrate the birthday of George Washington by a program given by the CAR. The guest of honor will be the DAR good citizen, and guest privileges will be extended to the members.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Lancelot Phelps and Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, with Mrs. Walter T. Tremper pouring.

Surprise Shower Held For Mrs. Robert Herb

Saugerties, Feb. 5—Mrs. Robert Herb of Malden-on-Hudson was the guest of a surprise stork shower on Monday evening. The gathering was held at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. George E. DuBois of Russell street. Mrs. Robert Shultis and Miss Ruth DuBois, both sisters of the guest of honor served as hostesses.

The room was decorated for the occasion in pink and blue with streamers suspended from the ceiling to the large basket filled with gifts. Refreshments were served buffet style featuring a large cake.

Mrs. Clair Sheaffer Shows Film of Hawaii At Supper Meeting

A valentine theme was carried out at the spaghetti supper held by the Junior Committee, Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, Monday evening.

Members of the CAR who attended as guests were Jacqueline Burhans, Priscilla Carnright, Ada Cates, Virginia McCormack, Joan Ellsworth, Mary Ellsworth and Nancy Ellsworth.

Mrs. Clair Sheaffer showed a colored film on her recent trip to the Hawaiian Islands. Mrs. Sheaffer displayed souvenirs and photographs showing the various types of clothing and handcrafts, as well as the scenery of the islands.

The Juniors are requested to contribute material or a finished apron for the March bazaar, it was announced at the business meeting.

Dutch Settlers Left Heritage in Art To Hudson Valley

Mrs. John Matthews spoke on the topic, Cultural Influences of the Dutch; Art and Literature, at a meeting of the Atharhacton Club held at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Preceding the meeting, coffee and Dutch cakes were served, with Mrs. Harold King pouring. The cakes were made from recipes from Holland and included a Dutchbutter cake, cookies and Banket letter cake, used at Christmastime, from which letters are cut.

Mrs. Matthews began her paper by stating that the division of Europe into Catholic and Protestants camps in the latter half of the 17th century affected the art of even small countries like the Netherlands. The artists in Protestant Holland avoided controversial religious subjects, preferring subjects found in everyday home and business life, and in placid Dutch scenes. Notable painters were Rembrandt, and Henry William Mesdag.

Pieter and John Vanderlyn were noted Dutch painters who settled in the Hudson valley. It is said that Pieter was responsible for the origin of the Hudson River School of Painting. John became a protege of Aaron Burr, going later to Paris for study. Despite his many successful paintings, many of which now hang in the Senate House Museum here, John Vanderlyn died poverty stricken here in Kingston.

In literature, the Dutch people became the subjects rather than the writers, appearing in Washington Irving's, Knickerbocker History of New York. This work drew criticism from persons of Dutch descent, among them Walt Whitman. The original persons of the characters in Legend of Sleepy Hollow lived in the neighborhood of Kinderhook.

The Dutch contributions to music made lasting impressions, with nursery rhymes, of which Trip a Trop a Tronger was the favorite, and Santa Claus, Good Holy Man, a holiday song. The latter selection is still sung in various versions in Holland every December 5, the eve before the St. Nicholas festival.

Torpedoes Pay Off

Pasadena, Calif. (AP)—Two fishermen went diving for abalone recently and came up with a couple of tin fish (torpedoes). They netted George E. Troester, and Murray Black $100 apiece. Black spotted his "fish" 135 feet down at San Clemente and, after notifying the navy, dived down with a tow line and snagged it. Troester found his in a bed of kelp near Long Beach. Capt. Robert F. Sellars, officer in charge of the Naval Ordnance Test Station in Pasadena said: "The catch not only meant a jackpot for them but for the taxpayers—torpedoes are expensive."

Greatest Show On Earth

One of Broadway's biggest brags is that every dollar invested in "Oklahoma" has brought a return of better than $50—and the end is not in sight.

That's quite a killing, I grant you, but it has never impressed me very much. As an old East Sider, I'd like to make a bigger brag: Back in 1937 a bunch of kids in my old neighborhood put on an amateur show which ran exactly one night and which has paid off exactly $103,466.67 for every dollar invested.

Here are the facts . . .

One afternoon in the worst days of the depression, a scared high school kid walked into the Henry Street Settlement Boys Club and asked if anyone could lend him enough cash to get out of town. His story was a common one on the East Side: Two years before, he had borrowed $25 from a local loan shark and agreed to pay interest of $5 a week. So far, he had paid over $500 interest, without making a dent in the principal. Now he was broke and the loan shark had threatened to beat him up if he didn't catch up on his interest payments by Saturday. Would anybody advance him the train fare to Camden, Trenton or even Newark?

One of the club members who heard the story was a lad named Nat Rafterman. He promptly went to the Settlement officials and persuaded them to pay off the boy's loan, principal and all.

That night Nat had a talk with a pal of his, Sol Guralnick.

"A lot of people in this neighborhood are in the same spot," he said. "Isn't there some way to set up a square lending agency on the East Side?"

The two boys began to ask questions, and before the week was out they learned that the Federal Credit Act of 1934 provided for the licensing of community loan banks. The fee for a charter was $25.

Sol and Nat went into action, canvassing the neighborhood and explaining what they had in mind. Soon nickels and dimes began to dribble in. Two weeks later when they counted up, they had not only the $25 but an extra $3.75.

The $25 was sent off to Washington, and in January 1937 the kids received an engraved document headed "Charter." It licensed the Henry Street Settlement Credit Union to lend money to the extent of its resources, which were still $3.75.

The neighborhood loan sharks, of course, weren't worried about the new competitor. They continued charging interest rates up to 1,000 per cent a year and enforcing payment, when necessary, with brass knuckles and baseball bats.

At an emergency meeting, presided over by Nat Rafterman, the teen-age financeers discussed ways and means of raising the necessary capital to begin operations. It was obvious that some electric gesture was needed to persuade the better-off East Siders to invest in the new loan agency. The problem was how to generate sufficient electricity with a bank roll of practically nothing.

"Let's put on a play showing up these loan sharks," Rafterman finally suggested. "We can do it easy for $3.75."

From all accounts, the homemade drama presented for free in the Settlement House Auditorium a month later would not have interested the Theatre Guild. It did, however, interest the hundreds of East Siders who came to see it. The hero was a little man who had borrowed a little money, and the villian (boo!) was a big loan shark who conducted his business with the aid of a big baseball bat.

The moral of the play was pure cliche—"Help yourself by helping your neighbor." But it made magnificent sense to a group of immigrants who were principally interested in survival.

As a result of this one-night stand, quarters and half-dollars began to flow into the Credit Union's treasury. The first loans were never more than $2, but they were promptly made and as promptly repaid. The snowball began to roll.

How far it has rolled in the past 17 years is told in an article Harrison Negley recently wrote for "The Freeman." According to Negley, the Henry Street Settlement Union has loaned over $1,637,000 at minimum interest rates, and has seldom been beaten out of a dollar. In many cases, grateful borrowers who straightened themselves out have become investors. Currently, the Union's capital assets are $388,000.

Check my arithmetic if you want to, but the way I figure it, when you put on a show for $3.75 and wind up with $388,000 in the till, the profit is $103,466.67 for every dollar invested.

Even Rodgers and Hammerstein have never scored that big a success.

Are loan sharks still operating in New York? I'm afraid they are.

But not around Henry street.

Lynch Hose Elects Officers for Year

Saugerties, Feb. 4—Mandeville Diaz was reelected president and Robert Eschman was named captain during the annual meeting of the C. A. Lynch Hose Company. Others elected were John Hill, first vice-president; Donald Sullivan, second vice-president; Edward J. O'Hara, secretary; William McCormick, treasurer; C. A. Lynch, William Carle and Donald Sullivan, trustees.

Line officers elected were James Magee, first lieutenant; John Hill, second lieutenant; William Carle, chief driver; George Mills, janitor; Ernest Legg, Harold Bell and Roscoe Frantz, fire wardens. Several delegates also were appointed.

William Meiswinkle was recommended for chief of the Saugerties Fire Department and Vernon Benjamin as first assistant chief.

Village to Receive Speed Control Light

Saugerties, Feb. 4—Installation of a speed control light to relieve the serious traffic hazard at Simmons Corner will be made "as soon as possible," according to the State Department of Public Works, it was learned during a meeting of the Village Board this week.

Information relative to the installation was received in a letter from the New York State Traffic Commission. The light, which will be installed at the intersection of Burt and Barclay streets, will be controlled by a timer so that an automobile, approaching the corner at a dangerous rate of speed, will be faced by a red light, forcing it to come to a halt. If the speed, however, is consistent with the conditions, a flashing amber light indicates that the vehicle may proceed slowly.

There was also a letter from Robert J. Thorton read to the board indicating that he would not convey a dedicatory deed for the property in question to straighten out the corner at Ulster avenue which has caused a great deal of controversy from reports that trucks and other vehicles have run over the curb at this point. To alleviate this condition Thornton originally offered a portion of his property in order that the road might be widened at this point. However, his letter now indicates that he will not convey this property until he is notified by the village or the state, who ever has jurisdiction, just as to how much land is needed to remedy the condition.

It also was announced at the meeting that the initial meeting of the newly-formed zoning investigating committee was scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 11, at 7:30 p. m.

News in Brief

Saugerties, Feb. 4—A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sinnott of Glasco at Dale's Sanitarium Monday night, Feb. 1. Mrs. Sinnott is the former Mary Serra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Serra at Glasco.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Faerber of Clermont street are the parents of a son born at Dale's Sanitarium Tuesday morning. Mrs. Faerber is the former Bernice Lasher of Saugerties.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lamb of Market street left this week for a vacation in Riveria Beach, Fla. They will join Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Lamb and family of Ulster avenue who have been there for the past week.

It was originally announced that the special Boy Scout religious services which were planned in conjunction with commemorating National Boy Scout Week would be held at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement. The services as announced will be held but the location has been changed. The Boy Scout services will now be held at the Dutch Arms Chapel at the Saugerties Reformed Church on Main street Sunday at 7:45 p. m. with the Rev. Harold E. Pangborn, pastor of the Reformed Church officiating. It was further announced that Mrs. William Plimley would serve as accompanist and a choir of Boy Scout voices would be heard. The scouts will also participate in various parts of the vesper service. All unit leaders, commissioners, committeemen, scouters, parents and friends are cordially invited to participate.

The Lamouree-Hackett Post of the Saugerties American Legion announced preliminary plans for its 1954 bazaar. The dates set for the annual affair are June 30, July 1, 2, and 3 and the bazaar will be held on the Memorial Home lot. Harold Swart will be general chairman.

An announcement was also made that a social party was being planned for the patients at the Veteran's Hospital in Albany Feb. 10. A group of Legionnaires and members of the auxiliary will go to Albany and present an evening of entertainment for the patients.

Fire Commissioner Elton Johnson called a special meeting for representatives of all village fire companies. The meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 23, in the village board room at 7:30 p. m. It was indicated that the meeting will deal with the preliminary work on the 1955 village budget. Commissioner Johnson asked that all representatives be prepared for presentation at the annual budget meeting of the village board.

At the village board meeting Monday night it was made known that all village taxes including an amount of $5,046 on 47 parcels which was reported as unpaid two weeks ago have been paid. Village Treasurer Gerald L. Snyder received special commendation from the board for his accomplishment in clearing the books in the two weeks that have passed since the last board meeting. The total village taxes collected amounted to $100,688.33.

Boy Scout Troop 32, which is sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement was re-registered Feb. 1. The institutional representative for the troop is the Rev. Theodore E. Hammer, pastor of Atonement Church. The troop committee, which is headed by Eugene Davis, includes Edward Kiernan, Chester Schaff, Jesse Schaff and Philip Breithaupt. The scoutmaster is Kenneth Maclary and assistant scout master is Orville Whitaker.

A sub-district rally for all Luther Leaguers from West Camp to Kingston will be held Sunday, Feb. 7, at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement on Market street. Registration will begin at 7 p. m. Following the meeting refreshments will be served.

The Adult Education program offered at the Glasco School is the direct result of a recent survey which was conducted to determine if such courses would prove popular to the local residents. In accordancse with preferences classes in sewing, knitting, and typing will be offered. The organizational meeting for the classes will be held Wednesday, Feb. 10 at 7:30 p. m. However, this should not indicate to participants that the classes will be held Wednesdays. That will be decided at the meeting. It was announced that driver training and other popular courses will be offered in the near future.

The Sigma Club of Saugerties High School will conduct a food sale at Genthner's Market, Partition street, Saturday, Feb. 6, at 10 a. m. Miss Leona Hogan is advisor of the group.

The Cedar Grove Emergency Squad which is the fire fighting unit of that area, has scheduled a meeting to be held Thursday, Feb. 4 at 7 p. m. in the Cedar Grove firehouse.

The regular scheduled meeting of the Couples Club of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement was held Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sagazie of Mt. Marion. For the more hardy members of the club the program called for sleigh riding on nearby hills. However, there also were indoor activities and refreshments. A film strip was shown in connection with the motion picture, Martin Luther, which opens at the Kingston Theatre Thursday night. Eugene Davis, president of the organization, announces that a new program committee had been appointed to plan the activities of the group for the ensuing six months. The committee includes William Plimley, Donald S. Fellows and Edward Kiernan. It was also announced that there was 100 per cent attendance at this meeting.

Bridge Wins

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — Two houses and a bridge met on San Gabriel boulevard. The bridge won, but it was the motorist who lost. The house movers with the houses behind their trucks drove into a new underpass. The houses were too tall. For three noisy hours, the highway patrol, police, the movers and stalled motorists worked to turn them around. When they succeeded, blocks-long lines of cars finally began moving.

Why We Say--

Handicaps are well known to horse race enthusiasts, although few of these fans probably ever think of what the word means. Handicap is merely a single form of the two words hand and cap, because before a race, all of the horses' names are put into a cap and each owner puts his hand in to pull out the position number of his entry.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Faerber of Clermont street are the parents of a son born at Dale's Sanitarium Tuesday morning. Mrs. Faerber is the former Bernice Lasher of Saugerties.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lamb of Market street left this week for a vacation in Riveria Beach, Fla. They will join Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Lamb and family of Ulster avenue who have been there for the past week.

It was originally announced that the special Boy Scout religious services which were planned in conjunction with commemorating National Boy Scout Week would be held at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement. The services as announced will be held but the location has been changed. The Boy Scout services will now be held at the Dutch Arms Chapel at the Saugerties Reformed Church on Main street Sunday at 7:45 p. m. with the Rev. Harold E. Pangborn, pastor of the Reformed Church officiating. It was further announced that Mrs. William Plimley would serve as accompanist and a choir of Boy Scout voices would be heard. The scouts will also participate in various parts of the vesper service. All unit leaders, commissioners, committeemen, scouters, parents and friends are cordially invited to participate.

The Lamouree-Hackett Post of the Saugerties American Legion announced preliminary plans for its 1954 bazaar. The dates set for the annual affair are June 30, July 1, 2, and 3 and the bazaar will be held on the Memorial Home lot. Harold Swart will be general chairman.

An announcement was also made that a social party was being planned for the patients at the Veteran's Hospital in Albany Feb. 10. A group of Legionnaires and members of the auxiliary will go to Albany and present an evening of entertainment for the patients.

Fire Commissioner Elton Johnson called a special meeting for representatives of all village fire companies. The meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 23, in the village board room at 7:30 p. m. It was indicated that the meeting will deal with the preliminary work on the 1955 village budget. Commissioner Johnson asked that all representatives be prepared for presentation at the annual budget meeting of the village board.

At the village board meeting Monday night it was made known that all village taxes including an amount of $5,046 on 47 parcels which was reported as unpaid two weeks ago have been paid. Village Treasurer Gerald L. Snyder received special commendation from the board for his accomplishment in clearing the books in the two weeks that have passed since the last board meeting. The total village taxes collected amounted to $100,688.33.

Boy Scout Troop 32, which is sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement was re-registered Feb. 1. The institutional representative for the troop is the Rev. Theodore E. Hammer, pastor of Atonement Church. The troop committee, which is headed by Eugene Davis, includes Edward Kiernan, Chester Schaff, Jesse Schaff and Philip Breithaupt. The scoutmaster is Kenneth Maclary and assistant scout master is Orville Whitaker.

A sub-district rally for all Luther Leaguers from West Camp to Kingston will be held Sunday, Feb. 7, at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement on Market street. Registration will begin at 7 p. m. Following the meeting refreshments will be served.

The Adult Education program offered at the Glasco School is the direct result of a recent survey which was conducted to determine if such courses would prove popular to the local residents. In accordancse with preferences classes in sewing, knitting, and typing will be offered. The organizational meeting for the classes will be held Wednesday, Feb. 10 at 7:30 p. m. However, this should not indicate to participants that the classes will be held Wednesdays. That will be decided at the meeting. It was announced that driver training and other popular courses will be offered in the near future.

The Sigma Club of Saugerties High School will conduct a food sale at Genthner's Market, Partition street, Saturday, Feb. 6, at 10 a. m. Miss Leona Hogan is advisor of the group.

The Cedar Grove Emergency Squad which is the fire fighting unit of that area, has scheduled a meeting to be held Thursday, Feb. 4 at 7 p. m. in the Cedar Grove firehouse.

The regular scheduled meeting of the Couples Club of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement was held Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sagazie of Mt. Marion. For the more hardy members of the club the program called for sleigh riding on nearby hills. However, there also were indoor activities and refreshments. A film strip was shown in connection with the motion picture, Martin Luther, which opens at the Kingston Theatre Thursday night. Eugene Davis, president of the organization, announces that a new program committee had been appointed to plan the activities of the group for the ensuing six months. The committee includes William Plimley, Donald S. Fellows and Edward Kiernan. It was also announced that there was 100 per cent attendance at this meeting.

Bridge Wins

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — Two houses and a bridge met on San Gabriel boulevard. The bridge won, but it was the motorist who lost. The house movers with the houses behind their trucks drove into a new underpass. The houses were too tall. For three noisy hours, the highway patrol, police, the movers and stalled motorists worked to turn them around. When they succeeded, blocks-long lines of cars finally began moving.

Why We Say--

Handicaps are well known to horse race enthusiasts, although few of these fans probably ever think of what the word means. Handicap is merely a single form of the two words hand and cap, because before a race, all of the horses' names are put into a cap and each owner puts his hand in to pull out the position number of his entry.

New Hurley

New Hurley, Feb. 3—Thomas Watkins of Walden called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell Tuesday afternoon.

All-America Way

Trinity Lutheran Beats Presbyterians, 81 to 47

Senior Church Leaders Retain Perfect Record

Trinity Lutheran continued undefeated in the Senior Protestant Church League last night with an 81-47 crusher over First Presbyterian on the MJM boards.

In the companion piece, Progressive Baptist romped over Redeemer Lutheran, 65-37.

Ronnie Marks, Trinity guard, was the individual leader with 26 points and Fisher, of First Presbyterian rimmed 22.

Three other Lutherans scored in double figures—Ronnie Brandt (18), George Baechtle (110) and Denny Lenahan (14). The contest was close only in the first period when Trinity led 19-14. By halftime they had widened their lead to 39-23.

Early Lead Holds Up

Sparked by Davis, who scored 18 points, Progressive Baptists ran Redeemer Lutheran into the boards, 22-4, at the quarter and breezed the rest of the way.

Ski Conditions Reported Good For Weekend

Area skiers are in much better shape than they were a week ago.

Official state Commerce Department reports today listed good conditions at Belleayre Ski Center and fair to good at Highmount and Phoenicia.

Belleayre has five inches of powder on five inches packed. At Highmount there is no new snow but 13 inches of old and the rating is fair.

At the Simpson Memorial slope at Phoenicia, the rating is fair with four inches of wet snow on two inches of old base.

No report was made on Bear Mountain. East Jewett listed 7 powder, 4 settled, good. Grossingers had 3 granular on 2-12 packed, good.

High School '5' At Ellenville

The DUSO League basketball picture is not expected to change much tonight, when the two leaders — Kingston and Poughkeepsie — figure to win handily and Newburgh Academy draws a bye.

In other games, Middletown goes to Liberty and Monticello is at Port Jervis.

Sealtest Five In First Place In Friendship

Sealtest's keglerettes held a three-game lead over J. Ellis Briggs at the end of first round of action in the Friendship league.

The pacemaker had a record of 35 wins and 16 losses.

Marie Kelekian, who rolled 658 this week, led the individual averages with 173.8 and high triples with 589, Edna Peterson's 231 was high single.

Nats Dominate Knicks Series

(By The Associated Press)

The important four-game New York Knickerbocker - Syracuse series was in the books today and the Nationals had plenty to cheer about.

The Nats took three of the games and cut the Knicks' lead in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association to only 2½ games. The only loss Syracuse sustained in the four-tilt set was by 66-65 in New York last Saurday.

Last night, the Nationals rallied in the second half for a 90-82 victory as New York was able to score only 11 points in the third quarter.

In other games, the Minneapolis Lakers outscored the Baltimore Bullets 82-70 and the Philadelphia Warriors squeezed by the Boston Celtics 80-78.

A 35-point performance by Carl Braun wasn't enough for the Knicks. They got off to a 26-19 first quarter lead but Syracuse whittled it to 48-45 at halftime.

Cox in Fold

Brooklyn, Feb. 5 (AP)—Third baseman Billy Cox of Brooklyn agreed to terms for his 1954 contract today at an estimated $20,000 salary. Dodger officials indicated Cox received a slight raise. His estimated pay for '53 was $18,000. Cox, 34, hit .291 in 100 games last year, his best in the National League. His total of 10 home runs also was his highest in the majors.

Solves Tough 5-6 Alleys for 246, 243, 203 Scores

Jennie Spada Shoots 554 in Central Women

The legend of the "tough" 5 and 6 alleys at the Bowlodrome is beginning to wear thin.

Hudson Valley League keglers assaulted the lanes for terrific scores a few weeks ago. Last night, Chris Robinson took them apart in the Ferraro Major with a 692 blast on solos of 246, 243, 203.

Robinson's series was the last of a half dozen hefty slams proving that maybe the trundlers could use a better mental approach on those drives.

Jennie Spada Hits 554

Jennie Spada, the Central Rec Women's sharpshooter, was back in the groove with a nifty 554 30-framer at the Central drives. She rolled games of 213, 145 and 196. In the same loop, Dot Rawding fired 511 and Ellen Hutton hit 500.

Ferraro Major produced nine counts of "600" or better. Behind Robinson came Frank Russano with 604, Ken Joseph 610, Frank Leskie 605, Jake Charter 658, Johnny Ferraro 616, Larry Petersen Jr. 609, Tom Carlino 601, Larry Weishaupt 643.

Joan Garafola High

Joan Garafola's 448, with 135-153-160, led the Hercules Women's loop. Mary Diamond's 440 was high series.

Esther Naigles was star of the Sisterhood League with 138-169-160 for 467. At New Paltz, Tess Badalamenti (189) and Geraldine Hotaling (497) shared Nite Cap league honors.

Art Crist (216) and J. Peterson 556 were high men in the Federation American.

Detroit, Feb. 4 (AP)—Men of long-standing football fame were there, to be sure, but it seemed all eyes were focused on a young man who was a comparative unknown only a week ago.

Young Terry Brennan, new head coach at Notre Dame, was making his first major public appearance last night at the Detroit Times Downtown Quarterback dinner, and he handled himself with a sureness that usually only comes with years of experience.

Impeccably dressed, the handsome 25-year-old Irishman told an intent audience:

"I've stepped into some big shoes which can only be filled by hard work. I'm going to provide that hard work."

IBC Beats Rap In Anti-Trust Suit

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—The government has lost its civil anti-trust suit against the International Boxing Club of New York and Illinois.

After hearing 40 minutes of argument yesterday, Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan threw out the monopoly action, saying he was following a principle used by the U. S. Supreme Court last fall in dismissing an anti-trust action against organized baseball.

In an action brought in March, 1952, the government accused the IBC of conspiring to violate the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by monopolizing championship bouts.

Ruled Noonan:

"I feel the principle in this case is the same as that decided in the Supreme Court (in the baseball case) and I will follow Judge (John C.) Knox's ruling in the Shubert case."

Knox had ruled that the Shubert's legitimate theatres were in the entertainment field and not subject to anti-trust laws.

Robinson Slams 692 in Major League

All-America Way

Jennie Spada Shoots 554 in Central Women

The legend of the "tough" 5 and 6 alleys at the Bowlodrome is beginning to wear thin.

Hudson Valley League keglers assaulted the lanes for terrific scores a few weeks ago. Last night, Chris Robinson took them apart in the Ferraro Major with a 692 blast on solos of 246, 243, 203.

Robinson's series was the last of a half dozen hefty slams proving that maybe the trundlers could use a better mental approach on those drives.

Jennie Spada Hits 554

Jennie Spada, the Central Rec Women's sharpshooter, was back in the groove with a nifty 554 30-framer at the Central drives. She rolled games of 213, 145 and 196. In the same loop, Dot Rawding fired 511 and Ellen Hutton hit 500.

Ferraro Major produced nine counts of "600" or better. Behind Robinson came Frank Russano with 604, Ken Joseph 610, Frank Leskie 605, Jake Charter 658, Johnny Ferraro 616, Larry Petersen Jr. 609, Tom Carlino 601, Larry Weishaupt 643.

Joan Garafola High

Joan Garafola's 448, with 135-153-160, led the Hercules Women's loop. Mary Diamond's 440 was high series.

Esther Naigles was star of the Sisterhood League with 138-169-160 for 467. At New Paltz, Tess Badalamenti (189) and Geraldine Hotaling (497) shared Nite Cap league honors.

Art Crist (216) and J. Peterson 556 were high men in the Federation American.

Trinity Lutheran Beats Presbyterians, 81 to 47

Senior Church Leaders Retain Perfect Record

Trinity Lutheran continued undefeated in the Senior Protestant Church League last night with an 81-47 crusher over First Presbyterian on the MJM boards.

In the companion piece, Progressive Baptist romped over Redeemer Lutheran, 65-37.

Ronnie Marks, Trinity guard, was the individual leader with 26 points and Fisher, of First Presbyterian rimmed 22.

Three other Lutherans scored in double figures—Ronnie Brandt (18), George Baechtle (110) and Denny Lenahan (14). The contest was close only in the first period when Trinity led 19-14. By halftime they had widened their lead to 39-23.

Early Lead Holds Up

Sparked by Davis, who scored 18 points, Progressive Baptists ran Redeemer Lutheran into the boards, 22-4, at the quarter and breezed the rest of the way.

Ski Conditions Reported Good For Weekend

Area skiers are in much better shape than they were a week ago.

Official state Commerce Department reports today listed good conditions at Belleayre Ski Center and fair to good at Highmount and Phoenicia.

Belleayre has five inches of powder on five inches packed. At Highmount there is no new snow but 13 inches of old and the rating is fair.

At the Simpson Memorial slope at Phoenicia, the rating is fair with four inches of wet snow on two inches of old base.

No report was made on Bear Mountain. East Jewett listed 7 powder, 4 settled, good. Grossingers had 3 granular on 2-12 packed, good.

High School '5' At Ellenville

The DUSO League basketball picture is not expected to change much tonight, when the two leaders — Kingston and Poughkeepsie — figure to win handily and Newburgh Academy draws a bye.

Leading the conference with nine straight wins, Kingston High travels to Ellenville where only a red hot Bob Pomeroy could cause them concern. Poughkeepsie figures to murder Fallsburg at the Bridge City gym this afternoon.

In other games, Middletown goes to Liberty and Monticello is at Port Jervis.

Sealtest Five In First Place In Friendship

Sealtest's keglerettes held a three-game lead over J. Ellis Briggs at the end of first round of action in the Friendship league.

The pacemaker had a record of 35 wins and 16 losses.

Marie Kelekian, who rolled 658 this week, led the individual averages with 173.8 and high triples with 589, Edna Peterson's 231 was high single.

(By The Associated Press)

The important four-game New York Knickerbocker - Syracuse series was in the books today and the Nationals had plenty to cheer about.

The Nats took three of the games and cut the Knicks' lead in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association to only 2½ games. The only loss Syracuse sustained in the four-tilt set was by 66-65 in New York last Saurday.

Last night, the Nationals rallied in the second half for a 90-82 victory as New York was able to score only 11 points in the third quarter.

In other games, the Minneapolis Lakers outscored the Baltimore Bullets 82-70 and the Philadelphia Warriors squeezed by the Boston Celtics 80-78.

A 35-point performance by Carl Braun wasn't enough for the Knicks. They got off to a 26-19 first quarter lead but Syracuse whittled it to 48-45 at halftime.

Cox in Fold

Brooklyn, Feb. 5 (AP)—Third baseman Billy Cox of Brooklyn agreed to terms for his 1954 contract today at an estimated $20,000 salary. Dodger officials indicated Cox received a slight raise. His estimated pay for '53 was $18,000. Cox, 34, hit .291 in 100 games last year, his best in the National League. His total of 10 home runs also was his highest in the majors.

National League teams will prepare for the 1954 season by playing a total of 223 exhibition games in 24 states and the District of Columbia.

Hudson Cagers Defeat JCC Squad On Local Court, 63-36

Jewish Community Center cagers stepped out of their class last night and suffered a 63-36 whipping at the hands of the veteran Hudson JCC cagers at the George Washington school gym.

The Columbia county quintet led 14-9 at the quarter 25-15 at halftime. They controlled both boards and bewildered the locals with sharp passwork.

Two of the Hudson sharpshooters combined for 40 points, Hallenbeck hitting 21 and Teator 19.

Mark Silk and Irv Lessick scored 9 each for Kingston and Harry Levy had eight.

Jerry Levenson and Danny Levy made their debut with the local squad. Coach Al Most has indicated that the squad will be strengthened by the addition of Elvin Rose, who will be with the team for the return game with Poughkeepsie next Thursday.

Jayvees Start Drills

Earlier in the evening, Coach Most and Center director, Sam Gaber, greeted members of the new Jayvee team and immediately plunged into the first practice session.

The Jayvees meet Sunday at 12:30 with director Gaber to organize the team. Eddie Zwick, a members of the Center's JCC coeds, is serving as temporary manager. All JCC juniors are invited to attend Sunday's meeting.

Lesser Lights Lead Phoenix Open Golf

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 5 (AP)—Lesser known lights in tournament golf, headed by Australian Peter Thomson of Melbourne and Jack Harden of El Paso, dominated the picture today as play continued into the second round of the $10,000 Phoenix Open.

The 24-year-old Thomson, runnerup to Ben Hogan for the British Open championship last summer and former Australian Open titlist, and Harden, 40, a club pro who plays a few tournaments each winter, yesterday rapped out 64's seven strokes under par.

Tacoma, Wash.—Pat McMurtry, 181, Tacoma, knocked out Tommy Demers, 176, Sandpoint, Idaho, 1.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

On day last fall, eighty three boats checked back at the boathouse on Lake Merced with a total of 377 trout. That's not unusual for this big California fish pond, but hold your noses, gents—they were all caught on cheese. Process cheese that comes in a jar, to be exact.

Who started using cheese to catch trout is unknown, but according to the man who operates the boathouse, local cheese sales have tripled. This is no surprise to your agent, and I will tell you why.

Days of Yore

When I was a youngster I lived on the Delaware river in upper New York. We had a creamery just outside of town which processed milk for shipping, and one of the waste products that was piped into the river was milk curd. This would flush out into the stream in cheesy chunks, and to say the trout thrived on it is an understatement.

The biggest, fattest fish you ever saw lived around the outlet pipes. The local talent used to get sticky wads of curd from the milk house and use them for bait. Tourist type fishermen could never understand why fishing was so lousy in the Elm Tree Hole, and when the boys explained it was because the fish ate cheese, out-of-towners thought we were pulling their waders.

Waste Products Dangerous

Waste milk or milk products are as dangerous in the river as they are beneficial. During the summer months, when the river got low and the current was no longer fast enough to dilute the curd, this same food that made the trout so fat killed them. The waste would settle to the bottom and deoxygenate the water.

We had some mighty serious fish-kills over the years, especially in the headwater section of the East Branch. Although fishery workers have considered using cheese for fish food in hatcheries, the oxygen demand of this solid makes the menu too risky.

I have caught trout, bass, pickerel, and chubs on cheese. I have also caught them on strips of ham (which is not too far removed from a pork rind bait). Maybe a cheese-and-ham combo would be just the ticket for Old Fighter or whatever his name might be; maybe you and I have been overlooking the world's best bait. The California lads are playing it smart.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

They're off! Cloppity - clop - clop, out of the chute! "Old man depression" is in the race!

The leftwingers, the soapbox agitators, the jugglers of gloom are on the firing line, with redundant outbursts of predictions of disaster — tough times ahead.

Mr. Hutton

Employment, wages, farm incomes—going down.

The leftwing "dealers" — demagogues, with more and more to come — howling like alley cats, of fear and trouble ahead. Their technique — slimy and cunning — "the end justifies the means." It's their vehicle to win elections — and, to hell with the country.

Gloom and strikes will do the trick. Let's go, boys — and keep "old man depression" in the saddle!

Then - cloppity - clop - clop — you can hear it coming. It's revoltin', but sure fire, and good clean politics — so think the alley cats. To good Americans, it's dirty and malicious.

Twenty years ago the "dealers" put a hair shirt on our backs. Now the most conducive element to itching is the inability to scratch.

The above words may not keep us from scratching — but less and less of the political cloppity - clop - clop of the "dealer" will relieve the itch.

Do you itch, neighbor?

As Pegler Sees It

was manager of a ranch at San Cristobal, N. M., near the atomic energy research center, or whether she ever visited this ranch.

Of course, she also refused to say whether she was or ever had been a member of the Communist party, but Mr. Morris introduced an official document showing that one of the reasons for the award of $27,000 to her by the UN was the fact that she stated "on more than one occasion" that she never had been a party member.

Mrs. Bazer described herself as an editor and sketchily traced her career from her graduation from Wellesley in 1926. After postgraduate study at Columbia and in Switzerland she got into a situation which in 1953 put her to the necessity of refusing to say whether she went to Moscow in 1934 and stayed there until 1937. She refused to say whether she had "Communist training" in Moscow, whether she ever knew Anna Louise Strong, whose political record is notorious, or ever was a correspondent of the Universal Trade Press Syndicate or a writer for the Moscow Weekly News.

Documentary statements which she had made in the past included claims that she had worked for the Hartford Courant and had written for the New York Times, Christian Science Monitor, Boston Globe and London Observer. She was drawing about $9,000 a year from the United Nations when she lost her job. This was the second time she had been laid by the heels on suspicion of her attachment to the Soviets political arm in the United States.

She got her first government job with the Farm Security Administration in 1938 and bounced from job to job in the bureaucratic network until she went to Paris "on assignment" to work at the General Assembly of the UN in 1948.

Older worked for Pearson from 1944 to 1947.

Pearson's propaganda has in turn scoffed at and minimized the Amerasia raid, the key to the betrayal of China to Soviet Russia; depicted the Chinese Reds later encountered in war in Korea as harmless "agrarians" and pleaded for army commissions for Red veterans of the Spanish Communist Army without disclosing that they were Communists.

Lately he has been trying to prove that he is an inveterate and courageous Red-baiter.

Marines Enlist 21 Area Recruits; To Train Together

Enlistment of 21 men from the Kingston recruiting area has been announced by Technical Sergeant Charles C. Awkerman, non-commissioned officer in charge of the local Marine Corps recruiting office.

Five of the enlistees are from Kingston and the 16 others are residents of other sections of the Ulster county area.

The 16 area recruits will help make up a battalion at Parris Island, S. C., to be known as the Yankee Marine Battalion, representing the northeastern section of the U. S. Recruits from Ulster, Dutchees, Sullivan, Orange and Putnam counties will be added to this group.

According to Sgt. Awkerman, the five-county area recruits will receive their "boot" training together in a unit to be known as the Mid-Hudson Marines and will later join the Yankee Marine Battalion.

To Form New Group

Another such group is being former from this area now, Sgt. Awkerman pointed out, and added that the men will leave Thursday, Feb. 25. Any men interested in this group enlistment program are urged to visit the local Marine Corps office for details. Those making applications for this plan will leave together, be enlisted together and receive their basic training as a unit at Parris Island.

Among the Kingston recruits who left recently for "boot" training were Richard L. Petro, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Petro, 422 Hasbrouck avenue; Walter F. Murray, Jr., 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Murray, 296 Third avenue; John F. Kelly, Jr., 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kelly, 100 Elmendorf street; Joseph F. Buboltz, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Buboltz, 43 Jarrold street and George F. Sickler, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Sickler, Sr., 138 Newkirk avenue.

Paul Bryant Is New Coach At Texas A&M

College Station, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP)—Paul (Bear) Bryant, noted rebuilder of football fortunes, comes here next week to start doing a job on the sagging Texas Aggies at the highest salary ever paid a coach in Aggieland—$15,000 a year.

The handsome, personable coach of Kentucky yesterday accepted a 6-year contract and will succeed Ray George as head man of football and also will take over the job of athletic director.

Texas A&M obtained Bryant after a month's search during which it raised its sights from a 3-year contract at $12,000 a year to the proposition that could lure the big fellow from a top job at Kentucky. He had nine years to go on his contract there and Kentucky was paying him a salary variously placed at $12,000 to $17,000 a year.

George, who in three years as head coach at $10,500 a year won 12 games while losing 14 and tying 4, resigned Jan. 4 amid rumblings of discontent from the alumni.

A&M hasn't won a Southwest Conference championship since 1941.

Bryant pulled Maryland from the doldrums in 1945 with a 6-2-1 record, then moved to Kentucky where, in eight years, he won 60 games, lost 23 and tied five, and had his team in four bowl games. His first year at Kentucky saw him compile a 7-3 record—the best at the school in 34 years. He won the Southeastern Conference championship in 1950.

Byrant was given a free rein in naming his assistants and he also will say whether Barlow Irvin, the present athletic director, stays in the athletic department.

Hudson Cagers Defeat JCC Squad On Local Court, 63-36

Jewish Community Center cagers stepped out of their class last night and suffered a 63-36 whipping at the hands of the veteran Hudson JCC cagers at the George Washington school gym.

The Columbia county quintet led 14-9 at the quarter 25-15 at halftime. They controlled both boards and bewildered the locals with sharp passwork.

Two of the Hudson sharpshooters combined for 40 points, Hallenbeck hitting 21 and Teator 19.

Mark Silk and Irv Lessick scored 9 each for Kingston and Harry Levy had eight.

Jerry Levenson and Danny Levy made their debut with the local squad. Coach Al Most has indicated that the squad will be strengthened by the addition of Elvin Rose, who will be with the team for the return game with Poughkeepsie next Thursday.

Jayvees Start Drills

Earlier in the evening, Coach Most and Center director, Sam Gaber, greeted members of the new Jayvee team and immediately plunged into the first practice session.

The Jayvees meet Sunday at 12:30 with director Gaber to organize the team. Eddie Zwick, a members of the Center's JCC coeds, is serving as temporary manager. All JCC juniors are invited to attend Sunday's meeting.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

On day last fall, eighty three boats checked back at the boathouse on Lake Merced with a total of 377 trout. That's not unusual for this big California fish pond, but hold your noses, gents—they were all caught on cheese. Process cheese that comes in a jar, to be exact.

Who started using cheese to catch trout is unknown, but according to the man who operates the boathouse, local cheese sales have tripled. This is no surprise to your agent, and I will tell you why.

Days of Yore

When I was a youngster I lived on the Delaware river in upper New York. We had a creamery just outside of town which processed milk for shipping, and one of the waste products that was piped into the river was milk curd. This would flush out into the stream in cheesy chunks, and to say the trout thrived on it is an understatement.

The biggest, fattest fish you ever saw lived around the outlet pipes. The local talent used to get sticky wads of curd from the milk house and use them for bait. Tourist type fishermen could never understand why fishing was so lousy in the Elm Tree Hole, and when the boys explained it was because the fish ate cheese, out-of-towners thought we were pulling their waders.

Waste Products Dangerous

Waste milk or milk products are as dangerous in the river as they are beneficial. During the summer months, when the river got low and the current was no longer fast enough to dilute the curd, this same food that made the trout so fat killed them. The waste would settle to the bottom and deoxygenate the water.

We had some mighty serious fish-kills over the years, especially in the headwater section of the East Branch. Although fishery workers have considered using cheese for fish food in hatcheries, the oxygen demand of this solid makes the menu too risky.

I have caught trout, bass, pickerel, and chubs on cheese. I have also caught them on strips of ham (which is not too far removed from a pork rind bait). Maybe a cheese-and-ham combo would be just the ticket for Old Fighter or whatever his name might be; maybe you and I have been overlooking the world's best bait. The California lads are playing it smart.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

They're off! Cloppity – clop – clop, out of the chute! "Old man depression" is in the race!

The leftwingers, the soapbox agitators, the jugglers of gloom are on the firing line, with redundant outbursts of predictions of disaster — tough times ahead.

Mr. Hutton

The bureaucratic liberals hooting from the housetops. Hungry political buzzards ready to feed upon the remains of prosperity.

Employment, wages, farm incomes—going down.

The leftwing "dealers" — demagogues, with more and more to come — howling like alley cats, of fear and trouble ahead. Their technique — slimy and cunning — "the end justifies the means." It's their vehicle to win elections — and, to hell with the country.

Gloom and strikes will do the trick. Let's go, boys — and keep "old man depression" in the saddle!

Then – cloppity – clop – clop — you can hear it coming. It's revoltin', but sure fire, and good clean politics — so think the alley cats. To good Americans, it's dirty and malicious.

Twenty years ago the "dealers" put a hair shirt on our backs. Now the most conducive element to itching is the inability to scratch.

The above words may not keep us from scratching — but less and less of the political cloppity – clop – clop of the "dealer" will relieve the itch.

Do you itch, neighbor?

Of course, she also refused to say whether she was or ever had been a member of the Communist party, but Mr. Morris introduced an official document showing that one of the reasons for the award of $27,000 to her by the UN was the fact that she stated "on more than one occasion" that she never had been a party member.

Mrs. Bazer described herself as an editor and sketchily traced her career from her graduation from Wellesley in 1926. After postgraduate study at Columbia and in Switzerland she got into a situation which in 1953 put her to the necessity of refusing to say whether she went to Moscow in 1934 and stayed there until 1937. She refused to say whether she had "Communist training" in Moscow, whether she ever knew Anna Louise Strong, whose political record is notorious, or ever was a correspondent of the Universal Trade Press Syndicate or a writer for the Moscow Weekly News.

Documentary statements which she had made in the past included claims that she had worked for the Hartford Courant and had written for the New York Times, Christian Science Monitor, Boston Globe and London Observer. She was drawing about $9,000 a year from the United Nations when she lost her job. This was the second time she had been laid by the heels on suspicion of her attachment to the Soviets political arm in the United States.

She got her first government job with the Farm Security Administration in 1938 and bounced from job to job in the bureaucratic network until she went to Paris "on assignment" to work at the General Assembly of the UN in 1948.

Pearson's propaganda has in turn scoffed at and minimized the Amerasia raid, the key to the betrayal of China to Soviet Russia; depicted the Chinese Reds later encountered in war in Korea as harmless "agrarians" and pleaded for army commissions for Red veterans of the Spanish Communist Army without disclosing that they were Communists.

Find Correct Play; Join the Experts

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

How should South play for his ninth trick in today's hand? He begins with eight tricks in top cards and needs only one additional trick to make his contract.

West opened the deuce of spades, dummy played low, and East put up the jack to force out declarer's ace. What should South do next?

When the hand was actually played, declarer played a low diamond and finessed dummy's jack. East won with the queen of diamonds and shifted to a low heart. This was the beginning of the end for South.

Declarer finessed the jack of hearts but West won with the king. West returned the nine of hearts and was allowed to hold the trick. He continued with his last heart, forcing out South's ace.

South next cashed the top diamonds, hoping that the suit would break 3-3. It didn't, so declarer cashed his four club tricks, discarding a diamond from the dummy. He then led a spade toward the dummy, hoping that West had the king.

As it turned out, East had the king of spades and was then able to take the setting trick with the last heart.

The correct line of play is very easy to find as Frank Perkins points out in his excellent collection of hands, Vital Tricks. East played the jack of spades at the first trick, thereby indicating that he didn't have the ten. South can therefore develop a trick by leading a spade at an early stage and finessing dummy's eight of spades.

A careful declarer would probably cash the four club tricks first, discarding a heart from dummy, since the opponents might immediately have trouble in finding safe discards.

South should continue by finessing dummy's eight of spades. If, by some mischance, this play fails, South will still be in position to try a diamond finesse later on.

List Now Totals 261

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The list of organizations the attorney general regards as subversive now totals 261. Twenty more were added yesterday, the Justice Department said, after they either did not contest their designation as subversive or failed to provide the required details report. The list of 261 organizations includes some duplications, since some groups have used more than one name.

Alcohol 'Take' Cited

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP)—New Yorkers last year drank nearly 385 million gallons of taxable alcoholic beverages—equal to 25.6 gallons each for the state's 15 million residents. Allen J. Goodrich, president of the State Tax Commission, reported yesterday that the sales of 384,710,263 gallons were the highest since 1950 but short of the record 1946 binge of 399,558,027 gallons. On a per capita basis, beer accounted for 22.6 gallons and whiskey 1.5 gallons. The rest was spread over the five other classes of taxable beverages.

Find Correct Play; Join the Experts

Written for NEA Service

How should South play for his ninth trick in today's hand? He begins with eight tricks in top cards and needs only one additional trick to make his contract.

West opened the deuce of spades, dummy played low, and East put up the jack to force out declarer's ace. What should South do next?

When the hand was actually played, declarer played a low diamond and finessed dummy's jack. East won with the queen of diamonds and shifted to a low heart. This was the beginning of the end for South.

Declarer finessed the jack of hearts but West won with the king. West returned the nine of hearts and was allowed to hold the trick. He continued with his last heart, forcing out South's ace.

South next cashed the top diamonds, hoping that the suit would break 3-3. It didn't, so declarer cashed his four club tricks, discarding a diamond from the dummy. He then led a spade toward the dummy, hoping that West had the king.

As it turned out, East had the king of spades and was then able to take the setting trick with the last heart.

The correct line of play is very easy to find as Frank Perkins points out in his excellent collection of hands, Vital Tricks. East played the jack of spades at the first trick, thereby indicating that he didn't have the ten. South can therefore develop a trick by leading a spade at an early stage and finessing dummy's eight of spades.

A careful declarer would probably cash the four club tricks first, discarding a heart from dummy, since the opponents might immediately have trouble in finding safe discards.

South should continue by finessing dummy's eight of spades. If, by some mischance, this play fails, South will still be in position to try a diamond finesse later on.

List Now Totals 261

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The list of organizations the attorney general regards as subversive now totals 261. Twenty more were added yesterday, the Justice Department said, after they either did not contest their designation as subversive or failed to provide the required details report. The list of 261 organizations includes some duplications, since some groups have used more than one name.

Alcohol 'Take' Cited

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP)—New Yorkers last year drank nearly 385 million gallons of taxable alcoholic beverages—equal to 25.6 gallons each for the state's 15 million residents. Allen J. Goodrich, president of the State Tax Commission, reported yesterday that the sales of 384,710,263 gallons were the highest since 1950 but short of the record 1946 binge of 399,558,027 gallons. On a per capita basis, beer accounted for 22.6 gallons and whiskey 1.5 gallons. The rest was spread over the five other classes of taxable beverages.

NOTICE OF SALE

COUNTY COURT, ULSTER COUNTY —THE HOME-SEEKERS' SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF KINGSTON, NEW YORK, Plaintiff, against LESTER S. HYMES AND JABER MUSTAPHA, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above entitled section and bearing date the 21st day of January, 1954, I, the undersigned, the Referee in the judgment named, will sell at public auction at the entrance of the Ulster County Court House in the City of Kingston, New York at 11:00 a. m. on the 19th day of February, 1954, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:-

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate, lying and being in the City of Kingston, in the County of Ulster, in the State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the southerly street line of Meadow street, said point being south 63 degrees 45 minutes west 80.03 feet from the intersection formed by the southerly street line of Meadow Street with the westerly street line of Chambers Street and running thence from said point of beginning south 23 degrees 49 minutes east 74.65 feet to a point; thence south 30 degrees 46 minutes east 45.80 feet to a point; thence south 56 degrees 32 minutes west 21.60 feet to a fence post; thence along an old fence north 30 degrees 32 minutes west 94.83 feet to a fence post; thence north 24 degrees 07 minutes west 29.35 feet to a point on the southerly street line of Meadow Street; thence along said southerly street line of Meadow Street north 65 degrees 45 minutes east 26.97 feet to the place of beginning.

Being the westerly portion of Lot No. 108 of the Meadow Lots of Jansen Hasbrouck.

The bearings and distances south 23 degrees 49 minutes East and south 30 degrees 46 minutes East are the center line of a driveway.

The party of the first part for himself, his heirs and assigns reserve the use and enjoyment for the purpose of driveway a strip of land four feet in width adjoining the premises hereby conveyed to the northwest of said Center line. The party of the first part grants to the party of the second part the use and enjoyment for the purposes of a driveway of a strip of land four feet in width adjoining the premises hereby conveyed to the northeast of said center line. The two parcels each of a width of four feet together forming a driveway eight feet in width and extending from Meadow Street southeasterly to the rear line of the property, forming a common driveway for the use and enjoyment of the party of the first part and the party of the second part. Said Right of Way is to be an open Right of Way and to be in no manner obstructed.

Being the same premises conveyed by Jaber Mustapha to Lester S. Hymes by Deed dated August 2, 1950 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Deed Book 772 at 527 simultaneously with this mortgage which is given to secure a part of the purchase price.

LouisBruhnNamed Cancer Chairman

LOUIS G. BRUHN

Cancer Control month will begin April 1 as designated by the United States Congress, it was announced today. Louis G. Bruhn, former district attorney of Ulster county, will be general chairman of the drive in this county, and has chosen Hugh Elwyn as his assistant.

It is expected that the campaign will be preceded by a dinner to which all people interested in the drive are invited. The date of this event will be announced.

Every town in the county will have a chairman for the area, with more than 1,500 persons expected to participate in this campaign. The quota for Ulster county has not yet been released by the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society. However, last year's total was $14,600 and it is expected that the amount will be greater this year.

During the campaign, the national headquarters will keep the local units informer of the progress throughout the country. In view of the importance of cancer research, it is hoped by the chairman, that this campaign will attract the attention of the public for the support of the drive.

Home Bureau

Hurley Meeting

Hurley Home Bureau Unit will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday, Feb. 11 at 10:30 a. m. with Mrs. George Brown demonstrating the preparation of sea foods, which will be served for lunch.

Members planning to attend are asked to phone reservations to Mrs. Brown, 4780-J, or Mrs. Lester Stagg 1021-W-1 before February 8.

The business meeting will be held at 1:30 p. m. featuring a talk by Mrs. Edward Harms on Staying Alive as Long as You Live.

Hurley Heights

Hurley Heights Home Bureau will meet at the home of Mrs. Charles Goble, Hurley, Monday at 8 p. m. Program requests will be received at this time. Mrs. Stantial will discuss, Easier Ways With Household Tasks.

Plank Road

The regular monthly meeting of the Plank Road Home Bureau unit will be held at Boice's Hall, Onteora Trail, Tuesday evening, February 9, at 7:45 o'clock.

Since no meeting was held in January, the election of officers will take place at this meeting. Refreshments and a motion picture will follow.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Horace Boice, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Weidner H. Davis and Mrs. Lee Boice.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Feb. 4—Lester Ganoe of the Sawkill area was numbered among callers in the hub of the reservoir country Monday.

William H. Jackson, veteran of service in Korea, has resumed his duties with the New York Telephone Company in Kingston. Billy and his wife, the former Elaine Malacuso, are making their home at Ashokan.

Leonard F. Ruckert of the village center writes local friends from his winter home in North Miami that he and Mrs. Ruckert are enjoying fine weather down there. The couple expect to return to Shokan about April 1 following a visit with their daughter, Anna Zanis, in Kentucky.

Grover C. Winchell well-known South Olive fire insurance company director and retired farmer, called on friends here Saturday.

Otto Rast, who was very ill the latter part of the year, was well enough Tuesday to make a trip to Kingston by bus.

William Jordan, octogenarian retired farmer of Brodhead, was a business caller in Shokan recently. Will, since selling his large farm in the High Point neighborhood of Olive, has resided on Route 28A, not far from the old homestead.

Birthdays falling Saturday, Feb. 6, include that of Mrs. Alfred Iapoce of the Onteora Trail. The former Elizabeth Brown of Atwood has two boys, John and Toni. Having a birthday February 8 is John Hauser, who makes his home with his daughter, Marie, and son, George, a member of the Ashokan Reservoir force. The Hauser family came here from Brooklyn seven years ago after buying the Louis Thiel farm along the trail.

Tuesday's balmy weather must have started the maple sap circulating at increased tempo, while next morning brought one of those proverbial "sap snows" which in this caes was followed by a drizzling rain. The warm spell, a welcome surcease from the chilling rigors of late January, was reminiscent of days in the old village (now 40 years under water) when most every householder got out a few of those long spiles, fashioned from sumach wood, together with their complement of tin pails to harvest a modicum of Dame Nature's initial mid-winter sweets offering.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Johnson, Delaware county dairy farmers, stopped here Sunday to look over the interesting items at the corner store museum and thrift shop. Wilbur has relatives in Olive and his wife, a Home Bureau member in the Margaretville area, is a grand-niece of Harriet Beecher Stowe whose Uncle Tom's Cabin had a sale greater than that of any preceding fiction.

There are reports that local egg production has been unusually good the past few weeks despite a succession of nose-diving temperature readings during that period.

Charles Jackson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jackson of Ashokan, who completed a tour of duty with the navy at Fort Lyautey, French Morroco, was transferred to the staff of the commander of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean area. When the admiral recently removed his flag from the heavy cruiser Des Moines to the U.S.S. Newport News, Bud went with him to the new post. The local boy, a K. H. S. and Moran School alumnus, has visited many points in Italy, Spain, Portugal and France since joining Uncle Sam's navy. Mrs. Jackson before her marriage last year was Carol Barringer.

Mrs. Frank Roosa and daughter, Elinor Faulkner, who for many years made their home on the one-time Jules Breucheaud place, reportedly have taken up residence in Kingston for the winter. The family owns the old John Thompson place near the Bear Spring and High Point to which the late Frank Roosa made many improvements during the past few years (John Thompson, school teacher and Civil War veteran of service in the Virginia Campaign, was a grandfather of John Marshall of Olive Bridge).

Former residents calling here recently included the sisters, Jane Greene and Mary Gaffken, both of Kingston. They are daughters of C. Eugene and Hattie (Weidner) Krom whose farm home lay along the east side Esopus creek road in days before the waterworks. Mrs. Greene, who now lives on Pearl street, plans to sell her Ashokan residence.

RalstonAnnounces Topic for Feb. 18

"A Scotsman Looks at America" is expected to be the topic of the talk by Cameron Ralston, internationally known lecturer, at the annual Washington Day Dinner sponsored by the Men's Club of the First Dutch Church on Thursday, Feb. 18.

Ralston came into the national spotlight as executive secretary of the Chicago Committee of One Hundred in its offensive against Al Capone and other gangsters. His background includes teaching at Washington and Jefferson College, and directing public forums for the U. S. Department of Interior, Office of Education.

He was born and raised in Paisley, Scotland, home of the famous shawls, and came to the United States in 1914. His lectures, while containing a worthwhile message, are interspersed with humor to the delight of his audiences.

The dinner will be served in Bethany Hall of the First Dutch Church. Stuart Randall is general chairman, and Edward DeWitt is in charge of tickets. G. Herbert DeKay is publicity director. A limited number of tickets will be available from members.

The Washington Day Dinner is an annual observance dating back to 1923, when it was inaugurated by the late Rev. Dr. Lucas Boeve. Dinners have been held yearly except for two years during World War 2. Nationally known speakers who have appeared in the past include Franklin D. Roosevelt when he was governor; U. S. Senator Joseph Robinson; Mark Sullivan, Herald Tribune colunmist, and the Rev. Norman Vincent Peale.

Musical Program Heard by Kiwanis

A musical program was enjoyed by members of the Kiwanis Club at the regular luncheon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday.

Mrs. Elmor Nathan, contralto, sang, Danny Boy, and Through the Years. Kiwanian Raymond Myers, tenor, offered When I Have Sung My Song, and All the Things You Are. Myers and Mrs. Nathan then joined in a duet, Moonlight and Roses.

Vly-Atwood Ladies Form Auxiliary

At a meeting held Monday at The Vly there was formed a Ladies' Auxiliary of The Vly-Atwood Fire Department. Officers were elected and a committee was named for the next meeting which will be held the first Monday in March. Plans were also made to hold a card party on March 6 and a committee to arrange for the party was named.

Mrs. V. Russell was elected president of the auxiliary; Matilda Haupt, vice-president; Doris Miller, secretary and Lillian Wurster, treasurer. Others attending the meeting were Mrs. I. Havet, Florence Palen, Marion Palen, Lena Stella, Marion Spongia, Doris Parker, Vivian Waterfall, Mrs. Czwesinka, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Eck.

Named on the committee to arrange for the card party was Marion Spongia, Vivian Waterfall, Doris Parker and Marion Palen.

Considers Case Closed

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP)—Gov. Dewey said yesterday he considered the Wicks case closed. He referred to Sen. Arthur H. Wicks' visits to labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay in Sing Sing prison. Dewey forced the resignation of Wicks as Senate leader because of the visits. Wicks' explanation was that he sought Fay's help in preserving labor peace in Wicks' district. Dewey also was asked at a news conference, "what about Sen. (William) Condon?" The Yonkers legislator was listed by the Correction Department as having visited Fay twice. The governor replied that for 100 years the law has authorized legislators to visit state prisons.

17-Floor Plunge Hurts Pedestrians

New York, Feb. 5 (AP)—Carmen Patino, 34, is in a serious condition today, one of two survivors of a horror that is the stuff of nightmares.

Miss Patino and her sister were among hundreds of persons strolling around Bowling Green in the early afternoon yesterday. So was Mitchell Esberg, 27, brokerage house employe.

Suddenly a body plummeted down from the 17th floor of a skyscraper. There were cries of terror from the crowd, and the body hit.

Miss Patino and Esberg went down with it.

Esberg suffered severe leg injuries. Miss Patino was knocked unconscious. Her sister, Mercedes, 23, became hysterical.

The dead man was Robert M. Robertson, 53, a $40-a-week clerk for a law firm. In his pocket police found an eviction notice and a note begging "someone" to care for his family.

There are 860,000 adult volunteer leaders in the Boy Scouts of America.

LouisBruhnNamed Cancer Chairman

LOUIS G. BRUHN

Cancer Control month will begin April 1 as designated by the United States Congress, it was announced today. Louis G. Bruhn, former district attorney of Ulster county, will be general chairman of the drive in this county, and has chosen Hugh Elwyn as his assistant.

It is expected that the campaign will be preceded by a dinner to which all people interested in the drive are invited. The date of this event will be announced.

Every town in the county will have a chairman for the area, with more than 1,500 persons expected to participate in this campaign. The quota for Ulster county has not yet been released by the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society. However, last year's total was $14,600 and it is expected that the amount will be greater this year.

During the campaign, the national headquarters will keep the local units informer of the progress throughout the country. In view of the importance of cancer research, it is hoped by the chairman, that this campaign will attract the attention of the public for the support of the drive.

Home Bureau

Hurley Meeting

Hurley Home Bureau Unit will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday, Feb. 11 at 10:30 a. m. with Mrs. George Brown demonstrating the preparation of sea foods, which will be served for lunch.

Members planning to attend are asked to phone reservations to Mrs. Brown, 4780-J, or Mrs. Lester Stagg 1021-W-1 before February 8.

The business meeting will be held at 1:30 p. m. featuring a talk by Mrs. Edward Harms on Staying Alive as Long as You Live.

Hurley Heights

Hurley Heights Home Bureau will meet at the home of Mrs. Charles Goble, Hurley, Monday at 8 p. m. Program requests will be received at this time. Mrs. Stantial will discuss, Easier Ways With Household Tasks.

Plank Road

The regular monthly meeting of the Plank Road Home Bureau unit will be held at Boice's Hall, Onteora Trail, Tuesday evening, February 9, at 7:45 o'clock.

Since no meeting was held in January, the election of officers will take place at this meeting. Refreshments and a motion picture will follow.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Horace Boice, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Weidner H. Davis and Mrs. Lee Boice.

Editors, Others To Hear Curran

The annual dinner meeting given by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. for editors, representatives of resort organizations and members of the Ulster County Publicity Committee will be held Monday at 7 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel, this city.

Edward F. Curran, of Albany, a member of the legislative committee on the multiple residence law, will talk on the statute as regards resort operators and will outline the minimum requirements of the act.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Feb. 4—Lester Ganoe of the Sawkill area was numbered among callers in the hub of the reservoir country Monday.

William H. Jackson, veteran of service in Korea, has resumed his duties with the New York Telephone Company in Kingston. Billy and his wife, the former Elaine Malacuso, are making their home at Ashokan.

Leonard F. Ruckert of the village center writes local friends from his winter home in North Miami that he and Mrs. Ruckert are enjoying fine weather down there. The couple expect to return to Shokan about April 1 following a visit with their daughter, Anna Zanis, in Kentucky.

Grover C. Winchell well-known South Olive fire insurance company director and retired farmer, called on friends here Saturday.

Otto Rast, who was very ill the latter part of the year, was well enough Tuesday to make a trip to Kingston by bus.

William Jordan, octogenarian retired farmer of Brodhead, was a business caller in Shokan recently. Will, since selling his large farm in the High Point neighborhood of Olive, has resided on Route 28A, not far from the old homestead.

Birthdays falling Saturday, Feb. 6, include that of Mrs. Alfred Iapoce of the Onteora Trail. The former Elizabeth Brown of Atwood has two boys, John and Toni. Having a birthday February 8 is John Hauser, who makes his home with his daughter, Marie, and son, George, a member of the Ashokan Reservoir force. The Hauser family came here from Brooklyn seven years ago after buying the Louis Thiel farm along the trail.

Tuesday's balmy weather must have started the maple sap circulating at increased tempo, while next morning brought one of those proverbial "sap snows" which in this caes was followed by a drizzling rain. The warm spell, a welcome surcease from the chilling rigors of late January, was reminiscent of days in the old village (now 40 years under water) when most every householder got out a few of those long spiles, fashioned from sumach wood, together with their complement of tin pails to harvest a modicum of Dame Nature's initial mid-winter sweets offering.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Johnson, Delaware county dairy farmers, stopped here Sunday to look over the interesting items at the corner store museum and thrift shop. Wilbur has relatives in Olive and his wife, a Home Bureau member in the Margaretville area, is a grand-niece of Harriet Beecher Stowe whose Uncle Tom's Cabin had a sale greater than that of any preceding fiction.

There are reports that local egg production has been unusually good the past few weeks despite a succession of nose-diving temperature readings during that period.

Charles Jackson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jackson of Ashokan, who completed a tour of duty with the navy at Fort Lyautey, French Morroco, was transferred to the staff of the commander of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean area. When the admiral recently removed his flag from the heavy cruiser Des Moines to the U.S.S. Newport News, Bud went with him to the new post. The local boy, a K. H. S. and Moran School alumnus, has visited many points in Italy, Spain, Portugal and France since joining Uncle Sam's navy. Mrs. Jackson before her marriage last year was Carol Barringer.

Mrs. Frank Roosa and daughter, Elinor Faulkner, who for many years made their home on the one-time Jules Breucheaud place, reportedly have taken up residence in Kingston for the winter. The family owns the old John Thompson place near the Bear Spring and High Point to which the late Frank Roosa made many improvements during the past few years (John Thompson, school teacher and Civil War veteran of service in the Virginia Campaign, was a grandfather of John Marshall of Olive Bridge).

Former residents calling here recently included the sisters, Jane Greene and Mary Gaffken, both of Kingston. They are daughters of C. Eugene and Hattie (Weidner) Krom whose farm home lay along the east side Esopus creek road in days before the waterworks. Mrs. Greene, who now lives on Pearl street, plans to sell her Ashokan residence.

RalstonAnnounces Topic for Feb. 18

"A Scotsman Looks at America" is expected to be the topic of the talk by Cameron Ralston, internationally known lecturer, at the annual Washington Day Dinner sponsored by the Men's Club of the First Dutch Church on Thursday, Feb. 18.

Ralston came into the national spotlight as executive secretary of the Chicago Committee of One Hundred in its offensive against Al Capone and other gangsters. His background includes teaching at Washington and Jefferson College, and directing public forums for the U. S. Department of Interior, Office of Education.

He was born and raised in Paisley, Scotland, home of the famous shawls, and came to the United States in 1914. His lectures, while containing a worthwhile message, are interspersed with humor to the delight of his audiences.

The dinner will be served in Bethany Hall of the First Dutch Church. Stuart Randall is general chairman, and Edward DeWitt is in charge of tickets. G. Herbert DeKay is publicity director. A limited number of tickets will be available from members.

The Washington Day Dinner is an annual observance dating back to 1923, when it was inaugurated by the late Rev. Dr. Lucas Boeve. Dinners have been held yearly except for two years during World War 2. Nationally known speakers who have appeared in the past include Franklin D. Roosevelt when he was governor; U. S. Senator Joseph Robinson; Mark Sullivan, Herald Tribune columnist, and the Rev. Norman Vincent Peale.

Musical Program Heard by Kiwanis

A musical program was enjoyed by members of the Kiwanis Club at the regular luncheon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday.

Mrs. Elmor Nathan, contralto, sang, Danny Boy, and Through the Years. Kiwanian Raymond Myers, tenor, offered When I Have Sung My Song, and All the Things You Are. Myers and Mrs. Nathan then joined in a duet, Moonlight and Roses.

Vly-Atwood Ladies Form Auxiliary

At a meeting held Monday at The Vly there was formed a Ladies' Auxiliary of The Vly-Atwood Fire Department. Officers were elected and a committee was named for the next meeting which will be held the first Monday in March. Plans were also made to hold a card party on March 6 and a committee to arrange for the party was named.

Mrs. V. Russell was elected president of the auxiliary; Matilda Haupt, vice-president; Doris Miller, secretary and Lillian Wurster, treasurer. Others attending the meeting were Mrs. I. Havet, Florence Palen, Marion Palen, Lena Stella, Marion Spongia, Doris Parker, Vivian Waterfall, Mrs. Czwesinka, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Eck.

Named on the committee to arrange for the card party was Marion Spongia, Vivian Waterfall, Doris Parker and Marion Palen.

Considers Case Closed

Albany, Feb. 5 (AP)—Gov. Dewey said yesterday he considered the Wicks case closed. He referred to Sen. Arthur H. Wicks' visits to labor extortionist Joseph S. Fay in Sing Sing prison. Dewey forced the resignation of Wicks as Senate leader because of the visits. Wicks' explanation was that he sought Fay's help in preserving labor peace in Wicks' district. Dewey also was asked at a news conference, "what about Sen. (William) Condon?" The Yonkers legislator was listed by the Correction Department as having visited Fay twice. The governor replied that for 100 years the law has authorized legislators to visit state prisons.
